ASKED FOR FISH BUT GIVEN COAL

A Fish Story With and Without the Fish in Which D. & H. Men Figure in a Game of Pleasantry.

There's a good story being passed around at the city station of the Delaof the generosity of Cante it. Smith,

Mr. Smith is as much a lover of the sport of fishing as-well, as Chief Mc-Nuity, Constable Michael Moran or John Gubert and he doesn't have to

On his way home he could almost smell its savory odor, so vivid was his imagination. One can imagine it better than it can be described how disappointed, disgusted, disgruntled and sore he was to find that instead of bass there were two pieces of coal carefully wrapped in tissue paper. Parry didn't take any fish that night; but he did take something else; he took a long breath and vowed he would get square with Smith. The whole thing was a trick of Smith's, thought Parry, but he consoled himself with the thought "there would come a time some day.

When Parry and Smith met the next day, Smith naturaly expected that Parry would make some sort of comment about the fish, about how good they were, that "they were the bass he ever ate," or "they were daisies, Claude, where did you get 'em?" But not a word; only a ook that meant "Oh, never mind, it's right, but I'll get square some

Smith, on the other hand, put Parry down as a "dead one" who couldn't appeciate a good thing. Thus they continued, one thinking that the other

They won't know, either, who it was who substituted the coal for the bass. They might know if it wouldn't be giving somebody away, so they can infer from this that it wasn't either Moon or Chapman. They were too busy with the prospect of eating the fish to be disturbed by such a trifle. A guessing contest will now be in order between Smith and Parry.

'BLACK" DIPHTHERIA SUCCEEDS SMALL POX

The Village of Simpson Has Two Deaths and Three Cases in Which the Symptoms Are Quite Severe. The Fell Township School Board Orders a Strict Quarantine the Same as Observed in Small Pox

The fears of smallpox in the village of Simpson have given way to those of another malignant disease-"black" diphtheria.

Two children died yesterday of what physicians of this city, who were summoned, pronounced as malignant diphtheria, and two other children in the same household are likewise afflicted, one being sick almost to death. The sickness broke out in the house hold of Philip Gogots, an Austrian, The physicians who, were called on Sunday night, found the throats of the children, four in number, terribly inflamed and cankered. The symptoms were clearly that of diphtheria of a malignant type, commonly called "black" diphtheria, the physicians Two of the children grew agreed. worse until they succumbed, one late Sunday night and the other yesterday morning. Of the other children, one is dangerously ill; the other has but a mild attack. How long the children have been sick, the physicians could not determine.

The school board of Fell township which has jurisdiction in such cases, has ordered a strict quarantine to be observed at the Gogots home. The quarantine will be as rigid as during the existence of the smallpox, Something that is giving the officials concern is the congregating of persons in the Gogots house on Sunday night. The doctors who attended the patients advised and warned the members of the household to confine themselves to the house and not to mingle with any neighbors. Instead of following this admonition, the house was virtually thrown open and a "wake" was held. From now on, however, none of the family will be permitted to leave or enter the house until danger of infection is parsed.

Great Preparations for This Remarkable Annual Festivity-A Grand Excursion from Scranton, Wilkes-Barre and Vicinity.

Saratoga is making great preparations for her annual floral fete, which occurs September 4, 5 and 6, and no expense is being spared to make the coming occasion excel all others, al-though people who witnessed the feta last year thought it almost impossible to surpass it. King Rex, who was the central figure in the New Orleans Mardi Gras, is now at Saratoga superntending the preparations. On his trip north he was attended by one hundred ourtiers and scores of pretty maids. and he says that he proposes to duplicate the New Orleans Mardi Gras fete The Sunday school teachers' meeting at Saratoga, and open the deautiful north to the gorgeous and beautiful way in which festivals are conducted in sunny Louisiana. He has with him all the knights and ladies who have made the New Orleans Mardi Gras the eighth wonder of the world, and who now propose to make the Saratoga, floral fete the ninth. Two months ago his resplendant floats and golden chariots and bejeweled processional robes were sent to the New York watering place, to be used in the coming fete, and the people of this vicinity will have an opportunity to witness a duplication. In the grand parade, which occurs September 5, there will be more than twenty floats, covered with ural flowers and costing from $8,000 to Saturday from New York city, sent by $12,000 each. Upon these there will be over one hundred characters in the richest costumes. The scene is one which beggars description. At the grand ball, which follows in the evening, dancing takes place on a great floor covering two blocks, and is superintended by a committee of one hunfred ladies and one hundred gentlemen, whose costumes are literally covered with flowers set forth by tiny electric lights. On this, the principal days of the fete. September 4 and 5, a grand excursion will be run over the Delaware and Hudson railroad to accommodate the large number of people of Scranton, Wilkes-Barre and these valleys who wish to witness the wonderful pageant and the grand ball which follows. Trains leave the Delaware and Hudson station, Scranton, at 6.20 a. m. and 3.52 p. m. The price of tickets, covering the round trip, has been placed at the remarkably small figure of $4 for adults and $2 for children, and those who take advantage of this opportunity will not only be permitted to witness the grandest display of the age, but will also visit the greatest summer resort in the country-Saratoga Springs. The excursion will be conducted by the Father Mathew T. A. B. society, and hotel accommodations have been arranged for 1,000
