A WRECK, FIRE, AND A CRUSHED BRAKEMAN

All Three in a Remarkable Railway Accident on the O. & W. Road in This City - A Caboose Thrown from the Track. Pinions Jacob Humphrey, a Brakeman, Against Old Store House - Rescuers Chop Way Timbers to Release Him. Leg Amputated at Hospital - Fire Department Called Out.

A terribly distressing railway accident, and one of the most remarkable ever chronicled hereabouts, occurred about 4 o'clock yesterday on the Ontario and Western railroad, just above the iron bridge at the end of the long trestle that runs past that company's passenger station in this city.

A caboose that was part of a freight train that was making a flying switch, through some miscalculation, was bumped into by the cars from which it had just become detached.

The caboose was lifted from the rails, raised high into the air and thrown over a 15-foot retaining wall, where Jacob Humphrey, of Carbondale, the brakeman, who was on the caboose, was caught between the caboose and the store house.

His leg was pinioned and to release him the firemen had to chop the iron timbers that restrained him. It was a trying situation. Humphrey's leg was frightfully crushed. The bones were crushed and the blood vessels were burst and torn.

Humphrey's rescuers, beset with these two fears, that he might bleed to death or be roasted by the flames which were making headway among the effects of the caboose, were moved to frantic desperation to remove him from the double fate that threatened him.

The alarm turned in.

Humphrey's rescuers divided their efforts between releasing him and fighting the fire, which was blazing in the caboose.

A Remarkable Happening.

It is a case that is a puzzle. It made a complete turn and landed with wheels upward.

CHARLES HULL'S CONDITION

The Victim of Sunday's Fire Burned Worse Than Suggested at First. Fears for His Eyesight.

The letters received by Fireman Charles Hull, the victim of Sunday's fire, are worse than supposed when he was taken to Dr. Wheeler's hospital after being rescued from the flames.

Hull's life is now in danger. From the beginning, there was little, if any, apprehension as to his ultimate recovery, but fears as to his eyesight are giving the physicians some concern.

There is widespread sympathy for Hull, who bears the reputation of being the most fearless, courageous and daring fire fighter in the city.

His leg was pinioned and to release him the firemen had to chop the iron timbers that restrained him.

It was a trying situation. Humphrey's leg was frightfully crushed. The bones were crushed and the blood vessels were burst and torn.

Hull Delirious Last Night.

At 11 o'clock last night, The Tribune learned at Dr. Wheeler's hospital, that Hull's case was assuming a serious aspect.

A TERRIBLE FATE.

Nicholas Flood, Erie Brakeman, Found Mangled Along Tracks.

The body of Nicholas Flood was brought to this city yesterday morning. He met death on the Erie railroad Sunday night between Forest City and the Summit.

The train was going toward this city. At Summit, Flood left the caboose to go out and set the brakes on the train.

Mr. Flood was born in this city forty years ago, and has been a railroad-rider since reaching manhood.

He was married and has five children.

His wife and five children, Edward, Nicholas, Mary, Madeline and Elizabeth. Four brothers and two sisters survive him, as follows: Thomas, of this city, Patrick, of Philadelphia; Mary, wife of Frank Poester, and Bridget, wife of Alderman Atkinson, both of this city.

overwhelming disaster, the congregation is pushing on to rebuilding the destroyed church and restoring to it all its former beauty.

Rev. Charles E. Lee was present to extend the sympathies of himself and congregation. It was decided to accept the tender of this congregation, and commencing with next Sunday the Methodist congregation will unite in services with the Presbyterians.

A building committee consisting of Messrs. Butler, Pascoe, Robinson, Tiffney and Whitlock, was appointed. They will communicate with several architects for proposals as to the reconstruction of the church.

Rev. Mr. Chaffee also received the following letter from Park Keeper Richard Udy, which impressed him greatly by the warm-hearted sentiment and the generous spirit indicated.

My Dear Sir: I sympathize with you and the good people of your congregation in the loss of your most beautiful church by fire yesterday.
