The Davis Tragedy.

The chief topic of conversation throughout West Scranton yesterday was the double tragedy enacted Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Davis, on North Bromley avenue, where now Lie the lifeless bodies of husband and wife, the victims of domestic unhappiness.

The only plausible theory advanced for the crime is the fact that Davis was tired of the unpleasant relations which existed between himself and wife and had fully made up his mind to end it all, as he did.

The only intimation of his intentions was made to his sister a few days be fore the tragedy, when Davis said his misery would soon be ended. It was generally known among his relatives and friends that he was disconsolate

Double House of William Mills at No. 1132 Thompson Street Was Badly Wrecked by the Sinking of the Surface - Marriage of Raymond De Pue and Miss Margaret Jehu. Ceremony Was Performed by Rev. R. G. Reese at the Parsonage. Personal Notes.

Another serious settling of the surface over the workings of the Bull's Head Coal company occurred early vesterday morning and caused greater excitement than did either of the other two caves of the past two months This time the disturbance reached into Thompson street section, and is evidently a continuation of the squeeze which began showing itself in that direction three weeks ago.

The disturbed area of yesterday overs a tract that is fully two hundred feet square. It is marked by holes several feet in depth and twenty to thirty feet in diameter, and by fissures which extend in every direction, and some of which gape several inches. The greater force of the cave yesterday morning seems centered about the large new double house of William Mills at No. 1132, the first after passing the culm bank on the right-hand side of Thompson street, going west from North Main avenue, A depres ion is seen all around the house which has gone down nearly four feet, with the foundation walls torn and tumbled into the hole formed under the building. The house is somewhat tilted to the east, and its interior is badly damaged, the floors and furniture having been covered by fallen plaster.

The house was occupied on the one side by Mr. Mills and his family, and the other side was tenanted by Abraham Wadeville. Both families were aroused from their slumbers by the going down of the house and the crashing of the plaster about them. They got out of the wrecked building as quickly as they could, and during the day moved their household effects elsewhere. The damage to the Mills property will not be much short of a thousand dollars. The cave-in caught the easterly side of the lot next adjoining on the west, and extends to the gutter on the southerly side of Thomp son street, and thence toward Mair avenue. A portion of the culm bank extends on the caved section. The mine is operated by Messrs.

Providence Coal company in its lease of the workings about a year ago.

A Pretty Wedding.

A pretty wedding took place Saturday evening at the parsonage of the Puritan Congregational church, on Margaret avenue, when Raymond Depue, a well known young man of this section, residing on Oak street, was united in bonds of holy matrimony to Miss Margaret Jehu, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Jehu, of Wayne avenue, the ceremony being performed by Rev. R. G. Reese. They were attended by Henry G Hobbs and Miss Priscilla Hartwell. The bride and maid were dresses of blue and pink, trimmed with satin and lace, carrying large bouquets of carnations. The young married couple received many handsome and costly presents. They will make their hor on Oak street in the near future.
