ONLY ONE DEED WAS BLACKER

DR. GUILD'S WORDS ON SHOOTING OF PRESIDENT.

Special Services Held in the Providence Presbyterian Church Last Night—Reference Made to the Killing of McKinley in Other Churches of City—At Nearly All the Services the Singing of 'Lead Kindly Light' and 'Nearer My God to Thee' Was a Feature.

A special service in honor of the late President McKinley was conducted last night in the Providence Presbyterian church and a large number of the citizens of North Scranton, not all of them regular church goers, were in attendance to show in some outward form their sincere respect for the memory of the great American, who was killed by the bullet of an anarchist.

The services were arranged for and was conducted under the direction of the pastor of the church, Rev. Dr. George E. Guild, who has been a warm admirer of the dead president ever since he stepped into the arena of public life. The choir at his suggestion rendered the president's two favorite hymns, "Nearer My God to Thee," and "Lead Kindly Light." Women could be seen solemnly weeping on all sides as the impressively simple words of the last named hymn were sung.

After a brief prayer asking the Divine blessing for the broken-hearted widow, Dr. Guild read President Roosevelt's eulogy, announcing the death of President McKinley. He followed this with a few words on the latter's death.

NO DEED SO BLACK. He referred to the assassination of President McKinley as "one of the deepest providential mysteries of modern times," and made the statement that no deed so black has ever sullied the page of history since Judas betrayed his Saviour for thirty pieces of silver. After recounting the dead president's many virtues he said: "The sublimest part of President McKinley's life was his last week and his death. His name will live in the years to come that he died a death such as very few great men have died."

"When a few minutes after the assassination the surgeons saw his lips moving and bent low to hear what he had to say. They heard him say, 'I am ready to die. I am ready to die. I am ready to die.' He was repeating 'Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name,' and when his last moments came his thoughts were only of those higher things and he went to sleep with the words 'Nearer My God to Thee,' on his lips. If there is anything more sublime on the pages of history than this death, I have not seen it. Would that you and I and all of us could bear our sufferings as he bore his and that we could die as he died."

JUDGE VOISBURG'S WORDS. Judge A. A. Voisburg followed Dr. Guild and after referring to the president as the model American and pointing out in detail some of his achievements he went on to say something about the anarchists and their creed. He declared that anarchism is blocking the broad highway of the nation's progress and said that the time has come for the American people to clean it out of the way. He urged an amendment to the constitution, if necessary, in order to deal with the question. The anarchists should not be permitted to stand behind a constitution, he said, and propagate their murderous doctrines.

Secretary Dolph B. Atherton of the board of trade, who was thrown into personal contact with the president on the model American and pointing out some of his achievements which had appealed to him. He dwelt especially upon his devotion to his wife and upon his open hearted method of receiving visitors which was so different from the cold formalism which has become the custom of the day.

IN THE SECOND CHURCH. Rev. Dr. C. E. Robinson, of the Second Presbyterian church, in his first sermon since his return, spoke directly on the subject nearest to the hearts of the people today. His text was from John 21:3, "Peter faith, I go a-fishing." These words were spoken by Peter immediately after the Crucifixion of the Savior of the World, when the hearts of the disciples were sore and burdened with pain. As they took up their crosses and went out to do the work left for their hands by the Master, so the people of America should strive, through their tears, to follow the path which led to the death of the nation's hero, and to complete the good work he had begun.

ELM PARK CHURCH. Rev. E. B. Singer, assistant pastor of Elm Park church, made a brief address previous to the morning sermon, in which he paid a beautiful tribute to the dead chief of the nation. He touched particularly on the lofty character, the nobility of purpose and the faith of President McKinley. The impress for good made on the people of the United States is the greatest test of the service he has rendered. The sorrow over the land today is not alone for the highest official, but for the man. The choir and congregation sang "Lead Kindly Light," and "Nearer My God to Thee," and the emotion which was evident in the large assemblage during both address and the singing of the hymns testified to the sadness which burdened all hearts. During the day and evening the following were chanted on muffled bells in the tower of the church: "My Jesus, as Thou Wilt," "Asleep in Jesus,"

"Nearer My God to Thee," "Lead Kindly Light," "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," "Blest Be the Tie That Binds," "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," "Rock of Ages," "Thy Will Be Done," "My Faith Looks Up to Thee" and "Abide with Me."

The Adams avenue chapel, on New York street, was draped with emblems of mourning and the national flag, yesterday. At the evening service the congregation sang "Lead Kindly Light," "Nearer My God to Thee," two of the late President McKinley's favorite hymns. Special prayer was offered for the nation, the government and Mrs. McKinley.

The Rev. James Hughes, pastor, conducted the service and referred to the sad calamity that has befallen the country in the assassination of the late president, who has been such an honorable and conspicuous figure in the history and work of nations for a number of years. McKinley will always appear a bright star in the galaxy of American presidents and indeed conspicuous among the great rulers of nations. May this very painful event sober the mind of the general public, lead to a searching inquiry as to the cause of such diabolical acts, and to profound humility before God. Let us open the windows of the cellars of national life, where there is so much deadly darkness, and let the light of the gospel stream in. It is the only remedy for national disorders.

AT THE CATHEDRAL. At each of the masses in the cathedral yesterday morning, the priest dealt with the national calamity and the lessons to be drawn from it. Rev. J. A. O'Reilly, rector of the cathedral, at the high mass yesterday, preached a sermon based on the day's feast of the Holy Name of Mary. In the course of his sermon he dealt with anarchism, characterizing it as an outgrowth of irreligion, and offering as an absolute panacea the correct education of children. Rev. Father O'Reilly also spoke in highly eulogistic terms of President McKinley as a man and a ruler.

AT THE 7 O'CLOCK MASS. Rev. J. J. Griffin, chancellor of the diocese, prefaced his sermon with an eulogy of President McKinley, speaking of him in the highest terms of praise as a pure statesman, and an exemplary man. His domestic life, Father Griffin said, was particularly admirable. At the 9 o'clock mass, Rev. Father O'Reilly, in a rare eulogy to the dead president, denounced anarchism as the one particular doctrine above all others that was the antithesis of religion. American Catholics, he said, hold the constitution as sacred only to their faith. The Catholic church is not a party and never will be. Its government next to its God, Father O'Reilly also made the statement that anarchism could not be born in America. It was exotic, he said, and no thinking man could hold otherwise.

Rev. D. J. Bustin presided at the mass for boys in the chapel of St. Thomas college, and in his sermon, paid a glowing tribute to President McKinley, characterizing him as a high type of American citizenship, blameless in his private and public life. Touching upon anarchism, Father Rustin said, in the words of St. Augustine, "Whatever crime is committed by one man is capable of being committed by all men, unless the grace of God interposes." This, he said, is the grace of God in the safeguard against a repetition of the horrible crime which today bows the nation's head in deepest mourning.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH. At St. John's Catholic church, Fig street, the pastor, Rev. E. J. Melley, dealt extensively in his sermon with the sociological aspect of the president's assassination. "That the president of the United States should be struck down by an assassin is an atrocious crime," said Father Melley, but in addition to this it is to the mind of the contemplative man a burning shame and disgrace, that in a country with so benign a government, where there is such an utter absence of anything approaching tyranny, the ruler—and so good a ruler—should be the victim of anarchical fanaticism.

Anarchy, Father Melley held, was an offshoot of the secret societies which organized the assassination. The Catholic church, he said, which was given such general encouragement in Italy, France and Germany. If the Catholic church's teachings prevailed there could be no anarchy, he said. Bismarck drove the priests from Germany, but when he found that the absence of these teachers tended to the spread of anarchy, he called them back and made peace with the Catholic church. An adherence to the moral law laid down by the church is the true solution of the anarchy problem.

PENN AVENUE CHURCH. Rev. Dr. Robert G. Seymour, of Philadelphia, pastor of the American Baptist church, preached last night in the Penn Avenue Baptist church on the assassination of the president. "President McKinley," said he, "was a man to whom we owe the very embodiment of our grand institutions. His patriotism was of the loftiest type and any person who ever doubted his sincerity of heart was one who did not know the man." He was profoundly religious and died such a death as very few men have ever died. It is my belief that the greatness of his

CITY MOURNS NATION'S LOSS

BUILDINGS DRAPED AND FLAGS AT HALF-MAST.

Gala Decorations in Honor of the State League of Republican Clubs' Convention Give Way to Emblems of Mourning for the Dead President—Telegrams of Condolence Sent from Scranton to Mrs. McKinley—Republican Clubs Adopt Appropriate Resolutions.

It was intended that Scranton should today be in gala attire in honor of the State League of Republican clubs' convention. Instead, the city presents the most general evidence of deep mourning that has ever marked her history. The big Connell building had its massive front fairly hidden in red, white and blue on Friday. The next day the decorators entwined the banners, flags and bunting with bands of black. Other buildings underwent similar transformations.

The court house, the federal building, city hall, the soldiers' and sailors' monument and all the principal business buildings are draped in black, while in every part of the city residences wear some badge of mourning. If only a crepe-fringed flag. In the store windows are displayed tastefully set pictures of the martyred president, some of them being elaborate and artistic allegories. Flags at half-mast are everywhere.

When court opened Saturday morning, Judge Carpenter received the request for an adjournment until Monday. Judge Halsey, of Luzerne, who was hearing the Carbondale water case in the Orphans' court room, also ordered adjournment, and continued the hearing until September 30.

In the church yesterday there were prayers for the dead president and his suffering widow, and the sermons generally dealt with the nation's great bereavement.

MESSAGE OF CONDOLENCE. Congressman Connell, on behalf of himself and his constituents, dispatched to Mrs. McKinley a tender message of condolence and expression of sympathy for her own welfare.

President John Mitchell, of the United Mine Workers, who was in Scranton Saturday, telegraphed to Mrs. McKinley the following: "Mrs. William McKinley, Buffalo, N. Y.: In behalf of the United Mine Workers of America, I extend my sympathy to you. May God sustain you in the loss of him who was loved so well by yourself and the American people. John Mitchell, President United Mine Workers of America."

LACKAWANNA NOW A STATE HOSPITAL

Recently Appointed Directorate Organized and Chose Employees. What the Transfer Means.

The trustees of the State Hospital of the Northern Anthracite Coal Fields, formerly the Lackawanna Hospital, met Saturday for organization. There were present State Auditor General E. B. Hardenbergh, Rev. J. A. O'Reilly, Colonel L. P. Rippe, James P. Dickson, E. L. Fuller, and D. S. Johnson.

The directorate was organized with James P. Dickson, president; Colonel E. H. Rippe, vice-president; E. L. Fuller, secretary and treasurer; Colonel L. P. Rippe, Rev. J. A. O'Reilly and William P. Hallstead, executive committee.

Mr. Elias Walter was chosen assistant secretary-treasurer, and the present superintendent and assistant, Miss Ella K. Kramer and Miss Caroline (Koch) were named as a change of the hospital and becomes a charity of the state. Its maintenance will be provided for entirely by the state and whatever appropriation is made to it will not be considered as a part of Lackawanna county's share of the state appropriations. This will mean that the other hospitals and charitable institutions receiving state aid can expect more liberal treatment in the future.

The move to make the hospital a state institution found its origin in the circumstances that the control of the mining industry of the Lackawanna valley has passed into foreign hands. When local men had executive charge of the coal business, the hospital was assured of liberal assistance. As it is now the Delaware and Hudson company, the state has no voice in the matter that could be counted upon to give anything more than very meagre contributions.

The directors put the matter before the late Senator Vaughan and the four Lackawanna representatives and they united in making this one of their chief ambitions at the last session of the legislature. Congressman Connell, Auditor General Hardenbergh, Deputy Attorney General Feltz and other Lackawanna representatives have been active in making this one of their chief ambitions at the last session of the legislature.

war, for humanity's sake, smooth out the lines of sectional strife, heal the animosities and cement a once discordant and disrupted union into one glorious and fraternal brotherhood.

Perhaps this was his mission in this life; if so, how well was his work done. And now, from all corners of the union, and from distant nations of the earth, loving hearts bring offerings to his tomb. Due meed of praise, only for the great and good. Therefore be it Resolved, That we hereby express our heartfelt sorrow for the great loss our country has sustained, and our tender sympathy for the stricken wife in this dark hour of her great affliction.

CONVENTION POSTPONED. The meeting also heard the reading of the following communication from J. Hampton Moore, president of the State League of Republican clubs, formally postponing the convention: Philadelphia, Sept. 14, 1901. To the Pennsylvania State League of Republican Clubs:—Our stricken president has passed away. He was the admired ruler of our nation and the accepted head of our great party. He was the ideal of Republicans and the ideal of Americans. He had risen from the soil of his native land to be known in the halls of Congress and to the boundaries of civilization. It was left for the red hand of anarchy alone to wrest from him his precious life and to plunge a happy nation into deepest gloom.

Sharing in the national pride that exalted him, we had prepared in the regular course to raise our voice, as Pennsylvania Republicans, in praise of his public works. The frozen hand of the assassin has changed it all. It is for the law and the American people to deal with this hideous crime and the cause actuating it; for us to draw our cup of sorrow with the mourning millions of American brethren; to frame our minds to holier and nobler purposes in political and civic rites to the dead. Our tribute to the shame and the peril of tolerance without reason.

That which we had planned in respect to the great principles our president represented must be stood aside with humility and reverence while we join respectfully in paying to the living mind to give way to the grief of the nation and to the homage which is due the memory of a great and powerful leader.

By virtue of the authority vested in me as president of the State League of Republican clubs, I declare a postponement of the fourteenth annual convention fixed to be held in the city of Scranton, September 17 and 18, next, until such time as the executive committee may determine, of which timely notice will be given.

I furthermore recommend, as a mark of respect to the memory of our dead president, that all clubs affiliated with the State League discontinue their meetings for a period of thirty days.

Very truly,
J. Hampton Moore, President.
