MISSIONARY CONVENTION

OPENED IN FIRST PRESBYTE-RIAN CHURCH.

It Is the Mineteenth Annual Meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Synod of Pennsylvania and West Virginia. Delegates Welcomed to the City by Mrs. A. W. Dickson, President of the Society of the First Church. Those Who Are Attending.

In the First Presbyterian church last evening opened the nineteenth annual meeting of the Women's Home Missionary society of the synod of Pennsylvania and West Virginia. It is attended by a large body of carnest women who are doing a great work in bringing the truths of Christianity to irreligious among us.

At last night's session the delegates were welcomed to the city by Mrs. A. W. Dickson, president of the society of the First Presbyterian church, in a charming little speech. After the formalities incident to the opening of the meeting were concluded reports were heard and the president, Mrs. Charles L. Bailey, of Harrisburg, announced her committees. The other officers are: Vice-presidents, Mrs. S. P. Harbison, Allegheny; Mrs. W. B. Holmes, Honesdale: Mrs. William Dorris, Huntingdon; Mrs. J. H. Evans, Oil City; Mrs M. R. Alexander, Chambersburg; Mrs. J. H. McKelvey, Pittsburg, corresponding secretary, Mrs. D. F. Diefenderfer, Erie: recording secretary, Mrs S. A. Reeder, Philadelphia; sccretary of literature, Miss Mary Summy, Marietta; secretary Young People's work, Mrs. J. N. Moore, Butler; secretary of Freedmen's work, Mrs. P. W. Lowry, Butler: treasurer of contingent fund. Mrs. A. D. Lundy, Williamsport, The convention will be in session this morning, afternoon and evening and expects Thursday morning to conclude the business to come before it. ADDRESS OF WELCOME.

The old First Presbyterian is very attractive with many great palms and lovely yellow chrysanthemums about the chancel, and something of the scauty of the scene seemed to enter into the devotional exercise conducted by Mrs. Bailey in opening the convention. Mrs. A. W. Dickson in her address of welcome to the delegates, said:

Dear Friends: Our ladies of the First church our ladies of Scranton, extend to you a most co dial welcome to our city and to our homes. We gre glad to see you. We are glad to entertain i. We hope that you may enjoy your stay it city. We only regret that inconvenience t our guests which may result from the strill now in progress. But we hope most earnest but we shall so enjoy our mutual privileges the the common cares may not be remembered agains us as you go to your several homes,

We working in our little sphere are giad avail ourselves of the larger wisdom of this holl of delegates that we may be more assured upo Hires of action which may be blessed of Gori is the extension of His kingdom. "Preach M. Gospel" is his command. How best to obey that and is the object of this conference. The may be blessed to our more ripened understanding of problems hard to solve is our prayer in welcoming you, dear friends, let me cor gratulate you and ourselves upon the fact of your meeting in what is probably the center of the foreign population of Pennsylvania, With in a very few years there have come into thes valleys a host of people herded together because of their ignorance of the ways of the land and because of their foreign speech, and constituting the present problem of the Christian church, That burden is upon us. We cannot in justice evade it. Let us face it. Let us bear it in the name of their Savior and ours. What a cause it is What honor is given to us as workers togeth

Again I wish you a most agreeable and profit able visit to our church, our city and its Chri tian workers. The blessing is ours in having many consecrated workers with us-MRS, HARBISON'S RESPONSE.

Mrs. S. P. Harbison, of Alleghens the first vice-president, made a ver happy response to this greeting. With regard to the foreign-speaking resi dents, she expressed the hope that a meeting some decision may b reached that may make it possible to do something for these people. She de slored the inconvenience which the adies entertaining guests experience from the street car strike, but felicitated the visitors upon the welcome they had received,

Mrs. Bailey added brief remarks of appreciation, and announced that the board in New York sends an invitation to every presbytery to send a delegat the general assembly next May Hitherto the synod was represented in

Miss Mary Summy, of Marietta, it the Westminster presbytery, gave report of the work on literature, which was accepted. Mrs. W. B. Holmes offered prayer. MINERS COMMEMORATE END OF THE STRIKE

Thousands March Through Scranton Streets in Honor of the Man Who Led the Successful Strike Last Fall—Mass Meeting at the Old Armory.

Mitchell Day, the aninversary of the | 1693 and 1656, all of North Scrapton. resumption of work by the miners after their victorious strike of last fall. was celebrated here yesterday with one of the biggest labor demonstrations the city has ever known. Fortytwo Mine Workers' unions, numbering between 10,000 and 12,000 men. from the collieries between Jessup and Duryea, headed by the striking street car men, and accompanied by two score of musical organizations, paraded the central city streets before the view of thousands of cheering spectators. Afterwards, a mass meeting was held at the old armory, where speeches were made by prominent labor leaders and others.

Although the big army of men composing the parade were no uniform or insignia other than the green pasteboard working card, pinned to each man's coat lapel, it was by no means an uninteresting procession. While it lacked picturesque or novel features, it was far from wanting interesting suggestion. It told of a body of stalwart, earnest men, bound together by solemn oath, to work one with the other for their common weal and against any encroachment on their rights, and it bespoke a mighty power for good or ill, standing ready and willing to do or die at the call of those whom they have chosen to lead

DEVOTION TO LEADER.

The devotion of the miners to their organization and to their leader, who was being specially honored yesterday, was attested by the fact that many of them walked from places two hours distant, as a parade moves, to be on hand at the celebration. A full thousand men trudged up from Minooka and Greenwood: 2,500 from North Scranton and Priceburg: 2,000 from Dunmore, and several hundred from Taylor, the Pyne, the Continental, Keyser Valley and other distant suburbs. Only those from the more distant places deigned to ride. Old Forge men came on a special train on Lackawanna and the up-the-valley locals had special cars on the Delaware and Hudson trains.

There were no trolley cars running, but if there were they would not have caused the crowds in Scranton to swell to any considerable extent. The people who came from outside to participate in or view the celebration are, just at present afflicted with a peculiar sort of hysteria, which medical science has given the name 'Fraidothecars."

THE PARADE.

The various divisions of the parade began forming shortly after 1 o'clock it closed, half of these had left. This on Mulberry street, Wyoming avenue, was due mainly to a disappointment Washington avenue, Penn avenue and Vine street, and at 1.30 o'clock the the great Welsh miners' leader, who word was given to start. The start was made at the corner of Mulberry street and Wyoming avenue, and from there they moved along to Linden street, to Washington avenue, to Spruce street, to Wyoming avenue, to Lackawanna avenue, across the bridge, and countermarched up Lackawanna avenue to Adams avenue, and to the armory, where the mass meeting was It is conservatively estimated that there was over 10,000 men and boys in line, and one hour and seven minutes' actual time was consumed in passing given point. All along the line of march, thousands of people watched the parade, and applauded the men as they gallantly marched along. street car men being singled out for the most generous applause. Every man and boy in line either had a working eard, a picture of John Mitchell or a tag, or all three, in his hat or on his coat lapel, the first designating the local union to which they were attached, the second the official placard of the day, and the third bearing the words: "I walk. Do you walk?" Throughout the line many banners were in evidence, bearing the follow-

"John Mitchell, Our Friend," "We Want Inspection of Working Cards," "Union Forever," "We Are Going to Win, If You Walk," "Scranton Cars Must Be Manned by Scranton Men; No Imports," "We Want Recognition," "All Scabs Must Go." "We Want Working Cards Examined," "If You Don't Settle the Strike We Will Never Ride," "Eight Hours a Day, More "We Want Recognition April 1." and many other such expressions.

FIRST DIVISION.

At the head of the First division was Grand Marshal William Fitzsimmons with his aides, P. J. Mullaney, J. D. Gwynne, Charles Berry and Michael McLoughlin, all mounted. They were followed by a number of carriages containing the four judges, Hon. H. M. Edwards, Hon. John P. Kelly, Hon. J. Wharton Carpenter and Hon. A. A. Vosburg. Another carriage contained Rev. J. A.
