JAMES FEENEY NAMED.

Popular Bellevue Officer Yesterday Appointed Lieutenant-Walsh Declined the Honor.

Director of Public Safety F. I Wormser yesterday afternoon appointed Patrolman James Feeney as lieuenant of police in charge of the central city police precinct at night, to ucceed Louis Goerlitz, reduced to the ranks.

This was the appointment tendered to Patrolman Michael Walsh on Monday, but refused by him for reasons which have been explained to both Director Wormser and Recorder Connell, and which have been accepted as eminently satisfactory by both of these officials. The official order promoting Patrolman Feeney re-assigns Patrolman Walsh to patrol duty "at his own equest," as the order reads.

Lieutenant Feeney has served on the olice force of this city with great redit for fourteen years, having been appointed in 1887 by Former Mayor Ezra H. Ripple. He has always been faithful and conscientious policeman and has never in his long period of service had charges of any nature preferred against him. He is especially copular among his fellow officers and was the center of an admiring throng resterday afternoon, when his apeintment was agionunced. He took charge of the central city recinct last night, and was the re-

THEIR VIEWS DIFFER

West Side Councilmen Not of One Mind on the Question of Paving. Session of the Commoners.

A difference of opinion exists among ome of the West Scranton councilmen as to whether South Main ave nue, between Hampton and Oxford streets, should be paved just now or not. This fact was brought to light at last night's meeting of the common council.

Councilman William Lewis, of the diffeenth ward, introduced an ordinance providing for the payement of the two blocks, in question, with vitrified brick, and moved that it be referred to committee with instructions Councilman A to report forthwith. L. Lewis, of the Fifth ward, objected vigorously to this course of action. He contended that it was not right to put a pave down on the street until a sewer was put in. His fight was useless, however, as the motion prevalled. The ordinance was passed on first and second readings later in the evening and was referred to the city solicitor for an opinion as to its legality. City Solicitor Watson sent in a communication asking whether he should appeal from the award of $700 made by the viewers appointed to estimate the damage caused by the widening of Scranton street. It was referred to the judiciary committee, as was also another communication from the soicitor announcing that in his opinion the claim of A. J. Rogan against the city could not be successfully con-

The following ordinances were passed on third and final reading: Providing for a sewer system in the Tenth ward; the triennial conclave of Knights Templar will be providing for the grading of streets in the second ward; providing for three lights in the First ward: providing for the appointment of four police surgeons; providing for gates at the railroad crossing on Jackson street in Keyser valley; providing for a lateral sewer on Prospect avenue; providing rules and regulations for the sinking fund commissioners. During the consideration of the sewer ordinance Mr. Sykes, the new member from the Thirteenth ward, made his maiden speech. He said that he believed the ordinance should expressly set forth that the sewer inspector should be a person understanding sewer construction so as to prevent the appointment of an engineer or shoemaker or some other person not understanding anything about the work The suggestion was not provocative of any discussion.

HIS VIEWS.

Most of these were papers coming Does Not Propose That the Chief Executive Shall Suffer for Any Delinquency of the Police Officers. and No Officer Need Have Any Fear of Not Being Upheld in Doing His Full Duty-Director Wormser Gives the Men Some Advice.

> In a straight-from-the-shoulder talk terday afternoon, Recorder Connell pledged himself to back up every policeman who discharges his duty faith-

The members of the force gathered in the recorder's large office in the early part of the afternoon in full formed along the lines of duty. dress uniform, and took chairs which had been placed in readiness for them. The officers occupied the front rows and the patrolmen sat behind them. The recorder emerged from his private office about 2.30 o'clock and in response to a command from Superintendent cer. Robling each member present arose until the recorder was seated.

Director of Public Safety F. L. Wormser introduced the briefly explaining that the policemen had been called together that they might understand what the policy of the administration in regard to the popolicemen. He said:

"I see before me many familiar faces have every reason to believe that the latter belong to men who are fust as faithful to their duty as are the older members of the force with whom I am best acquainted. The position of a policeman, gentlemen, is a peculiar one. It does not merely consist, as many people believe, of walking a beat and drawing a salary. "When a citizen takes the oath of this city and of this commonwealth to keep the peace and preserve law and order, he takes upon himself great duties and most serious responsibilities. He becomes a member of a concrete organization and the individual opinion of the man is last. He has no right to express one. He only knows that he must maintain peace and good order and that his duty is to do and die and not to reason why,

"The life of a policeman is not one that is generally sought after by a serious minded man, who carefully considers the daily peril in which a policeman is placed.

"It is important for me, gentlemen as the executive of this city, to be assured that you will stand shoulder-toshoulder and side by side with me, as well as with each other. It is proper that the director should have directed you to be present today, that both he and I may look you in the eyes and see what manner of men you are.

THE INDIVIDUAL POLICEMAN.

"The individual policeman-what of him. Is he only to walk his beat with closed eyes and permit vice and crime to exist, as long as they are under cover? No, gentlemen, he is not, and forcibly as I can that from today the individual policeman will be held individually responsible for the suppression of all forms of vice.

"If the individual policeman permits gambling hells to be run wide-open, if he allows street walking to become rampant or if he permits houses of ill-fame to flourish, the record will be kept against him and the punishment which will follow will be severe.

"The police department is the eye of the adminstration. Through it the adminstration is kept informed of existing conditions, and you must re-member that the administration could be held up to ridicule through the negleet by you of your sworn duty.

"I want you to remember that the purposes of this administration are not empty talk. We are not holding out the idea that this is an especially superfine and virtuous administration. It has made, and probably will make, some mistakes, but let me impress upon you the fact that they have been and will be mistakes of the head rather than of the heart.

Superintendent R. B. Williams and Traveling Passenger Agent John E. Welsh looked after the safety of the guests and, indeed, a great deal of the success of these affairs is due to the energetic way that Mr. Welsh has worked his end of the business. This year a larger number of Scranton's representative business men and their wives went along than ever before. To those who don't know about it, this is an annual affair of the railroad men on the Ontario and Western to which epicures look forward with anticipation. The clam bake is always under the personal supervision of Prof. Ward Edwards, of New York and he is the only one of his kind in existence. All other clam bakes are not in it with the ones he gets up. He takes barrels of clams, sweet potatoes sweet corn, blue fish and spring chicken, lays them on a bed of new mown hay over a ton or so of heated boulders, in an immense hole in the ground, and then covers them over and cooks them slowly by steaming, and when the time comes for serving them everything is found to be nice and sweet, clean and tender and fit for the most discriminating epicure.
