RESTAURANT WAITER'S SHORT, WILD CAREER

"Dick" Joyce, of the Imperial Dining Rooms, and an Unknown Companion Make Away With a Gold Watch and Other Jewelry and Several Suits of Clothes, and Give Constable Neary a Lively Chase Before Being Apprehended — The Stranger Escapes.

Richard Joyce, of Pittston, who has been a trusted employe of Coddington & Thompson's Imperial restaurant, on Main street, since it was opened a few months ago, started on a wild but short-lived career of dissipation a few days ago which ended in his being arrested about 4.30 yesterday afternoon and held in $1,000 bail before Alderman Jones on the charge of felony, the theft of a gold watch belonging to Edward Coddington, one of his employers, other small jewelry and several suits of clothes.

Joyce had a companion in his wild doings, a stranger, a young man who is supposed to have some from Scranton. He escaped, but Constable Neary is on a chase after him and will likely apprehend him before today is over.

The circumstances surrounding the capture of Joyce were marked by the liveliest kind of excitement. The running away of the horse which Joyce and his companion used to cart their trunkful of plunder to the railroad station where they ordered it sent by express to Mahanoy City; their adroit move to get out of town by the trolley car to avoid suspicion; their being dragged off the car at Archbald by Constable Neary; their struggle of resistence in which Joyce was overpowered and his companion escaped—were some of the stirring happenings that furnished the heap of excitement.

Joyce worked as usual in the restaurant until yesterday noon, when he asked and was given permission to go to Crystal lake with the young man who proved to be his partner in crime. Joyce didn't return from the lake until 2 o'clock yesterday morning, when he and his companion pulled up in front of the restaurant, their clothes spattered with mud and with other evidences of their having had the "good time." They were intoxicated and the carriage in which they were seated was broken.

Yesterday forenoon Joyce came to the restaurant, but he was not allowed to go to work. The proprietors were displeased with his conduct and after giving him what wages were due him, discharged him. He left the restaurant and from there went to the house on Salem avenue where he lodged. This place is in rooms where Coddington and the employes also slept. It is supposed that Joyce's companion assisted him in despoiling the wardrobes of the rooms, for when caught he was wearing a coat and vest of a suit belonging to Martin Connor, another waiter in the restaurant. The best of the clothes in the rooms were taken and packed in Joyce's trunk. The plunder embraced three complete suits of Coddington's and an extra pair of trousers, his mackintosh, a few shirt waists and the suit belonging to Connor. Coddington's overcoat was also taken from his trunk. The jewelry box in the room was rifled and besides Coddington's gold watch, valued at $60, a stud, a pin and two pairs of cuff buttons, beside a brooch, the property of the sister of Coddington, were taken. The watch was found later in Joyce's possession, and the other jewelry in the pockets of the coat of the stranger, which he slipped from and left in the hands of Constable Neary in escaping.

After packing the trunk, Joyce engaged a horse at a livery and drove with the plunder to the Ontario and Western depot, where the pair ordered it to be sent by express to Mahanoy City. While they were in the depot the horse, which was left untied, took fright at a passing engine and ran off down River street as far as the city station, where it was caught. The buggy during the run was badly damaged.

Coddington in the meantime discovered that the rooms had been despoiled, and suspecting Joyce, hastened to Alderman Jones for a warrant for his arrest. Constable Neary was given the warrant, but on reaching the Ontario and Western depot learned that the pair left after checking the trunk and had probably taken the trolley car to leave town, as there were no trains which they could have taken meantime.

Constable Neary jumped on the 3.50 train on the Delaware and Hudson and got off at Archbald, from where he telephoned to Carbondale for a description of the men which his hurried departure prevented him from getting. The first south-bound trolley car was boarded by the constable and on one of the seats he spied the fleeing pair. He grabbed them, hustled them off the car and started for the Ontario and Western depot to catch the train from Scranton due here at 4.44. They had started on the trip, when Joyce, who was in an ugly humor and inflamed with drink, commenced to resist. The scruggle was taken as a cue by the other to make his exit and cleverly wriggling from the coat by which he was held, he darted off, leaving the garment in the hands of the constable, who was busy trying to master Joyce. The escaping prisoner ran with all speed and mounting a culm pile, was soon lost to view. Joyce fought fiercely and as a last resort to free himself he grabbed the constables hand and sank his teeth into the fleshy portion of the palm. Neary has handled too many desperate characters to be at a loss to act when hard pressed and after employing a few of his "tricks" Joyce gave in and became docile. On reaching the city the prisoner became stubborn and refused to accompany the constable. Neary was obliged to use nippers to avoid a scene on the public thoroughfare.

At the hearing Joyce admitted having taken Coddington's watch. He wouldn't tell any of the circumstances of the theft, nor would he disclose the identity of his companion. He was unable to furnish the $1,000 security fixed by Alderman Jones and he was sent to the county jail.

After the hearing Joyce balked again and when he refused to go to his cell he was handcuffed to a pillar in the alderman's office. He created another scene when he was secured and began to butt his head against the pillar by way of illustrating that he could do damage to himself there as well as in his cell if he cared to.

In the pockets of the coat worn by Joyce's companion, which was the property of another employe of the restaurant, was a certificate of membership in the railroad department of the Young Men's Christian association of New York city, bearing the name of George W. Bates; a book of meal coupons from a St. Louis restaurant and a leather wallet from a dealer in a West Virginia town; also several cooking recipes. The stud, pin and cuff buttons taken from Coddington's room were also found in the pockets.

While in Scranton last evening Constabe Neary learned that the stranger's name is George W. Bates, alias Richard Livingston, and that he was formerly employed at the Coney Island quick lunch on Penn avenue.

BROKE THROUGH QUARANTINE.

Michael Fogat Paid a Visit to This City.

Michael Fogat, of Simpson, caused a sensation here yesterday. He is the father of the three children who died recently of black diphtheria and his house has since been quarantined, one of his children being still ill with diphtheria.

Yesterday Fogat escaped from the quarantine and came here. He was seen and recognized and Sanitary Officer Moffatt was notified. Fogat said he was going to Mayfield, but Moffatt would not have it so. He said Gogat should go home and Gogat went.

Moffatt put Gogat in the middle of the road and Moffatt walked in front of him telling people to keep away. A citizen who volunteerd his services walked behind Gogat and prevented his escape. Gogat was compelled to walk from Carbondale to his home. He came to town on a trolley car. At Simpson Officer Moffatt saw a baker delivering goods at a house which is quarantined.

Tomorrow's Ball Game.

Never before in the history of base ball in this city has so much interest been aroused by any game as that between Carbondale and Honesdale, which takes place tomorrow at Lake Lodore. It is not alone the base ball crank that is filled up with the subject, but every man, woman and child in the town is constantly discussing the coming contest. Manager Fox is certainly doing everything in his power to bring about a decisive victory for the Crescents, and the club is scarcely doing anything else the past few days but practice. On the other hand, our neighbor is perpetually drilling her nine, and by all accounts it will be great disappointment to the Maple city people if the Tigers were beaten in this game. There will be plenty of rooters on hand to encourage their respective teams, but they will have to keep back and not crowd the diamond as they did in the last game. If the day is pleasant there will be a great crowd at the beautiful lakeside to participate in its manifold pleasures, and listen to Bauer's celebrated band discourse sweet music on the water.

Fresh Air Children Go Home.

The fresh air children sent here by the New York Tribune fund, who spent the past two weeks enjoying the fresh air in the country, returned to their homes yesterday. They were distributed among the homes of Leo Cuddleback, Jeremiah Bennett, Louis Ayers, of Clifford, and Mr. Wells, at Waymart.

A SPLENDID REMEMBRANCE.

Prof. H. J. Hockenberry Presented With Gold Watch by Friends.

Prof. H. J. Hockenberry, who has been one of the town's foremost and most esteemed citizens, is about to locate in the state of Washington, or, rather, has accepted a flattering business offer from the far-off western state, was made the recipient last night of a splendid remembrance by a number of friends from among the congregation of the Methodist church.

Mr. Hockenberry has had charge for a long time of a class of young people of the church, and it was during the meeting of last night that the delightful incident took place. In the midst of the session, Miss Hattie Pascoe interrupted the class to inform Mr. Hockenberry that the members, to whom he had endeared himself and who were bound to him by ties of warm friendship, were desirous of giving him a remembrance which would be a token of their regard for him, and would remind him of the friends he left behind him in Carbondale. She then presented him with a handsome open-face Waltham gold watch. On the inside case was engraved: "To H. J. Hockenberry, August 16, 1901, by his friends."

Mr. Hockenberry responded as well as he could, but he was at a loss to speak at length, so suddenly was he taken by the sincere and substantial expression of the regard of the friends to whom he is strongly united. There is no mistaking, however, how dearly the remembrance will be cherished by Mr. Hockenberry.

FUNERAL OF SISTER M. BASIL.

Solemn Services of the Departed at St. Rose Church.

The late lamented Sister M. Basil, who died at St. Rose convent on Tuesday, was yesterday laid at rest beside the sleeping Sisters in the plot at St. Rose cemetery.

The solemn services of the dead were conducted in St. Rose church and were more impressive than ordinarily, made so by the presence of two hundred Sisters of the order, who have been in retreat at St. Rose convent. Bishop-elect Garvey was the celebrant of the solemn high mass of requiem which was sung. Rev. George Dixon was deacon; Rev. P. F. Lavelle, of St. Patrick's, West Scranton, sub-deacon. Rt. Rev. Bishop Hoban gave the absolution. In the sanctuary were Rev. M. J. Crane, Avoca; Rev. Walter Gorman, of St. Rose; Rev. M. E. Lynott, Jermyn; Rev. Thomas Handley, Honesdale; Rev. T. J. Comerford, Archbald; Rev. Father Judge, Sugar Notch; Rev. P. F. Quinnan, Pittston; Rev. Father Fagan, Great Bend. A slight attack of illness prevented Very Rev. T. F. Coffey from being present.

The music of the mass was sung by a choir of Sisters. At the grave, Bishop-elect Garvey pronounced the absolution.

The pall-bearers were Hugh Powderly, Michael McCann, James Dunleavy, Patrick McCabe, John Murrin, E. P. Burke.

Central Labor Union Picnic.

It was an aggravating disappointment, the putting off of the picnic of the Central Labor union on Thursday, because of the heavy rainfall. Today, however, the labor men hope to be favored with better than the average "picnic weather," and they have made arrangements to accommodate and entertain a great throng at Keleen's grove. The Mozart band will be present with all kinds of dance and concert numbers, and lovers of the dance will be in their element. Abundance of choice refreshments will be on hand also.

Meetings of Tonight.

Division No. 13, Ancient Order of Hibernians; Court Golden Eagle, No. 14, F. of A.; Diamond lodge, No. 26; Shield of Honor, and school board.

THE NEWS IN BRIEF.

The Scranton Railway company has distributed ties along the line from Peckville to Forest City, which are designed to take the place of those which have long since passed being of service. The company expects to be in shape to acceptably handle the big crowds during semi-centennial week.

Great interest is being manifested in the ceremonies that will take place at Lake Lodore on Friday next, "Odd Fellows' Day," when the Degree of Chivalry will be conferred on half a hundred candidates. Olive Leaf lodge of this city will run the excursion on that day.

City Engineer Kupp is doing commendable work in stirring up property owners to conform to the ordinances covering the laying and maintenance of sidewalks. Over a half hundred notices have been served the past few weeks and there will be a decided improvement in the appearance of walks by the time the visitors for the semi-centennial come to town.

Thomas Eaton, track foreman on the Honesdale branch of the Delaware and Hudson railroad, one of the oldest and most faithful of the company's employes, has resigned his position to accept a more favorable one from the Pennsylvania railroad. The news of Mr. Eaton's good fortune will be a source of pleasure to his friends, who are legion.

There will be some interesting events at Lee's park on Tuesday, when a number of local horsemen will enter their flyers. Among the entries are: Levi Patterson's Prince N.; Z. C. Bell's Mildred N.; Sam Cox's Nellie Golden; N. J. Bell's Giftmont, and Garfield Williams' Red Wilkes.

One of the best events promises to be the 2.30 class in which five entries have also been received. They are: G. R. Creveling's Violet; H. S. Pierce's Mary Lot; Henry Pierce's Blackmont; Lafayette Lee's Little Racket and Walter Scurry's Joe B. There will also be a running race. Three Greenfield men have entered horses in the event. A bicycle race also promises to furnish no little excitement.

The Home of Peruna

The Hartman Sanitarium, Columbus, Ohio.

As is well known, Dr. Hartman is the president of the Hartman Sanitarium, an institution which has a department devoted exclusively to the treatment of female diseases. He is thus brought to see thousands of such cases every year the most of whom return to their homes to be treated by correspondence. The principal remedy he relies upon in such cases is Peruna, which every woman should have, who has any affection of this kind.

THE GREATEST OF AMERICA'S SANITARIUMS

In view of the great multitude of women suffering from some kind of female disease, and yet unable to find any cure, Dr. Hartman, the renowned gynaecologist, has announced his willingness to direct the treatment of as many cases as may make application to him during the summer months without charge.

The treatment will be conducted by correspondence. The doctor will prescribe all medicines, applications, hygienic and dietary regulations necessary to complete a cure. The medicines prescribed can be obtained at all drug stores. This offer will prevail during the summer months. Any woman can become a regular patient by sending a written statement of her age, condition of life, history and symptoms of her derangements.

All cases of female disease, including menstrual irregularities, displacements, ulcerations, inflamations, discharges, irritation of the ovaries, tumors and dropsy of the abdomen, should apply at once and become registered as regular patients. All correspondence will be held strictly confidential. No testimonials of cures will be given to the public except by the express wish of the patient.

DISEASES PECULIAR TO THE FEMALE SEX

No one knows better than Dr. Hartman how much women suffer with diseases peculiar to their sex. No one knows better than he does how many of them suffer with such diseases. Patiently, hopefully, wearily, and often silently, they eke out a miserable existence year after year.

A woman confined to the house several years with a chronic female derangement had finally given up all hope of being cured. She had tried physician after physician, and remedy after remedy, without any permanent improvement. Her treatment had cost her husband, who was a poor man, hundreds of dollars. They had been obliged to deny themselves many comforts of life in order to get money enough to pay the physicians.

Picking up the paper one day she happened to read an item which contained the news that Dr. Hartman would treat such cases free of charge by letter. She immediately wrote the doctor, describing her case, and giving him all her symptoms. She soon received a letter telling her exactly what to do and what medicines and appliances to get. She began the treatment (the principal remedy being Peruna) at once, and in a few weeks was well and strong again and able to do her own work.

ONE OF THE 200,000 WOMEN HELPED LAST YEAR.

Another woman who used Peruna without becoming one of Dr. Hartman's regular patients had the following experience. Miss Ida Green writes from Baldwinville, Ga.: "Peruna is wonderful and good, and a certain cure for female weakness. I have been ill and have been taking doctor's medicine for several years, and found that none did me any good.

"Every day it was a worry. I was always sick. I had come to the conclusion to give up, and not use any more medicine. I was sick indeed for the past two years. Just before I began to take Peruna I was very weak, besides I was bilious and constipated.

"I had pains in my back and side and falling of the womb, with bearing down pains.

"One day while reading my newspaper, I came across an ad., read of the book for women entitled, "Health and Beauty," and sent for it. Then I began to use the medicine. After using several bottles, I am now thoroughly cured."

Send for free book entitled, "Health and Beauty." Address Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio.

Michael Burke, of Archbald, had no money to pay street car fare and, being under the influence of liquor, attempted to create a disturbance on a street car on Thursday afternoon. When the car reached a point opposite Hotel Wilson, Conductor E. M. Dobson stopped the car and ejected Burke. As the car was about to start, Burke threw his dinner pail at Dobson. The pail missed Dobson and struck a lady passenger in the face. Burke then went up Prospect street, followed by Officers Snyder and Thompson. After a fierce struggle, Burke decided to accompany the officers to the office of Justice of the Peace S. W. Arnold. Motorman Charles Keller and Conductor E. M. Dobson appeared against Burke. He was held to appear at court. Burke was placed in the borough lockup, and later released on bail.
