MARRIAGES MADE BY ANTS.

How the Insects Select Husbands for the Sulu Maidens. From the Denver Republican.

W. L. Baize, a merchant of Manila is at the Brown Palace hotel. He has recently been traveling in the island of Sulu for a month, and tells of some curius mariage customs there. Said he last night:

"A most curious custom is to be found in that island. It obtains only among some of the more savage tribes of the far interior, called the Kakkohattchechka (I won't swear to tite spelling) tribe. These savages are very primitive people indeed, and very savage in all their manners of life. of A. was held in Hariman's hall There are not above 10,000 of this tribe, and they live in the mountains of the interior. The way their young women are given in marriage is worth going miles to see: I saw the ceremony last month, and I shall not soon forget it.

"When a young woman comes to the age of 14 she is deemed marriageable A notice is given out by the town crier that on a certain day the young wo man will be given in marriage. This day is within a month of the fourteenth birthday of the lady concerned, and is chosen by her, according to ancient custom. And the choosing of the day, by the way, is all that the bride has to say about the marriage. The crier, also, a few days later, calls out the dowry of the bride, and proclaims her charms aloud in the market place. So all the population is notified, and a goodly crowd of admirers gather to take their chance for the fair lady. contestants - who have previously given their names in to the father of the girl-and a crowd of perhaps 100 persons, if the young woman is the daughter of a man of importance, gather to see the show.

"On the morning of the marriage the bride is taken our by her maids and robed is taken out by her malds and Then, with much drain beating she is led forth and passes among the suitors, and kisses each in turn. Then she is wreathed with more flowers, and is scated to watch the fun.

"Now, on that island of Sulu they have a kind of ant that puzzles the scientists, for it has a double set of mandibles, one above and one below the head, and both entirely independent in action. These auts play a leading part in the marriage ecremony night before the ceremony the village priest goes out by the light of the moon and opens an ant hill with secret rites and carefully selects some ants, equal in number to the number of suitors

"After the bride has kissed all the sultors in turn they go out to the hut where the auts are kept. The priest is there, and he takes an ant by the body and allows it to fasten the lower mandible to the foretinger of the right hand of a young man. These ants are about an inch and a half long and have the most feroclous bite you can imag-Then, each suitor with an ant hanging to his forefinger, the young men go back to the presence of the bride. Then there are long and claborate rites, while the young men go around and dance before the each with a monstrous and hanging to his tinger. Then she is biindfolded, and the young men are lined up for the selection.

"The drams are beaten with renewed vigor and the bride goes along the line of the suitors and inserts her to the ground and crushes it with his the chosen bridegroom strikes the ant
