THE LABOR UNIONS AND PARK FOUNTAIN

The Painting Done by Non-Union Painters Stirs Up a Heap of Trouble-Central Labor Union Passes Resolutions Asking That the Work Be Done Over Again-The History of the Trouble.

The fountain in Memorial park has had a string of vicissitudes attached to its career this year, and now it is in the midst of a heap of trouble. A few days ago the figure that sur mounts the fountain had her dress renewed. She was made resplendent in while her appearance was strikingly there was a circumstance sucrounding the change that won the disfavor of the Central Labor Union. The painting had been done by nonunion painters in the employ of Frank at meetings of the Central Labor union and which has been placed under the ban by this body. At Sunday's meeting, the painting of the fountain and other fixtures about the park was taken up, and after canvassing the situation the sentiments of the body were expressed in the following resolution:

To J. M. Alexander, Superintendent, and th Members of the Board of Park Compulsioners Whereas, For several years the rights of a ganized labor have been wholly disregarded our body, through your superintendent, in that is painting work in Memorial park has been after year, given to a non-union firm, the Central Labor union has doesned it nece this time to take some action in the matter would be liable to stir up the indignation of the union men and perhaps lead to serious trouble; therefore, for the best interests of all concerned the Central Labor union has Resolved, That the board of park commissions, through its superintendent, J. M. Alexander

MUSCLE AND FIREARMS.

There was a disturbance in the Italian colony in the Dundaff section of the city yesterday forenoon, that during the remainder of the day.

There was a pienic at Lake Lodore preliminaries of the enterprise that the the measure. trouble developed.

Felix Pavini and John Callacina were in the party that was hustling the day's refreshments into the car that was intended to carry the supplies over the mountain. There was on Martin Dockerty by Alderman a heap of bustle and excitement during the work and it seemed a difficult matter to avoid at least some friction. After a bit, things began to warm up between Pavini and Callacena and soon from a heated argument they came to blows. Callacena, it appears, doesn't pose as a Jim Jeffries, but he's no slouch in defending himself. This time he defended himself by flooring his opponent with a bar of iron. This defense was an offense to Pavini, who, wit-ODD FELLOWS' EXCURSION neses declare, flourished a revolver and shot a circle of five rounds about Callacena. The bullets steered clear of the man with the funny name and went into the ground. This display of fireworks ended the outbreak. Callacena seems to have at least conscientious scruples against permitting his neighbors to go about armed and of allowing them to set off such substantial fireworks at will, for he caused warrants to be sworn out before Alderman Jones for Pavini's arrest, on charges of carrying concealed weapons and of discharging firearms on the public thoroughfare. Pavini secured a bondsman and was released.

SPARK FROM AN ENGINE.

Causes Slight Blaze in a Dundaff Street Dwelling.

Yesterday afternoon a spark from a Delaware and Hudson engine was carried to the roof of the dwelling on Dundaff street, owned by the Bridgett estate, and occupied by the family of George Brown. The shingles on the roof were kindled by the spark and the all the colors of her decoration, but blaze was eating its way down to the lower floor when it was discovered. An alarm from box 24 fundaff and Fallbrook streets, brought out the Mitchell and Columbia Hose companies, but their help was not needed. A number of buckets of water, han-& Son, a firm that has been discussed died with expediton, put the business end of the fire out.

The house was insured in the John G. Bridgett agency. There was no insurance on the household goods, a portion of which were slightly damaged by water.

When the alarm was turned in i was not sounded by the bell in the city building tower. This was due to the hammer becoming "gummed," by reason of the fact that so few alarms are sent in. Manager Gilleran, of the Central Pennsylvania Telephone company, who has charge of the appar atus, immediately remedied the trouble and the bell was soon "ding-donging" the location of the box.
