COAL AND SEWER BIDS DISPOSED OF

Councils Meet in Joint Session and Let the Coal Contract to John Booth, Though He was Not the Lowest Bidder, and Award Sewer Contracts to P. G. Moran and M. E. Gilmartin.

Councils in joint session last night disposed of two important contracts.

The contract for supplying coal to the city for the coming year was given to John Booth, who, however, was not the lowest bidder.

P. G. Moran, whose bid for coal was rejected for some reason not clearly apparent, though it was the lowest, was considered responsible enough by the same councilmen who voted against him earlier in the session, to undertake a sewer contract, which involved work and was given the work of constructing the sewer on Seventh avenue, from High street to Wayne street. His bid was 74½ cents per lineal foot.

M. E. Gilmartin was awarded the contract for building a short sewer on Ninth avenue, near South Main street. His bid was considerably lower than the others, 47½ cents per lineal foot.

The bids on the sewers were:

Seventh avenue—P. G. Moran, 74½ cents per lineal foot; Thomas Killeen, 95 cents.

Ninth avenue—P. G. Moran, 74½ cents; Thomas Killeen, 80 cents; M. E. Gilmartin, 47 cents.

Coal Bids Warmly Discussed.

There was a warm discussion following the committee's report on the coal bids, which was in favor of John Booth.

The bids were as follows:

Delaware and Hudson company—Egg, stove or chestnut, $2.75; pea coal, $1.90. This was the price per ton at the chutes; delivered, the price was 50 cents more per ton for either size.

John Booth—Same price as the Delaware and Hudson, delivered.

P. G. Moran—Stove, egg or chestnut, $3.18; pea coal, $2.30, delivered.

As will be readily observed, Moran's bid was 6 cents lower than Booth's on pea coal and 7 cents lower on the larger sizes. The building committee, however, recommended in favor of Booth.

When Mr. Nealon pointed out that it seemed an injustice to make the city pay six cents more on one size and seven cents on the other for identically the same kind of coal, Mr. Stone of the committee, and Mr. Fletcher later indicated that in their opinion Mr. Booth was the more responsible of the two, or at least that they did not care to take chances with any party outside of him.

Mr. Nealon moved to reject the committee's recommendation, but it was defeated by an overwhelming vote, 12 to 4. Messrs. Barrett, Mannion, Nealon, Loftus and Kennedy voted in favor of Moran.

Later, a half hour afterwards, when the committee reported in favor of Mr. Moran getting the sewer contract, Mr. Nealon suggested that it was a strange circumstance that certain members of this committee opposed Mr. Moran only a short time before, because of the fear that he was not responsible.

Chairman Fletcher, who was one to whom the rebuke was administered, shut Mr. Nealon off before he had proceeded far in his defense of Mr. Moran.

THE LIGHT ORDINANCE PASSES.

Among the interesting transactions of select council was the passage on second and third readings of the ordinance awarding the street lighting contract for three years to the Lackawanna Electric Light company.

By this act councils let go, by default, the injunction proceedings brought by certain citizens to restrain the mayor from signing the resolution awarding the contract. It was raised by Mayor Kilpatrick on the night the contract was let that an ordinance, instead of a resolution, was necessary. The city solicitor declared, however, that the resolution would answer. Acting on this advice, common council rejected the mayor's veto and granted the contract. Since the bringing of the suit the city solicitor admitted that perhaps councils were in error in passing the resolution, and suggested that what defect there might be could be remedied by legislation. The legislation meant was the passage of an ordinance awarding the contract. This ordinance was introduced at a special meeting Saturday night, and passed one reading. Last night it went through select council on second and third reading.

It was brought over to common council and copies of it were placed on the members' desks. Before they had a chance to vote on it or even consider it, the copies of the ordinance were hurriedly snatched by a member from select council, who is a staunch champion of the three-year contract. His mission was to save the ordinance from possible disaster, as the vote, if one could be taken, would be a tie. Later, when Mr. Pugliano, another supporter of the three-year contract, came into the council chamber an effort was made to have the ordinance taken up and acted on. This was after common council reconvened to act on select council's resolution asking for a joint meeting. In the meantime, Mr. Nealon moved to adjourn, which was done before those in favor of the ordinance could realize what was taking place.

The question that remains, and which is interesting more than a few, is that the city is mulcted for the costs in the equity proceedings, though if the mayor's suggestion had been heeded this would have been averted; the city would not be put to any unnecessary expense.

Select council passed a few minor matters. Among them was the first reading of two light ordinances from common council, the refunding of money unnecessarily paid by George Cuff for benefits accruing from opening Hospital street, and the Columbia company's requisition.

Common Council.

Common council held a regular meeting, but only concurrent business was disposed of.

A BIG WEEK OF SOCIAL EVENTS

Between Lecture Courses and Various Kinds of Socials Carbondale Society Will Be Kept Astir for the Coming Week—The Events in Their Order.

This week will be a stirring one in a social way in Carbondale. There are more events, and important ones, than have appealed to the society of the town in a single week than in several years. There is a fair in progress, two lectures to take place, the Nordica concert and two subscription dances which belong under the caption "swell affairs." Lastly, there will be theatricals during the whole week.

The fair of the Cottage Hose company opened last night in the Watt building and promises a good deal of enjoyment and pleasure to a multitude of persons.

There will be two important happenings to-night, one a literary event, the lecture of Dr. Whalen; the other, a social affair, the most elaborate of the early social season, at least, the subscription dance by the Omar club.

Dr. Whalen's Lecture.

Dr. Whalen's lecture will be delivered in the auditorium of the Central school, under the auspices of the Athletic association of the Carbondale High school. The talk is probably the most popular of the four lecturettes of Dr. Whalen. "The Wit and Humor of the Irish People" is the title. Many Carbondale persons have enjoyed the flashes of wit and have laughed heartily at the humor of the stories capitally related by Dr. Whalen and it is safe to say that many of these will be in the audience that will greet the speaker tonight.

The programme of the evening is as follows:

8 to 8.15—Music by High school orchestra.

Piano solo—Rexford Copeland.

Lecture—"The Wit and Humor of Irish People," Rev. J. Whalen, D. D.

Selection—High school orchestra.

Subscription Dances.

The subscription dance in Burke's hall will be under the patronage of the Omar club, the members of whom are conspicuous in the younger society of the town. Guests from Wilkes-Barre to Carbondale will be present to grace the vast assemblage of young people.

Friday night there will be another swell dance, a subscription affair, to be conducted by the Elite club, which like the Omar club, has a foremost place in the town's social life. Many out-of-town persons are expected as guests on this evening. The Mozart orchestra will provide the dance music.

Father Daley's Lecture.

Friday night the second of the lectures will be heard in the course arranged by the Carbondale council of the Knights of Columbus.

The lecturer will be Rev. W. J. B. Daley, assistant rector of St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York city. His subject will be "Following the Flag."

Father Daley was chaplain of the Sixty-ninth regiment, of New York city, during the Spanish war. His lecture is filled with lessons of patriotism and is sure to enkindle the patriotic fervor and love of his hearers. It will be fully illustrated by means of a stereopticon.

The lecture will take place in St. Rose parish hall.

A Basket Social.

On Tuesday evening the Germania society members expect to have a pleasant evening in the enjoyment of a basket social. Louis Brunner, the genial president of the society, has made ample provision for the affair.

THE SCRIBE OF DUNDAFF VILLAGE

He Writes to The Tribune of an Exciting Happening in the Staid Old Town—The Doings of One Jack Williams Who Has the Villagers After Him with Two or Three Warrants Apiece for His Arrest—Other Humorous Doings That Cause the Villagers to Gossip.

This letter introduces to The Tribune's readers the "scribe of Dundaff village."

The scribe has an eye and ear for the humorous and has the faculty of learning the funny things that give a laughing turn to the gossip of the village. The "scribe's" first contribution speaks for itself thuswise:

Dundaff, Pa., Nov. 11, 1901.

To the Scranton Tribune, Carbondale, Pa.

There has been more excitement in the village of Dundaff during the past week, than there has been for many a year. The peaceful tranquility of its denizens was disturbed by one Jack Williams, from Anthony's Patch, who landed in town on election day and proceeded to do some painting. He got all done, but one little job, which was O. T. Hull's cash store, and had started on that when he met with a snag. The stag was stepping a little too hard on the toes of E. E. Wells. The next thing Jack realized was when he awoke and found himself in one of Decker's box stalls, which is the Dundaff Jail.

This chain-lightning work of Mr. Wells has caused him to be christened the "Dundaff bouncer" by some of the villagers who are never adverse to a good fight. The good thing comes around Dundaff often; not too often, but often enough; and he always gets the glad hand, unless the G. H. is in jail.

Speaking of Jack, though, when he came to his senses, he was hauled up before the burgess; that's the only way you could get him there. The burgess also holds the office of tonsorial inspector and log roller.

A trial was in order. The burgess is a little absent-minded and forgot to swear in the witnesses until after he fined Jack. Later he discovered himself, but fearing it might hurt Jack's feelings he didn't change it. After imposing the fine, he called on Mr. Wells to state the charges against the man. When Wells arose to do his duty, all eyes were on him, and while he was speaking the prisoner escaped.

The citizens are at present worked up that they have all been sworn in as special police and carry three or four warrants apiece. Woe to you, Jack, if you ever come to Dundaff again.

There was a beautiful fish caught in Susquehanna lately and some of the old settlers say it is of the Philippine kind.

There's a person hereabouts who has a great liking for spring water. He doesn't care whether it has been running for thirty years or has just "sprung" up. There were a few of these men in the Lackawanna county election, but they were in "league" with a man who was running for judge and got lost in the race.

In the garden of a well known resident of Dundaff, there have been some remarkable freaks of nature. Last summer a lady—I mean a gentle "spring," which is seldom seen in this part of the country, though they are numerous in Spain. The choice of this one can be heard resonating, I mean reverberating, all over town.

Charles E. Wells will leave this week for Factoryville, where he will proceed to fill the rooms of his top floor with the heaps of things they stored out at college these days.

BARGAIN CHICKEN SUPPERS.

The dance at the rink Wednesday night proved to be a failure because the obliging and comely ladies of the Baptist church gave one of their suppers on the same night, which was well patronized, and realized a neat sum. Everybody is wondering how they can give a chicken supper for the meagre sum of ten cents.

Fuzzy, the young man who carries the mail from Dundaff to Clifford, seems to be a great favorite with the good looking girls along the route. He was greatly in evidence at the "snatch-'em, catch-'em" game at the Ladies' Aid supper. Some one told him he was so sweet that the flies lit on the top of his cranium, crawled down over his "onelegister" and sucked honey off his lower lip.

Thieves entered the barn of John Wayman and took therefrom all his harness. Not a trace of it can be found.

In next Saturday's issue, with the permission of the publisher, will appear a neat little story, entitled "The Doctor's Dream; or, Why the Pill Man Changed His Drops."

One of the cooks up at Fern Hall is being congratulated because she killed the biggest kind of a fat mouse, which was preparing to attack her.

Yours for Veracity,

The Village Scribe.

THE CAVE-IN SPREADS.

Street Car Traffic Interfered with by Settling Near Mayfield Yard.

There was quite a spread yesterday of the cave-in, near Mayfield yard, which was reported in The Tribune of Saturday.

The settling is about 1,500 feet north of the curve at Mayfield yard. It runs along under the tracks for about forty feet, and yesterday it extended to the roadway, involving about ten feet for the whole distance. When the first car was run to this city yesterday, the hole was found to have increased so since Saturday that the rails sagged to such an extent as to prevent the passage of the car. The hole was about twenty-feet deep, and required between sixty and seventy tons of dirt and stone to fill it. After a half day's work the roadbed was placed in shape for travel.

The workings underlying the cave-in are part of the Erie mine openings and have been abandoned some time. The robbing of pillars is attributed as the cause of the settling.

AMUSEMENTS.

"The Laughing Philosopher."

The second number in the Smith-Singer entertainment course of Brockway entertainers will be given at the Grand, Monday night, when A. W. Hawks, of Baltimore, Md., the humorist, will deliver his lecture, "Sunshine and Shadow."

A good humorist is always welcome, and Mr. Hawks is such a good one that he is called the "laughing philosopher."

The Louisville Courier-Journal, edited by Colonel Henry Watterson, himself, a gifted speaker, speaks of Mr. Hawks as follows:

"Sparkling with wit and humor and teeming with sunshine and smiles was the lecture delivered at Library hall last night by A. W. Hawks, of Baltimore, under the auspices of the Louisville Lyceum.

Mr. Hawks chose for his subject 'Sunshine and Shadow,' and the manner in which he handled it stamped him as a speaker of extraordinary ability. His lecture is irresistibly amusing, and every sentence is punctuated with a pun or a witticism. The audience was large and the speaker was frequently applauded."

The Nina Company Opens.

The Nina Repertoire company had a successful opening at the Grand last night and will likely play to good houses during the week. The specialties are the best seen here this season.

EVENTS OF TONIGHT.

IN HIGH SCHOOL AUDITORIUM—Rev. Dr. H. J. Whalen's lecture, "The Wit and Humor of the Irish People."

Miss Emma Swigert, graduate nurse, is in Scranton, where she is engaged on a case.

To Be Wedded Today.

There will be a wedding of two popular young persons in St. Rose church this morning at 9.30, when the nuptials of Miss Catherine Moran, of South Main street, and William Clarke, of Scott street, will be celebrated.

The Fair Opens.

The Cottage Hose company fair was opened in Watt's building last night. The opening was preceded by a parade of the city companies and the Mozart band. The feature of the evening was the address by President Nichols, of the United Mine Workers. The rainy weather militated somewhat against the attendance, but if the conditions be favorable, a big attendance is looked for tonight.

At the Hotels.

Among those registered at the Harrison house yesterday were: E. T. Nicols, John J. Maghran, W. A. Sanford, John T. Nallin, Thomas B. Walsh, S. J. Chapman, A. W. Fellows, W. N. Scheuer, Scranton; John F. Carroll, Elmira, N. Y.

A New Horse.

Expressman P. A. Walker has purchased a new horse, a splendid animal, that is the admiration of judges of good horses.

THE PASSING THRONG.

R. J. Woxon, of Port Jervis, N. Y., was at the American house yesterday.

John E. Allen, advertising manager for the Catholic Light of Scranton, was in the city yesterday.

JERMYN AND MAYFIELD.

Yesterday was a day of accidents at the Delaware and Hudson colliery. The first and most serious occurred in a chamber in the top vein, in which two miners, Michael Muldoon and George Baker and two Hungarian laborers were working. Without warning a large slab of rock fell, catching the two miners and one of the laborers. Baker was only slightly bruised about the shoulder and side and was able to walk home. Muldoon, the other miner, had a bad gash in his forehead, another painful cut on the leg, and it is feared he is hurt internally. The laborer, Toney Russiniock, was the most severely injured of the three, and besides a fractured thigh he had a long gash over one of his eyes and other minor injuries. The members of the First Aid to the Injured did some excellent work before the men were taken outside, in bandaging the men, and upon their arrival at their homes. Muldoon was attended by Dr. Graves, and Russiniock by Dr. Shields, who advised that the latter be taken to the Emergency hospital at Carbondale, which was done. Mr. Muldoon is one of Jermyn's oldest settlers and is well known all over the valley, and much regret is expressed for him.

Timothy Donovan, another miner in the same colliery, had several of his toes crushed about the same time the other men were injured, and later in the day James Baker, a driver, was kicked in the side by a mule. He was attended by a physician, but fortunately his injuries are not serious.

Miss Olive Frazer, of Buffalo, N. Y., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Nicholson, of Main street.

Misses Bertha and Ella Coon spent Saturday at Scranton.

Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Cooper, of Dalton, were visiting Jermyn friends yesterday, and were guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Nicholson last evening.

A little daughter arrived yesterday at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Byron H. Jackson, of Mayfield.

The following articles were disposed of at Saturday night's fair: Water set, won by Edward Dontigan, Carbondale; chair, John McGoff; meerschaum pipe, Annie Meehan; St. Aloysius' picture, Frank Burns; rocker, James Furey; center table, Miss Kate Quinn, Mayfield; rocker, John McGovern; suit of clothes, David Parry, Vandling; enlarged photograph of President McKinley, C. A. Battenberg.

OLYPHANT

The funeral of the late Thomas Loughney, who died in New York on Saturday last, was held yesterday afternoon from the home of his father, Michael Loughney, on upper Dunmore street. There was a large attendance of friends and relatives of the deceased young man. The remains were taken to St. Patrick's church, where a burial service was conducted. Interment was made in the West Side cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. George Watts, of Scranton, visited friends in Blakely yesterday.

Fred Raymond's popular comedy, "The Missouri Girl," will be presented at the Father Mathew opera house tomorrow evening. Mr. Raymond has secured a company this season that is the most satisfactory of any he has been able to secure in the past. Sadie Raymond appears in the part of Daisy Grubb, and Fred Raymond in the role of Zeke Dobson. A grand scenic production is expected.

At the Presbyterian church this evening a grand entertainment and illustrated lecture will be given. Rev. H. W. Dowding, M. A., will deliver an address on "The Life and Death of President McKinley." Tickets, 25 and 15 cents.

EAST AND WEST.

From the Syracuse Post-Standard.

With the happy English facility of commenting upon American affairs in such a way as to arouse as much as possible the ire of Americans, the London Times stated in a recent cable letter that "it is no exaggeration to say that New York is as unsafe today as a western mining town of a generation ago." This remark disagreed with the digestions of two classes, the New Yorkers of today, and the people who were inhabitants of western mining towns a generation ago. One of the latter, a Mr. Doman, has addressed a letter to the New York Commercial Advertiser upon the subject. He says that the western mining town as a standard of comparison in outlawry with New York is a wanton and infamous libel on every mining camp in the American West. "There are," he says, "more heinous and dastardly crimes in our Tammany-cursed city every twelve months than there have ever been in all the mining camps from Yukon to the Rio Grande in any ten years of their history. Your chosen rulers have been heavily flogs and thieves whom no typical western mining camp would ever have tolerated twenty-four hours longer than was necessary to bring them, a vigilance committee and a few stout lariats together."

—o—

We would gladly quote Mr. Doman's letter entire, but we can only find space for one more passage: "For the monstrous misrule of these unspeakable scapegoats—these Crokers and Sullivans, Doweys, Murphys, Van Wycks, Ungers, Frommes, et id emne genus hellionum—who have made the very name of your city 'a hissing and a byword,' a proverb of infamy throughout creation—you give up $100,000,000 a year in pirate taxes, and at least $100,000,000 more in blackmail, thievage, pillage, fraudulent contracts and franchises, bagnio tribute, take-offs and shakedowns, and miscellaneous and assorted blood money and wages of sin. Never again," commands Mr. Doman, "compare Cookerville with any place or thing west of Hoboken."

—o—

And that letter calls to mind the old, old question of the mutual understanding, and the lack of it, between the East and the West. The Elkhorn (Kan.) Republican holds the opinion that the understanding is all on one side. "The West," says this trumpet of freedom, in a recent editorial, "knows the East from A to Izzard, knows all its warped ons, half-baked ideas," but what the East doesn't know about the West would fill many, many books. According to the Elkhorn Republican the state of Eastern knowledge regarding Western affairs is as follows: "The Eastern lobsters who are forever reviling the West and who have no more knowledge of this country than has a Digger Indian of a mahogany seat in the New Jerusalem, are as narrow as a clothesline and as stupid as they are ignorant. There is more patriotism, more love of country and of the flag, more real manhood and womanhood, more love of the beautiful and true in any one of the Western states that can be found in an entire string of states along the Atlantic coast."

—o—

If that were really the way people west of the line through Central Indiana feel about it, something serious ought to be done to straighten matters out. As a matter of fact the people of the East, so far as the Republican's acquaintance with them goes, do not hold strongly to the opinion that the people west of Central Indiana are uncombed and unwashed persons who eat in the kitchen with their fingers, living cordite bazes in their hair, go to the latest races on Sundays and shoot each other on sight. The people of the East do not believe these things about the people of the West, and the people of the West know it. They also know that the Eastern people know they know it. But let bystanders be careful how they compare New York under Tammany with the Western mining town.

THE TOP SCORE EVERY TIME

The reason why Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills reach the great mass of human ills where others fail, is because this phenomenally brilliant physician foresaw the tendency of the age to hurry, to overdo, to overstrain, to neglect of one's self—Realized it meant nerve exhaustion, nerve collapse, and provided a cure—Knew that the first slight symptoms—weariness, disinclination to work, flagging appetite and loss of energy would pass unnoticed—Knew they would grow into a settled depression, mental fogginess, forgetfulness, dull, persistent headaches, impaired digestion, restlessness, nervousness, dizziness, heart irregularities and inability to sleep—and so constructed the Nerve Pills that they meet the situation fully—not by whipping or stimulation, but by the common sense plan of supplying to the nerves and tissue that which folly has robbed them of. Under their splendid re-invigorating power, one rests, one sleeps, the nerves grow quiet and steady, the heart action strong and regular, digestion perfect, the mind clear, and the body strong and vigorous.

Mr. Henry Alberts, of 616 Birch street, Scranton, Pa., says: "For about two years my back and kidneys had been sore, lame and the secretion in bad shape. Nothing seemed to help me at all until I got Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills at Matthews Bros.' drug store, 320 Lackawanna avenue. They did the work, curing the soreness and lameness, making the secretion healthy and generally giving me health and strength."

Mr. Thomas Summers, of 1619 Jackson street, Scranton, Pa., says: "Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are a splendid cure for nervous sick headaches. Mine were terrible at times. I was nervous at the same time. The Nerve Pills were recommended to me, and I got a box at Matthews Bros.' drug store, 320 Lackawanna avenue, and they completely cured the headaches and nervousness. This, I think, is recommendation enough."

Mrs. Joseph Mitchell, of 916 Linden street, West Scranton, Pa., says: "Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are fine. I was all out of order, nervous, and could not sleep—weak and miserable. The kidneys were sluggish and the back lame. Nothing seemed to help me until I got a box of the Nerve Pills at Matthews Bros.' drug store, 320 Lackawanna avenue. Since I took them I sleep well, don't jerk and talk. My nerves are steady. I feel strong and the kidneys are working well again. I am more than pleased, and glad to recommend the medicine."
