INSTITUTE AT HONESDALE.

Subjects Considered by Instructors. Concert by Edith Norton.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Honesdale, Nov. 14.—At the Wednesday afternoon session Prof. Green used as his subject, "American Writers of the Present Date." Miss Lloyd spoke on "How to Grow," and Prof. Darst on "Reading for Culture."

In the evening the Edith Norton Concert company gave an excellent entertainment in the court house. This was Miss Norton's third appearance before a Honesdale audience. The applause she received was proof that she was no less a favorite than on former occasions. The solos by Miss Pauline Johnson, whistling by Miss Janet Lester and mandolin parts by Mr. Harry Willard all brought forth prolonged applause. Every available seat in the court room was occupied and many were standing.

Thursday morning the devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. C. L. Percy. Prof. Darst occupied the first period. His subject was "Application of Method in Primary Reading." He dwelt on word method, teaching phrase and gave illustrations of the manner of spelling and reading in some country schools.

The next speaker was Dr. Andrew Thomas Smith, principal of Mansfield State Normal school. Mr. Smith, in taking the platform, stated that he saw many faces among the teachers that he was permitted to look upon five years ago, when here. He was glad to know that the Wayne county teacher was not satisfied with the funny part only, but craved that which was solid, sound and would broaden the mind. He named his subject "Vices of the Imagination," which he discussed accordingly and told the teachers to substitute virtue for vice. He spoke on three dangers of imagination, namely, visionary, seductive and corrupt.

HALLSTEAD.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Hallstead, Nov. 14.—As the receipts of the Hallstead postoffice have materially increased during the past year, this is to be a presidential office after January 1. An indictment was found by the recent grand jury against C. H. Monroe, of Great Bend township, upon a scandalous charge. As his bail had expired, through a mistake, he naturally took his flight to parts unknown. At least the sheriff, who came with a writ to serve last week, had to report he was missing. In consequence of there being no one to prosecute, the suit could not be tried. Some hold that Monroe was innocent of the charge and was a victim of circumstances.

ELMDALE.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Elmdale, Nov. 14.—Elmdale is fast assuming the appearance of a railroad town. A large force of men is employed day and night. Two steam shovels are used in preparing the site for the new yard, which will consist of fifteen tracks. The one fact to be lamented is the closing of the main road, thus obliging the farmers to drive an additional distance of nearly two miles over rough roads enroute to market. By early spring the tracks will be bridged and the road again opened to the public.

Their home, upon their return from their wedding trip in New York state, will be at Justus. The bride was attired in a beautiful ashes of rose cashmere, with white satin trimmings, and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemumus. FOREST CITY.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Forest City, Nov. 14.—The borough council this week rescinded their famous resolution "to instruct the secretary of the borough council to refrain from allowing any newspaper man or other citizen to see or meddle with the books of said council, except in the presence of one or more of the said council." The resolution was passed on Aug. 21, because of the comment of newspaper men on the actions of the council. It was merely the outcropping of a vindictive spirit and there is no question but that the council exceeded its authority in taking such action.

THE MARKETS.

Wall Street Review.

New York, Nov. 14.—Professional speculators were much disappointed over the effect of last night's official announcement of the terms of the settlement of the railroad controversy in the Northwestern. Their disappointment was due to the fact that a very light outside demand for stocks was attracted by the announcement. The watchful bears were keenly alive to the situation, and when they saw the efforts making to realize profits they put out extensive short lines to take away the market from those seeking to liquidate and then fiercely raided the market to dislodge stop loss orders and enable them to take profits on the short side. How large an element the short selling was in the weakness of the market was disclosed when the bears began to cover during the last hour. Substantial recoveries were made in all the active stocks and at some points among the coalers and the specialties there were complete recoveries. A notable fact in the day's trading was the comparative immobility of the United States Steel stocks. The transcontinental railroad stocks and some of the Vanderbilts which have been under manipulation recently for advances were most affected by the selling, although the list developed weakness throughout the course of the day. The recent speculation has been largely based upon the Northern Pacific settlement and with the details for that known, the professionals argue that all the good news was out, while the disquieting condition in the money market made it undesirable to hold stocks. Some of the recent price levels taken in connection with the terms of the Northern Securities company make it evident that those terms are a disappointment to the buyers at the prices indicated. There was a rather dubious feeling also as to how the transcontinentals not immediately concerned in the settlement are to benefit by it. The further adjustment of the Burlington directors was made by the bears to play upon the fears of timid holders. Total sales today, 1,100,500.

The railroad bond market was weak in sympathy with stocks. Total sales, par value, $5,-400,000. U. S. bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

PITTSTON.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Pittston, Nov. 14.—A report circulated throughout this section late last night and this morning to the effect that Duryea was the scene of a triple murder. That the report was untrue was certainly a streak of good fortune, for there had been a serious fight in a saloon at that place that resulted in the wrecking of the saloon and the stabbing of three men. Those who were injured were Joseph Majeiski, proprietor of the saloon; John Rustick, one of the participants, and a third party whose name could not be learned.

The affair took place about 9 o'clock. About fifteen men and several women were in Majeiski's saloon, at the corner of Chittenden street. They had been drinking freely and a quarrel arose between two of the men, because of the bartender's refusal to hand over drinks when the money was not forthcoming.

All hands pitched in. Clenched fists were parried at noses and eyes and some of the more excitable ones pulled knives and slashed them around, striking where they could. Majeiski, the proprietor, in attempting to put a quietus on the affair, came within reach of a knife, and received a bad gash on the back of the head and an ugly one down one of his cheeks. Rustick, one of the fighters, also was stabbed on the head, and the third party, name unknown, was stabbed to such an extent as to be confined to his bed at noon today, when The Tribune man went over the scene. The wives of two or three of the men were in the saloon at the time, and played the role of peacemakers, to no avail. Two of the women showed signs of having been in the fight; their arms were bruised and blood-stained.

The saloon was badly wrecked, the windows having been smashed with rocks, the bottles and glasses scooped out, the fixtures and the mirrors destroyed. The contents of the money drawer, amounting to $47, was secured by someone.

The borough police officers finally arrived on the scene and took the principals in tow. The borough is without a lockup, and the prisoners, seven in number, were taken to the burgess' office and locked up over night, while two Polish policemen stood guard. This morning Burgess Burlington fined each $8, which was paid. Later in the day, seven of them, John Rustick, Joseph Mishock, John Zarnock, Adam Dalgoda, Frank Chalk, Stanley Grunenski and Frank Mitka, were arrested on warrants sworn out before Squire Motiska. The prosecutor was the saloonkeeper. The prisoners were all held under bail to appear at court.

A gambling den, which has been in full force on Water street, this city, ever since last spring, under the management, it is alleged, of Frank Treen, a well known Scranton gambler, was raided by Sheriff Harvey, Deputy Comow and Constables Davis and Honeywell, all of Wilkes-Barre, last night, shortly before 11 o'clock. Twelve prisoners and the entire paraphernalia, valued at about $800, confiscated.

Several games were on when the sheriff and his posse swooped down on the joint, called the game and gathered in the contents of the "pussy," while the inmates, thirteen in number, hurriedly made a search for some avenue of escape, but found them well guarded by the sheriff's assistants. Two of the inmates, however, managed to get out, but one of them was detected and notified to be on hand at the hearing. The other, who is said to be one of the slickest of Scranton's gamblers, managed to slip away unnoticed, and after the raiders and their prisoners had departed from the place, is said to have slipped back into the joint and surveyed the remains.

Alderman English was roused out of bed and called to his office to give the prisoners a hearing. They were held under bail. Mayor Corcoran showed his hand when he appeared on the scene and entered bail for some of the gamblers for a further hearing today before Alderman Pollock at Wilkes-Barre. Owen Healy furnished the bail for the remainder.

About 3 o'clock this morning the contents of the room, including a faro lay-out, a roulette wheel, poker tables, chips, cards, and a well-stocked sideboard, were loaded on a wagon and taken to the county seat.

Just who the prisoners were was known only to those on the inside until the hearing this afternoon before Alderman Pollock, when it was learned that the warrants contained the following names: Arthur E. Luce, of Scranton; Joseph Hilkovitch, proprietor of the Hub Clothing house of this city; M. J. Buckley, janitor of Music hall; Leo Lavan, a well known young man of this city; John Boyle, son of J. J. Boyle, proprietor of the Wyoming Valley hotel; John Marley, Jules Vanam, Owen J. Rady, John Williams, Al. Schultz, Charles Morris and John Curley. All were present except the latter two. This gives rise to the suspicion that these names are fictitious, and that the real persons are two of the city's leading officials. At this hearing Mayor Corcoran, of this city, again demonstrated his position on the vice question by going bail for all the prisoners.

District Attorney Jones was in attendance on the hearing and stated that after having had consultation with the judges of the court, he would ask that the prisoners be held under bail as witnesses in a case which would be prepared against the proprietor of the place, Fred Treen. He may be arrested in Scranton tonight.

It has been known for some time that this gambling joint has been in operation on Water street, one of the main thoroughfares of the city, but it has continued without any molestation from the city authorities, excepting a feigned raid several months ago. At Wilkes-Barre, this afternoon, it was said that the sheriff acted on complaint of a well known Pittston woman, whose husband has been the loser of considerable money in the place. The affair was the talk of the entire city today.

Dr. C. W. Provost, of this city, and Miss Sue Tisch, of Wilkes-Barre, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents at high noon today. It was a quiet wedding, owing to the illness of the bride's mother, and only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were in attendance. Oppenheim's orchestra furnished the music. The bride was attired in violet etamine, trimmed with Russian lace. Dr. and Mrs. Provost will reside at West Pittston.

John Williams, of Wyoming avenue, West Pittston, received severe burns to his hands and slight burns to his face while at work in the Red Ash vein of the Exeter colliery, Tuesday afternoon.

John B. George, a well known elocutionist of Wilkes-Barre, will be the conductor of both sessions of the entertainment to be held in the Welsh Congregational church here, Thanksgiving afternoon and evening.

The Young Men's Christian association basket ball team will open the season here with a game with the Ninth regiment team in Armory hall, Friday evening, Dec. 6.

George Williams, a colored gentleman, who has conducted a barber shop on Luzerne avenue, West Pittston, for several years, has disposed of his stock and fixtures to Messrs. Augustus Saugle and C. H. Lilly, two well known barbers of this place. The new firm took possession at once and Mr. Williams will open a shop in Wilkes-Barre.
