THE DAY WILL BE A GENERAL HOLIDAY

The Stores Will Close, the School Children Will Remain at Home, the Workshops Will Be Idle and in the Churches the People Will Gather to Honor the Memory of the Beloved Ruler of Their Nation Who Will Be Laid at Rest Amid the Scenes of His Earlier Life.

Today will be a general holiday. Work, everywhere, will be put aside, and the day will be given over to honoring the memory of the beloved prest dent, who will be laid at rest in eternal sleep amid the scenes of his early life. The suspension of work will be general. There will be nobody in the mines or workshops. The stores will not open their doors; even the drug stores which of necessity remain open or nearly every occasion, will be closed by their proprietors from 10 in the morning until 2 in the afternoon, is keeping with the sad spirit of the day to their tasks, though they will assemble at the schools in the forenoon to remain an hour to participate in exercises in keeping with the mournfu occasion. The scholars will assemble at the usual hour this morning and after the reading of a history of President McKinley's life, his favorite hymns will be sung.

The Church Services.

The congregations of the churches or rather all of the citizens, will show in a public way how they revere the memory of their departed ruler by as sembling in the churches and by prave and song and tender tributes join it the spirit of the land on this day, At the Methodist church union me

Several important cases from Carondale were considered this week by the grand jury now in session in Scranton.

By a singular coincidence two fugitives, who were wanted badly by the Carbondale police authorities, were rounded up Tuesday. Nathaniel Cobb, Constable Neary's assailant, was taken on that day, in Greenfield township, and is now in the ounty jail. The other important ar rest was the apprehension of Pasquale Gracco, the Italian who shot Carmen Siriano, his countryman and neighbor on the night of June 12. Graceo was caught in Bedford Indiana, where the authorities await the action of the officials here.

GRAECO'S CRIME.

The crime for which Graeco is wanted caused almost as big a stir as Cobb's doings. The shooting took place in the Italian colony off of Dundaff street, and it seemed providential that other bullets from the reckless Graeco's revolver did not find their way into the bodies of his countrymen He whipped out his pistol in the midst of a group of Italians who were playor eards on the stoop of Siriano's house and fired away at Siriano, who as surrounded by several compan-It is a marvel how Siriano was the only man who was shot. SHOT AT PATROLMAN CARDEN. So soon as Gracco finished his Wild West freak, he hastened to get away from the scene of the shooting, as fast is his nimble feet could carry him. He darted in and out of the maze of alleyways and passageways in the colmy, and before he cleared the place he came near to having to answer for another erime, Patrolman Patrick Carden, who was attracted by noise of the shooting, hustled into the olony and encountered Graeco, as the atter came tearing through a narrow passageway. The aroused Gracco's arst impulse was to have recourse to his revolver. He blazed away at the policeman, and before the latter could ecover himself Graco was out of sight. It was an easy matter to find a hiding place in the houses in the colony, and Graces succeeded in secreting himelf until the darkness offered him the chance that he sought to cover his tracks. He didn't leave the city, howeyer, but remained in and about the Wilson Creek mine. He hovered about he place for fully a week, awaiting the sult of his victim's injuries. Siriano was taken to Emergency hospital, and ofter a week, when it was certain that he would recover, Graeco took himself

TRACED THROUGH HIS PRIENDS. Constable Moran has kept Graeco in nind ever since his disappearance, and never ecused his endeavors to locate and apprehend him. A factor in the unceasing efforts to round up Graeco was the attempt he made on Patrolman Carden's life, while he was attempting to do his duty to arrest the langerous man. Graeco has been in ommunication with his countrymen hereabouts and it was through this that knowledge of his whereabouts was gained. His being located is a highly Moran's part.

Steps were immediately taken yesterday to bring Graeco here for trial. An order was obtained from court to have his case presented to the grand jury now sitting. After the presentment, which it is expected will be surely forthcoming, the necessary measures will be taken to bring him from Indiana.

What is supposed to have led to Graeco's wild shooting is a spat that his children and Seriano's had over candy. The Gracco child dropped a piece of candy which the young Siriano tended a wedding of a relative at picked up and ate. The former was leeply offended, and when Graeco came me in the evening, somewhat under Aloysius Total Abstinence and Benevo influence of drink, his wife, it is believed, magnified the happening and usisted on some sort of satisfaction Spurred by this Graceo suffied forth-
