BATTLE OF

WHITNEY DESCRIBES A QUEER CONFLICT AT LANESBORO.

Vigorous Opposition to the Order to Remove the Orphans' School from Harford-Thrilling Tale of Little August Schmidt's Battle with the American Bird of Freedom-News Told-Brief Paragraphs.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Susquehanna, Aug. 6. - Near the Canawacta creek, in Lanesboro, water snake met a black snake on Monday. The reptiles did not immediately clinch, but hissed flercely and circled around each other, as if seeking for an opening. The water snake was much the smaller of the combatants, and he was evidently trying to transfer the battle to the stream, some twenty yards away. The black snake showed a lively anxiety to prevent this. He pressed matters and the serpents began to strike at each other, and in a few seconds the dry land snake succeeded in getting the tail of his opponent into his mouth, and, to preclude all possibility of an escape, began to eat oward the head.

This was exactly what the water line for the stream and his consumer following him and diving upon him simultaneously, was, of course, obliged to travel a little faster in the same direction. The water snake was a rapid mover, and the black snake a quick eater, and for a short time it seemed to be doubtful whether one reptile or two would be visible when the stream was gained.

About half of the leading serpent's anatomy had been devoured, and the edge of the water was only a few feet away, when the black snake suddenly realized that a shabby trick was being played upon him at meal time. He hastily attempted to disgorge his repast, but the effort was made too late Not more than five inches of water snake had been yielded up when both reptiles plunged into the stream and sank at once. A hundred bubbles arose, and the only spectator of this uncanny contest believes that the black snake's life floated to the surface in one of

THE SHORT OF IT.

The order of the state Soldiers' Orphans' school commission, to remove the pupils in the Harford school to other points, is meeting with vigorous opposition herabouts. It would be a change without an improvement. Let the orphans alone.

It is expected that the Republican county convention, to be held at Montrose on Thursday, will be short, sharp at Monigomery, N. Y., on Monday. It is probable that boodleism will be knocked higher 'n the kite of the late lamented Mr. Gilderov. It is said that certain politicians are promising the state senatorship to half a dozen men in this county. They cannot deliver the goods, The preachers are enjoying their well earned vacations. Somehow, newspaper men-and, incidentally, the devil take very few vacations.

IN SUSQUEHANNA COUNTY.

The flow of natural gas from the Salt Springs section is still limited. Why don't the projectors run pipes into the Montrose newspaper offices and be sure of a big supply? According to a Forest City writer in the Honesdale Independent, people are moving away from Forest City because of the execrable condition of the water in the borough. The great Dimock camp meeting begins on Wednesday, August 21, and

FOUGHT WITH AN EAGLE.

As little August Schmidt, 10 years old was playing with his sister near Pleasant Mount, a few days since, an enormous American eagle pounced upon them, throwing the little girls to the ground. The bird fastened his claws into one of the arms and face of the younger girl and attempted to the child off, but was prevented by her struggles. Little August, seeing that he could do nothing with his own hands, ran into the house and got a carving knife, and returning to the scene of battle, slashed at the ragle's legs, nearly severing one of them. The eagle released the girl and attacked the boy, lacerating him and tearing his clothes nearly off. The screams of the children attracted the attention of the mother, who was at a neighbor's. She grabbed a hatchet and attacked the eagle, which flew up on a barn. Joe Decker, a passing hunter, shot and killed the eagle, which measured nearly eight feet from tip to tip of wings. The children will recover in a few days.

THE MARKETS.

Wall Street Review.

New York, Aug. 7.-Business today was on a reduced scale and there was a more general disposition to curtail operations pending the settlement of the steel strike. The announce ment over might of a general externion of the strike order caused some hesitancy at the outset in the general market, but aside from a sharp dip at the end of the first hour and again toward the close the tendency was distinctly upward of the day for Atchison, St. Paul, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, which accounted for the Rev.
