GIRL'S FATAL JUMP.

Nellie Kearney Sprang from Band Wagon into Path of Lackawanna Engine at Taylor.

Miss Nellie Kearney, of 757 Perry street, was instantly killed last night by being struck by an engine at the Oak street crossing of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad, at North Taylor. Miss Kearney was one of a party of twenty-eight young men and women who started from North Scranton in one of Liverman Atherton's handwagons to go to Pittston. Frederick Brown was driving the team, and when the Oak street crossing was reached, about 9:20 o'clock, the headlight of engine No. 829, in charge of Engineer Helma and Conductor Dorsch, was seen approaching. The engine had been engaged in pushing coal cars and was now on its return trip. The wagon cleared the track in safety, but Miss Kearney and a male companion, who were seated on the rear seat, thought a collision was unavoidable and jumped from their places. The young man was badly bruised, but the unfortunate girl fell directly in front of the engine and her body was literally cut in two.

The remains were removed to the establishment of Undertaker J. R. Davis, of Taylor, and later brought to this city. The young woman was about 17 years of age, and the daughter of Mrs. Mary Kearney.

NEW YEAR SERVICES.

Rosh Hashannah Celebrated at Synagogues Last Night—Air of Sadness Pervaded Services.

Services were held in all the synagogues of the city last night in celebration of the beginning of the great Jewish holiday, Rosh Hashannah, or New Year. At the Linden street temple the services were attended by a congregation which taxed to the utmost the seating capacity of the structure. Rev. A. S. Anspacher was in charge of the services and preached an interesting sermon. This great Hebrew festival is regarded the world over in Jewish households as a day of mirth and enjoyment, of pleasure and freedom from care. But there was little of that feeling of mirth and enjoyment in the Linden street temple last night. The shadow of the nation's great sorrow hung over the place of worship and a feeling of depression and gloom prevailed the air. During the early part of the services, the temple was filled with worshippers who whispered to each other as they passed by the aisle, regarding the latest bulletins and the news they conveyed of President McKinley's condition and each succeeding report deepened the feeling of universal sorrow.

GOSSIP OF THE GUARD

ORDER THAT HAS BEEN ISSUED ABOUT RIFLE MATCH.

Purpose of the Matches Arranged for Is to Stimulate Increased Interest in Rifle Practice—Order That Has Been Issued by Colonel Watres with Reference to Rifle Practice, Steps Being Taken to Form an Athletic Association Among Members of the Guard.

A strong effort is being made to excite interest among the members of the regiment in rifle practice. With this in mind, several rifle matches have been arranged for. Yesterday Inspector of Rifle Practice, Lewis B. Carter issued the following order with reference to the coming regimental tournament:

Circular No. 3. A regimental tournament for all officers and enlisted men of this regiment will take place on the Dickson City rifle range, Saturday, October 5, 1901, at 10:30 o'clock, a. m. The tournament is to consist of two matches: First, an all comers' match; second, company contests.

The following rules and conditions shall govern the tournament: Individuals shooting as individuals and not connected with any teams shall choose for their target by lot. They will shoot between the company matches. The scores made by the members of the company teams shall be taken as their individual scores in the all comers' match. No re-entries allowed. Company teams shall choose for their target by lot. The winner of the company match will receive a new regulation D. A. No. 28 caliber Colts revolver, presented by the colonel commanding.

Prizes—Each member of the winning company team, excepting the reserve, shall receive a handsome regimental pin. The winner of the company match will receive a new regulation D. A. No. 28 caliber Colts revolver, presented by the colonel commanding. The second will receive a valuable camera, the gift of Messrs. Flory & Brooks, Scranton, Pa. The third will be presented with a valuable umbrella, the gift of Messrs. Connelly & Wallace, of Scranton, Pa.

Rifle and Ammunition—The Springfield rifle, with clip, and target box, or the old style of Springfield. Sight covers for front sight will be allowed, but no other artificial sight. Minimum range will be 100 yards. Contestants will furnish their own ammunition, which may be either U. M. C. or Frankford reloaded smoky powder ammunition.

Range—The ranges to be shot over shall be 200, 300 and 400 yards. The regulations for rifle practice for previous seasons, excepting that no sighting or warning shots shall be allowed, shall govern this contest. Seven shots shall be fired by each contestant. Targets—Targets to be the regulation silhouette targets.

Time—This to be decided by the highest score at six shots. In the case of a tie still exists, whether between two men or two company teams, then by a string of three shots each at 400 yards. Handicaps—No handicaps will be allowed over shot on regimental or brigade teams in a state match, shall be handicapped as against non-commissioned officers and privates in the company match. 3 and 5 points respectively; as against all officers, 2 points only in each case. No re-entries will be allowed on scores made by any participant on his score made for the company match. The official in charge of the tournament will be in charge of the contest. Individuals should provide themselves with luncheon before going on the range.

The regimental pins to be shot for have been donated by Colonel L. A. Watres, Colonel E. H. Rippled and Major W. S. Miller.

Colonel L. A. Watres yesterday issued the following orders regarding company drill nights and the approaching rifle match:

Headquarters Thirtieth Regiment, Third Brigade, N. G. P., Scranton, Pa., Sept. 13, 1901.

The several companies of the Thirtieth regiment, National Guard of Pennsylvania, will be drilled on the first Monday in October, 1901, on the evenings specified below, to wit: Companies A, G, K, Monday evenings; Companies C and L, Tuesday evenings; Companies B and H, Wednesday evenings; Companies D, E, F, Thursday evenings; Company I, Friday evenings. Companies will assemble promptly at 8:15 and drill for one hour only. The Adams avenue entrance will be kept closed and locked upon drill nights. All entries shall be from Myrtle street. There will be no admittance to the administration part of the building during drill nights, and to those who shall be accompanied by commissioned officers.

Ample seating capacity having been provided, only such visitors who are allowed to remain seated during the progress of drills.

The senior officer in command on any drill night will be held responsible for the proper observance of this order.

By order of L. A. Watres, Colonel. D. B. Atherton, Adjutant.

The steps being taken to form an athletic association have resulted in a decided increase in interest in athletic matters among the city's gentlemen, and in every company and organization are being made to meet the other companies and battle in manly sport. The basketball fever has taken possession of the boys and teams are being formed in all the companies. Inter-company matches will be played and a regimental team picked later, which will meet teams from the Ninth, and strong local aggregations of basketball stars. The new armory provides the most admirable facilities for play and constitutes an athletic arena in which ample space is provided for almost every variety of sport from football to quoits.

The regimental rifle team has arranged for a match with the team representing the Ninth regiment of Wilkes-Barre, and the match will be shot at Wilkes-Barre a week from today. A good natured rivalry exists between the two regiments, and the match promises to be a close and interesting one. Their work at Mt. Gretna was of about the same caliber, and the two teams are, in fact, pretty evenly matched. Another contest between the two may be held later at the Thirtieth's range.

WAY THE SAD NEWS WAS RECEIVED HERE Great Crowds Read the Bulletins Displayed in Front of the Tribune Office Last Night. If the scene presented in this city last night when the news that President McKinley was dying was filtering its way into the consciousness of our citizens, was duplicated in the other cities of this country, and it undoubtedly was, then the situation in our mind and in no country on earth is there such a respect and love for the nation's ruler as in the United States. When the first news of the president's release came in the early morning the public did not take it very seriously. The citizens at large had been buoyed up so by the favorable reports which had come from the sick room ever since the shooting that it was hard to get them to believe that the release was a serious one. The bulletins issued during the afternoon telling of improvement tended to settle any fear which might have arisen but when word came at 6 o'clock that "the president is dying" there seemed to be a general change in the public mind and the president's condition began to be seriously discussed. The crowd around the Tribune office began to increase at this time and when 7:30 o'clock arrived there were nearly 500 people waiting for the latest Press bulletins which were being posted every few minutes as they came from the wire. The crowd soon grew to larger proportions until at 9 o'clock there were upwards of 700 persons in the crowd. Each bulletin was eagerly scanned as soon as posted, but as each recurring one told that the president's condition was becoming worse and worse the curiosity turned into sorrow and deep sympathy. It was a solemnly crowd and a quiet one. It numbered among its numbers some of the most prominent men in the city, both Democrats and Republicans. Party lines were forgotten and all joined in the expression of one common sorrow. The slightest attempt to laugh or joke was frowned down by those standing around the office. Many women who scanned the bulletins burst into tears. There were several in the crowd who remained from 7 o'clock until after midnight, watching the bulletins and waiting patiently for one that might give a ray of hope. But that one didn't come. On all the street corners and in the lobbies of the hotels were gathered little knots of people discussing the situation and telling one another of their deep respect and love for the man with the kindly face who was hovering on the border land of the valley of death out there on Delaware avenue in Buffalo. There was an absence of party spirit and a universal talk which is always so prevalent on the streets of this city. When the final bulletin was posted this morning at 2:30, announcing that the president had died at 2:15, there were still a number of persons in front of the Tribune office who received the announcement with manifestations of the most general grief. Five minutes after the bulletin was issued a Tribune extra was on the streets, containing the story of the president's gallant struggle for life during the day, sketch of notable career, etc.

No orders have yet been issued for meetings in Companies A or C to elect captains for the places of George Russ and Joseph Helriegel, resigned. It is not likely that they will be ordered until about a week after the next meeting of drill, October 1. This will give the members of the guard ample time to single out a suitable man as head of the command.

The seating capacity of the new armory has been materially increased during the past two months by the addition of several hundred seats, which have been placed along the sides of the big drill room, where the boxes were located at the opening military ball.

CITY'S RIGHT IS EXHAUSTED

CANNOT LEGALLY CONSTRUCT WATER WORKS.

Most of Yesterday Was Consumed by the Plaintiffs in the Carbondale Water Case in Attempting to Show That the City Has Entered Into Contractual Obligations Which Will Bar It from Being a Competitor of the Present Companies—Other Matters.

In the hearing of the Carbondale water works case before Judge Halpern, yesterday, the plaintiffs spent most of the day in attempting to show that the city had entered into such contractual relations with the plaintiff water companies as to exhaust any right it ever may have had to construct a water works of its own.

There are half a dozen decisions by the Supreme court to the effect that if a city by its patronage induces a water company to extend its works and particularly if it enters into contracts with the company which encourage the company to expend considerable money in perfecting a water system, the city is barred from thereafter entering into competition with the company.

In an effort to prove that a condition existed in Carbondale warranting the application of those rulings, the plaintiff companies put in evidence the minutes of councils and their own account books, covering a period of a long term of years, by which it was shown that the city has been in constant contact with the companies for a supply of water for its hydrant and public buildings, and that at frequent intervals, the city caused the company to extend its mains to supply newly erected hydrants.

Before entering upon this line of testimony the plaintiffs put in some more evidence regarding the origin of the Crystal Lake company. It was similar in tenor to that given the day before. The witnesses from whom it was adduced were H. B. Baldwin, C. P. Baldwin, William S. Teets and Alfred Pascoe.

Repliege-Frothingham Case.

Judge G. L. Halsey, of Luzerne, who is specially presiding here this week, granted a rule yesterday to open the judgment and quash the restraining order issued by the plaintiff in the case of D. P. Repliege against Arthur Frothingham.

The suit was entered on a bond of $2,500 given by the defendant and Annette Reynolds to secure an appeal from the superior court of Luzerne in a judgment rendered in the case of D. P. Repliege against Arthur Frothingham.

The appeal went against Mr. Frothingham and Mr. Repliege proceeded on the bond, securing judgment for want of an appearance by the defendant.

Miss Reynolds makes affidavit that she engaged and paid Attorney R. H. Holgate to appear for her and contest the case.

Want to Secure Partition.

Elizabeth Avery and Ann Wilson, of Jersey, brought suit in equity yesterday to compel their brothers, Henry, Robert, William and Barnabas, to agree to the partition of a property in Jersey left them by their mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Carter.

The property consists of two improved lots in what is known as the John B. Smith addition to the borough of Gibsonburg. Willard, Warren & Knapp represent the plaintiffs.

Hearing the Arizoni Case.

The defense, yesterday, submitted its testimony before Judge Carpenter, in the equity case of J. M. Walker, trustee, against Rose Arizoni.

The main effort of the defendant was an attempt to combat the allegation that the transfer of real estate made to her by her father before he went into bankruptcy was not illegal. The father, it was shown, had only a life interest in the property. It was so heavily encumbered, it was claimed, that a life interest in it was worthless, and consequently the consideration of $1 was full value.

AGAINST G. R. CLARK & CO.

Involuntary Bankruptcy Proceedings Were Begun Yesterday.

Judge R. W. Archibald, of the district federal court, issued an order yesterday, directing the firm of George F. Clark & Co., Washington avenue florists, to show cause why they should not be declared bankrupt, a petition against the concern being filed by Attorney A. V. Bower for Jerome H. Rice Seed company, of Cambridge, N. Y.; Rakerstraw & Pyle, of Kennet Square, and J. L. Dillon, of Bloomsburg, who claim that Clark & Co's liabilities exceed $1,000.

The Rice company claims liabilities amounting to $24,571. Dillon claims $29,230 and Rakerstraw & Pyle, $65,800. Judge Archibald yesterday appointed William H. Jessup, jr., temporary receiver. He will file his bond in the sum of $5,000.

"RAILROAD DAY" POSTPONED.
