WHITNEY HEARS OF ONE WHO MADE MILK SOUR.

A Fortunate Change of Wind at Burnwood-Death of the Man Who Fell from Starrucca Viaduct-Localettes and Personal Paragraphs.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Susquehanna, Oct. 12 .- At the county court at Montrose, in a contest over a will, a certain witness was giving his evidence as to the disposition of the testator.
"Was be a good-natured man?"

asked the attorney.

- "Not altogether." "Was he cross, then?" "Well, yes; rather in places."
- "Was he very cross? "Considerably."
- "How cross was he? Give us an example of his disposition?" "Well, sir, he was that cross that when he called up the cows at milking time it made the milk sour." "That's enough! Stand down."

FELL FROM THE STARRUCCAVIA-

Sheriff Bray, of one of the counties of a western state, was recently killed while attempting to stop a runaway team. While the great Starrucca via-Auct at Lanesboro was in process of construction. Bray, then a workman, fell from the parapet of the structure to the ground below, a distance of nearly one hundred feet. He was picked up for dead, but when the physician examined him he was amazed to find that no bones were broken. Bray recovered, and in four days returned to THE TRIBUNE'S PATTERNS work. A prominent resident of Susquehanna, now residing here, saw Bray when he fell.

WHAT FREDDIE WANTED.

Master Fred Fenton fell from the top limb of a chestnut tree. He was picked up insensible and carried home. After watching at his bedside for many weary hours, his mother perceived signs of returning consciousness Leaning over him, she asked him if there was anything she could do for him, now that he was beginning to feel better should she bathe his forehead? Should she fan him or change his pil-low? Was there anything he wanted? Languidly opening his eyes and looking at her, the little sufferer said the dispatch of May 27 in evidence, and after a colloquy between Mr. Rayner and Judge Advo-cate Lemly, Mr. Hanna remarked that there was no objection to putting it in, except that it was "obviously intended to reflect on a person who is not under inquiry."

To this Mr. Rayner responded that it was not intended to reflect on any one, but that it was intended "to prevent a reflection of Commodore Schley." It was decided that the dispatch was already in evidence, and Mr. Hanna took the wit-ness for re-direct examination. He began by ask-ing if he knew the reason for the lapse of five or six days between the sending of dispatches by the Hawk and the Wasp. To this inquiry Mr. Rayner objected, and there was a prolonged argument on the part of counsel on both sides as to the admissibility of the question. Mr. Hanna said in the course of his argument that the mat-ter could be fully explained, but that if the court objected he would not press it, whereupon Admiral Dewey remarked: "You had better not ask that question."

Mr. Hanna-I will ask whether the witness does not know comething about it. I think I can develop facts which he does not know as to the circumstances under which they were sent. Admiral Dewey-As I have stated before, we want facts, facts, Mr. Hanna I will say, if the court has no objection, that the question I have in mind is whether or not this order of May 21, the menorandom, was sent under circumstances of ex-igency as a burried order, and that that fact was ommunicated to the man who carried it, and that he was instructed to deliver it as such and to so inform Commodore Schley.

Mr. Rayner—You have to prove that Commo-lore Scilley was informed. What was the occasion of a horried order? It could not have been hurried very much. This is an important branch of the case. These are official communications, and we ought not to be bound here by what took tere. Here are the dispatches. Why any verbal my on this? At this stage of the proceedings Captain Lemly treduced as a part of the record two letters for ontmodere Schley to Admiral Sampson, both bried May 23, 1898, the first saying that he was y no means satisfied that the Spanish squadro vas not at Cientuegos, and the second telling of he information he had received through the British steamer Adula. He said that he present

A somewhat exciting incident here arose be ween Judge Advocate Lemly and Mr. Rayner When Lieufenant Commander Staunton was ex cused Mr. Rayner asked leave to present as evi-dence a supplementary chart prepared by Lieutenant Dyson, of the bureau of steam engineer ing, showing the vessels of the flying squadron. Captain Lemly objected, on the ground that this evidence was not pertinent at this stage of

Mr. Rayner replied that it had been agreed no far away from the evidence bearing on the Captain Lendy said that he had a witness the objection Mr. Rayner undertook to read a document ac companying the chart, when Captain Lemty tore and addressed the court, saying with reference to Mr. Rayner: "He is not accurate in his statements, if the court please. On the contrary, he is very inaccurate. He holds a paper before letu persons inside the raiting joined in it, but it was noticed that Mr. Rayner did not accept the remark as good natured. His face was fushed when he replied, which he did without rising, saying: "If he states that outside the court I will say it is false."

Captain Lemby-If he states that outside the court, it is another matter, but if he states it in the court it is highly Improper.

While counsel were talking back and forth at each other Admiral Dewey arose and administrated the oath to the next witness, Licutenant Nathan C. Twining, formerly of the battleship Nathan C. Twining, formerly of the hattleship Iowa, who had been waiting to be called while the colloquy was in progress. Licutenant Twin-ing's testimony covered points already brought out as to the siege of Cienfuegos and the bourbardment of the Cristolad Colon in the harbor f Santiago on May 31, When Licutenant Twining had concluded and the court was about to adjourn, Mr. Rayner rose and addressing the court, said:

"I would like to call the attentifi of the court to what I consider a very issupresable attack of the indge advocate. I have conducted yself with the utmost degree of courtesy and diteness. It has not occurred once, but over and over again in this case. The least little objection that comes in brings in the most irri-table humor possible on his part. All I ask is this: He made a statement this morning which reflected on me; that we read things to the sourt that did not exist, and sid not read things that did exist. Any man with any degree of sensibility would object to that, and I do not hink my brother wants that statement to go to the court. They have tried the case hupar-tially and fairly. There has been no statement about their trial of the case at all, but when I have read a report, not thinking that the last part would bear on the case, the point was made that I did not read the whole of it. These things are very objectionable to Admiral Scaley and myself, and I think the gentleman owes us and invest, and I tank the gentleman owes us a statement in regard to that.

Captain Lemis—V the court please, I have to stand upon the record in this matter. It was not my intention to be offensive, and when counsel speaks of my temper I must say to him, "Neighbor, remove the beam from your own eye
