THE MARKETS.

Wall Street Review.

New York, Aug. 2 .- The futility of the efforts New York, Aug. 2.—The futility of the efforts made this week to awaken any interest in the stock market or to effect a movement of prices that offered any chance for attractive profus for trades resulted in a very small attendance this morning of even that class of dealers on the board. There is no trace of any other operations than those by traders. This morning's market, by a consequence, made perceptible progress towards the condition of absolute stagnation to which it has been tending all the week. Appairable in the market was left wholly to the devices of the small ream traders. There was no evidence of the existence of stop less selling orders on unity the market was left whosily to the devices of the small room traders. There was no evidence of the existence of stop loss selling orders on the one hand or of supporting orders on the one hand or of supporting orders on the other. Accordingly the professionals tound their imited operations quite effective in moving nices. But the operation of taking profits, either to selling long stock to realize or by covering shorts reveals the fictitious claracter of the movement and neutralizes it. Today's report of sub-treasity operations shows that the government institution took from the money market some $490,000, in spite of the fact that thesks were payable on the first of the money market some $490,000, in spite of the fact that their some sequent flowers. There is usually some delay about the presentation of these checks, but a balance in favor of the sub-treason on an interest, payment day is maint and calls attention to the constant requirements upon the money market by reason of the revenue surplus. Tomorrow's hank statement was not under discussion in the day's speculation. Indications point to an unimportant change in the cash reserves, but the change in the loan item is likely to be affected by the payment of some heavy syndication of a sugar refinery in opposition to the American sugar refinery in opposition to the American sugar refinery in opposition to the American sugar company. # ARCTIC DELICACIES.

Frozen Weeds, Seal Oil, Walrus Meat Hide and Hair.

Youth's Companion. This is the way an Eskimo lady sits at the head of her table and dispense hospitality, and these are the delicate items in her bill of fare. They wer tested at first hand by W. H. Gilder. chen, in crossing Siberia, at the north he had to accept native customs with what grace he might. No matter how early you may awak en in the morning, you will always find the mistress of the house already up-that is, her position has changed from reclining to sitting. But as soon as she observes that you are really awake she hands you a small piece meat to steady your nerves until breakfast time.

Then she goes into the next apart ment, which is merely an inclosure for keeping the dogs away from the stores and after fifteen minutes of pounding and chopping returns with the breakfast.

on the floor, and the landlady takes her position at one end in the attitude elegantly described as squatting. Th family and their guests gather around the board on either side, lying flat on their stomachs, with their heads to ward the breakfast and their feet out. The first course is some frozen weeds mixed with seal oil and eaten with small portions of fresh blubber, which the lady of the house cuts with a large chopping nife. The next course is walrus meat. Thi is also cut up by the presiding lady, and is served with no unstinting hand At this portion of the meal the on who can swallow the largest piece without chewing has the advantage and the only way to get even with him is to keep one piece in your mouth and two in your hand.

After this joint has been thoroughly discussed there comes a large piece of walrus hide, which has a small portion of blubber attached, and the hair still on the outside. It is about an inch thick and very tough, so that it is impossible to affect it by chewing It is therefore cut into very small pieces by the hostess, and finishes the meal. Really, it is the most palatable

Labor's Greatest Weakness.

Marvin Hughitt, of the great Northwesters says that the weakness of labor today i its lack of locally. The labor emissis, to a large extent, have weakened locally to the employer. They attempt the false and impossible work e bringing all men down to the same level of not differentiating as to abilities, and they divide the thought of the employe. He cannot be also lutely loyal to a union and give the same loy alty to the employer. A corporation, like a rull road, needs the highest kind of skilled labor in nearly every branch of its work. It is willing to pay well for that labor. It is willing to premore deserving men. It does not wish to dis charge men. It is to its own best interests to save good men and to take care of them .- Every
