There will also be a matinee Barney Gilmore in "Kidnapped in "New York" will follow on Thursday, Mr. Flyrne has not completed his bookings, but among the attractions for which he has concluded arrangements are:

"The Runaway Girl," William Bra dy's latest success; "Lover's Lane," Chauncey Olcott, a prime favorite in Carbondale, in his new piece, "Garrett O'Mahr"; "The Pride of Jennico," Hoyt's "A Day and a Night," "The House That Jack Built," Mildred Holland, who is assured of a crowded attendance: Dan Hart's "Parish Priest, with Paniel Sully as the star; Sidney Rosenquest's "Village Postmaster, which ran so long at the Fourteenth Street theater, New York city; Frederick Warde, "The Wrong Mr. Wright." the late Roland Reed's play; "Fan-Fan," the Casino success, "The Belle of New York," and the old reliable, T'ncle Tom's Cabin."

It will be a great surprise, when the Grand is opened to receive the public next week, as a goodly sum of money has been judiciously expended to remodel and renovate the theater,

CONCERT AT FERN HALL.

Another Soiree to Be Given on Wednesday Evening.

Those who heard the musical soire which was given at Fern Hall last month will be glad to learn that another concert is to be given at that popular hotel on Wednesday evening, August 24.

This concert, like the first, will be followed by a dance. Mr. Russell and Mr. Hockenherry, who have the Mrs. Henry Berry at Uniondale. 'brunt" of the other affair, will be the chief participants in this concert also. They will be assisted by Miss Daisy Jones, of Carbondale, who will confribute several reading to the programme.

The success of the concert of last month and the interest manifested at that time should augur well for the somee next Wednesday evening. The fact that this will be the last concert be given at Fern Hall this season, should attract a large attendance Mr. Russell, the planist at the hall, will leave for New York the week following the concert, so that the possibility of another affair of the kind is

He offered these for sale at very low prices. About 10 o'clock he entered the wholesale liquor store of Jacob Schermer, and offered to sell two pairs of tine shoes for a dollar and a quarter. Mr. Schermer at once surmised that the shoes had been stolen, and refused to buy, but told the man to step over to the Delaware and Hudson station and he would then buy them. They both entered the waiting room and Schermer, accompanied by Mr. Hubscham, entered the office and informed Mr. Broad of the circumstances. Broad opened the office door and stopped into the waiting room, but the man had vanished, leaving behind the bag of shoes. People standing outside the station saw the man with flying coat tails, headed towards Scranton, and under full sail. ## VENEREED DIAMONDS.

the Most Deceptive of Arti-How ficial Gems Are Made. From the London Tit-Bits.

The demand for jewelry has of late years increased to such an extent that it has been found necessary to cope with it by artificial means. Quite recently, M. Moisson, a French scientist. has discovered how to make real diamonds out of sugar with the aid of electricity, and other savants have been equally successful with carbon. but the stones are small, and do not meet the requirements of the million.

which prefers large jewels at a low Artificial diamonds have been made for more than a hundred years, the process being first discovered by a German named Strass, and the peculiar kind of glass that bears his name exactly resembles the diamond when Strass is nothing more than rock crystal, to which borax, arsenic, potash and other chemicals have added. The ingredients when thoroughly pulverized and sifted are placed in a crucible and subjected to enor mous heat in a furnace. The melting occupies from twenty to thirty-five hours, and skill is needed to see that the proper temperature is maintained or the strass comes out cloudy and utterly useless.

At the expiration of that time the crucible is removed and placed in another chamber, where the heated atmosphere is permitted to gradually cool and solidify the mass, which is then ready to be cut as required. Exactly the same process is followed in making emeralds, except that large proportions of fine white sand and green oxide of chrome are meited into the strass. Opals are by far the most difficult stones to imitate; indeed, it is only within the last decade that they have been successfully copied with the aid of electricity and solution of silicates.

So far the work has been practically easy, but it now becomes difficult in the extreme and only the most skillful workmen are engaged in the department through which the strass next passes. The "diamonds" that are sold for a few pence each are merely pieces of white strass cut by machinery, and a yellow tint can be detected in them. But the more costly gems, though jected to a delicate process known as

"While Mr. Lincoln was living in Springfield, a judge of the city, who was one of the leading and most influential men of the place, had occasion to call upon him. Mr. Lincoln was not over particular in his matter of dress, and was also careless in his manners. The judge was ushered into the parfor, where he found Mr. Lincoln sprawled out across a couple of chairs, colining at his ease. The judge was asked to be seated, and, without changing his position in the least, Mr. Lincoln entered into conversation with

"While the two were talking Mrs. Lincoln entered the room. She was, of course, greatly embarrassed at Mr. incoln's offhand manner of entertaining his caller, and stepping up hehind her husband she grasped him by the hair and twitched his head about at the same time looking at him reprovingly.
