TO ISSUE CALL FOR A PASTOR

First Congregational Church Takes Steps to Procure Successor to Rev. M. C. Elliott, Who Resigns to Go to Illinois.

The Congregation of the First Congregational church, at a business meeting last night, took steps to get a successor to Rev. M. C. Elliott, who resigned his pastorate and will leave this week for an Illinois town, where he has accepted a call.

Beside this, the congregation also discussed several important church matters, chief among which was the coming of the noted divine, Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, who intends to lecture in the new Armory at Scranton, for the benefit of the building fund of the church.

The result of the discussion was the appointment of a committee to arrange the details of the enterprise and carry them out in a manner befitting what will be a great event in this valley.

It is expected that several thousand people will flock to hear this famous clergyman speak, and the plans will be pushed with vigor and diligence, until the success of the undertaking is assured.

There was also a committee appointed to issue a call, or take steps in that direction, to the pastorate made vacant by the dissolving of relations between the congregation and Rev. M. C. Elliott.

AMUSEMENTS.

Daniel Ryan in "O'Brien, the Contractor."

Daniel Ryan and his company are making the biggest kind of a hit at the Grand this week, and are playing to the biggest houses of the season.

Last night "O'Brien, the Contractor," the play exploited with great success by Dan Sully, was splendidly presented and its many good points were well brought out and as keenly enjoyed as when Sully himself played the role of the sharp-witted and good-natured O'Brien, the railroad contractor, who became the railroad magnate in spite of the malicious designs of his enemies. Mr. Ryan appeared to splendid advantage in the title role.

The illustrated songs and the movings pictures proved as popular as on the opening night.

There will be but two matinees this week, the first this afternoon, when "His Love and His Wife" will be given; and Saturday afternoon, when the attraction will be "A Midnight Marriage." Tonight, "The Musketeers" will be the bill.

The other attractions are: Thursday night, "Kathleen Mavourneen"; Friday night, "The Fatal Wedding"; Saturday night, "A Grip of Steel."

AT THE HOSPITAL.

Two Cases of Injured Miners Received for Treatment.

Two cases of injured mine workers were received for treatment at the Emergency hospital.

Both came from the Erie mine, where they were employed as laborers. They are O. H. Lowry and William Fordham.

Lowry had a fractured left thigh, and painful bruises on the right leg. A fall of rock was the cause of his disaster. Fordham suffered from a fracture of the right arm. Both men will be able to go to their homes in a few days.

The Dance Tonight.

The Indians Football eleven will conduct a dance in Burke's hall which, it is expected, will be a highly enjoyable affair. Prof. Firth will provide the latest dance music for the dancing young folks who are expected to throng the hall.

The Indians comprise a number of the town's prominent younger men, and the purpose of the enterprise is to raise funds to meet the expenses of the eleven which cannot be met in any other way since no admission is charged for any of the exciting contests which the team brings off from time to time during the season.

To Go to Wilkes-Barre.

The Aloysius Total Abstinence society met last night and completed arrangements for attending the annual demonstration of the Scranton Diocesan union at Wilkes-Barre tomorrow.

The St. Aloysius society is the only organization from this city which will participate in the parade and there is great enthusiasm among the members over the showing they hope to make.

MR. POWDERLY A CANDIDATE.

Has Not Abandoned His Candidacy for Truant Officer.

Contrary to the belief in some quarters, Joseph Powderly has not abandoned his candidacy for the office of truant officer of the Carbondale school district, the position he filled so creditably last year.

Mr. Powderly is just as active a candidate now as he was when he first announced his purpose of trying to be re-elected to fill the duties of the office for another year. Though there is a deadlock over his election, Mr. Powderly is possessed of an adequate quantity of "stickitiveness" to remain in the fight to win, if such a thing be possible.

Names Omitted.

In the account of the Anderson reunion in The Tribune of yesterday two names were inadvertently omitted. They are Mr. and Mrs. William Decker of Richmond Hill.

The following statement has been made respecting the attitude of the Fell township officials towards the factory that sought a site at Simpson, conditioned on the exoneration of taxes for a time:

* * *

Neither Mr. Morrison nor any of the parties who are said to be connected with this factory ever solicited the township authorities as a body for an exoneration from taxes. Mr. Morrison did come to me in relation to it and I asked him for what kind of a factory he wanted it. He wouldn't tell the nature of the concern and so I could not make any recommendation as not every institution is entitled to exoneration.

None of the parties interested ever appeared before any of the three departments of the township government and I learn that I am the only one of the supervisors who was approached personally. As I am not the whole board I would like to know how it is that the newspapers can make such broad accusations as they do against Fell township. Surely, not with any truth. Let the collin men or any other factory owners looking for a site at Simpson be frank and above board with us and we will not be found wanting in progressiveness.

The Jermyn school board held their monthly meeting last evening. Bills amounting to $359.69 were read and payment authorized. Mr. Morgan on behalf of the visiting committee reported having visited the schools and he expressed his satisfaction at the condition he found everything in. By motion it was decided not to purchase Tiffany's industrial cabinet at present. President Hunter drew the board's attention to the compulsory attendance law passed by the last legislature making it compulsory for all children between the ages of eight and sixteen years to attend school and the liability of the directors to a fine of $25 for failing to enforce the law and the possibility of a portion of the state appropriation being withheld for the same reason. A list of names of children who had been absent from six to twenty days during the month of September was read and by motion it was decided to enforce the law and the secretary was notified to serve notice on the parents of the scholars whose names appeared upon the list. Principal Barrett was present and explained his actions in regard to some recent trouble he had had with the parents of one of the pupils. His action was sustained by the unanimous vote of the board. David Harris and Samuel Evans gave brief addresses, expressing their sorrow in losing Mr. Evans, their pastor. William Holmes then recited in Welsh, and Miss Sarah J. Price recited in English. The latter responded to an encore. Mrs. Robert Llewellyn then sang a Welsh solo. The remainder of the evening was devoted to speechmaking by Rev. D. C. Edwards, of the Welsh Baptist church; Rev. J. DUNMORE.

At last the much-discussed stone crusher experiment has reached its end, at least for this year. At the meeting of the council, Monday night, it was discovered that the year's appropriation for that purpose, amounting to something over $1,000, had been spent, and the borough fathers hastily ordered that the machine be hurried into winter quarters, where it will be just as ornamental and useful as at present, but at much less expense to the taxpayers many of whom think $1,400 was a big price to pay for a piece of machinery that the borough can only afford to run about three months out of the year. The fond hopes of macadam streets, that were for a time dreamed of, are fast fading away, and according to the remarks of Councilman Payton, at Monday night's meeting, the streets of the borough, as a whole, are worse than in many a year. It is probable that this will be the last of the permanent street repairs being attempted by the borough, it certainly having proved an expensive lesson in this case.

The euchre and dance to be given by the Ladies' Temperance society has been indefinitely postponed, owing to the damage to Washington hall, due to the mine caves. The announcement of a new date will be made in the near future.

The emulsion not only is food itself; it gives strength for digesting usual food.

WAINWRIGHT ON THE STAND

"No orders were given to me in regard to a contingency of that kind," replied the witness.

"As watch officer should you have had such orders?"

"I should have had."

Lieutenant Bristol stated that the fleet lay outside of Morro from six to eight miles during the day. He spoke of the Spanish shore batteries, saying:

Spanish Shore Batteries.

"I personally examined them the day we arrived there and satisfied myself that the batteries amounted to nothing. From the various bombardments we took part in, we discovered just what guns were there. We went in as a feint to the westward, to draw the attention of the Spanish from the real landing of the army to the eastward. We were not to be on the Socapa battery unless they fired upon us. We had been there some little time when they fired on us. We returned the fire with our six and twelve-inch guns. We fired several shots in answer to theirs; the last shot they fired struck the Texas. When we withdrew, we steamed out slowly, making a turn toward the Morro, which brought us even nearer the batteries than we were before, but they did not fire on us nor did they appear to be able to use their guns."

Lieutenant Bristol said that on the morning of July 3 he had fixed the position of the Texas, and also generally of the other ships of the fleet, and had prepared a chart showing these positions. He considered the initial positions assigned to the Texas, the Brooklyn and the Iowa as accurate.

The witness described the engagement of July 3, saying that the Spanish fleet had come out only sufficiently far to clear the shoal near the mouth of the harbor, before turning to the westward. He did not think this was to exceed 150 yards out from Cay Smith, which is inside the harbor.

Lieutenant Bristol said that after the engagement began he went below and fired three shots from the twelve-inch guns. When he came on deck, the first of the Spanish ships was going ashore.

"We were then," he said, "headed to the westward, with the enemy's ships running close along a point seven miles west of Santiago."

Mr. Hanna—Did you see the Brooklyn when you came on deck?"

"I did."

"Where was she at that time?"

"She was about as far out on our port bow, relatively speaking, as the Spanish ships were on our starboard bow."

"Had she completed the turn at that time?"

"I do not know. She did not make any turn after that, and always kept on to the westward. At that time I did not know anything about a turn."

Did Not See the Loop.

"You did not see what is known as the loop?"

"I did not."

Lieutenant Bristol then detailed the part the Texas played in the battle, giving the details of the chase up the Cuban coast.

Describing the close of that pursuit, he said: "We continued on with the chase of the Colon, which was then ahead of the Vizcaya, in the same relative positions, the Brooklyn, Oregon and Texas and, afterward, at the end of the chase, the New York joined in it. The Vixen was outside the Brooklyn during this time, and along at the time the Vizcaya steered inside and kept about abreast of us until we overhauled her and went ahead until the Colon finally turned in shore and hauled down her flag. The Texas then joined the rest of the ships at the prize and remained there that night.

"The distance to the Colon ranged from about three and a half or four miles up to five or six miles at the end of the chase. She drew away from us slowly. The Brooklyn and Oregon were considerably closer to us than the Colon. The Oregon was closer than the Brooklyn, so that the Brooklyn was leading as regards the distance from us that she was out to sea now."

In response to questions from Mr. Rayner, Lieutenant Bristol said that he had made his court because of his interest in the battle, and that he had prepared it a few days after the battle. He had started the work the day after the engagement and had depended partly upon memory in its preparation.

Mr. Rayner called attention to the fact that the witness had said that at the beginning of the battle the Brooklyn was heading north and east, while Lieutenant Commander Hodgson, who had been aboard the Brooklyn, had said the vessel was heading north and west.

"Which is right?" he asked.

"I believe I am right," the witness replied.

"You can't both be right."

"That is right, too."

At Mr. Rayner's request, the witness made measurements showing that, according to his chart, at the beginning of the fight off Santiago the nearest Spanish ship to the Brooklyn was 3,900 yards.

Mr. Rayner asked: "How can you reconcile that with the statement of Lieutenant Commander Hodgson that the range at the time of the turn of the Brooklyn was 1,400 yards."

"I cannot reconcile my statement with that of Lieutenant Commander Hodgson."

The witness was questioned further relative to the court and the accuracy of his measurements.

He had not concluded his testimony when court adjourned.

CAN'T GET STATISTICS.

Hard to Find Out Gross Receipts of Local Corporations.

Several councilmen who are interested in the license tax ordinance, now pending in councils, have been making an effort during the past few days to secure figures showing the total gross receipts of the corporations taxed by the ordinance for the purpose of getting some idea of the amount of money which can be realized in case the measure finally passes.

A search through the last annual report of the secretary of internal affairs has revealed the fact that there is apparently no published record of the receipts of any of the corporations taxed, with the exception of the Scranton Railway company.

The total gross receipts of the last-named corporation for the year 1899, according to the report of the secretary of internal affairs, were $393,560. A tax of five per cent. on this amount would be $19,678.39 a year.

Imperial Tea and Coffee Company

A New Store and a New Sort of a Store.

Here is a new store for the sale of high-grade teas and coffees—the kind you can drink and relish, and come back after more.

The business is the outgrowth of a desire on the part of Mr. H. W. Hallet, formerly with Siegel-Cooper, New York, to give to Scranton an exclusive store of the sort it ought to have.

Mr. Hallet has had special experience in the blending of teas and coffees. Buying direct from importers, he is in a position to save you money, and give you better qualities than you have ever bought before.

The business is devoid of prizes or schemes—depending for its existence solely on qualities and littleness of prices.

How to Cook Mushrooms.

Put the mushrooms in a stew-pan with a little water, cover it on, and stew slowly for twenty minutes, adding butter, salt and pepper to taste. Cream or milk may be added. Another very good way is to butter well a medium-hot pan; cut the mushrooms into convenient pieces, put them in it, cover, and try. Stir them from time to time, and when quite done season with salt and pepper. A good gravy is made for them by using water, milk or cream. Now if you must have a meat or some sort, put the meat on one dish and the mushrooms on another. By doing this you spoil the taste of neither.—Woman's Home Companion.
