Weddings Of a Day

DONNELLY-LEE. Frank E. Donnelly, the well-known young attorney of this city, was last night married to Miss Jean Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Lee, of 174 North Franklin street, Wilkes-Barre. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride by Rev. R. A. McAndrew, pastor of St. Mary's church, Wilkes-Barre.

The wedding was one of the most elaborate of the year, the ceremony being performed in the drawing room of the handsome residence at 8 Lock, Oppenheim's orchestra, hidden behind a bank of palms in the reception hall, discoursed sweet music for a half hour prior to the ceremony and played the "Lohengrin" wedding march as the groom, accompanied by his best man, George H. Rice, of this city, took his place in the hall to await the coming of the bride.

The bride entered a moment later from an adjoining room, looking radiantly beautiful in a costume of lace over Liberty satin, out on train. She wore a bridal veil, caught by a diamond snubstair and orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Following the ceremony an elaborate supper was served in the dining room, which was artistically decorated with palms, asparagus, pine, ground pine, maiden-hair fern and pink chrysanthemums. ROCKWELLS ARE DIVORCED. Notwithstanding That, Mrs. Rockwell Has Begun Proceedings. The People, Ill. Evening Star of recent date contains the following: At the May term of the circuit court at Peoria, George N. Rockwell was granted a decree of divorce from his wife, Emma Rockwell. She was not present and the decree went in Rockwell's favor.

Some at Scranton, N. Y. Mrs. Rockwell has sued her husband for absolute divorce, alleging that he is married to another woman and is living with her in Chicago. Rockwell has filed a return denying her charges. He says that he was granted a divorce in the circuit court of Illinois at Peoria in May, 1901. The divorce, he said, both parties were present. The two were married on June 11, 1897, and have three children—Mary A. Larkin, 27 years old, living in Rochester, N. Y.; George, and Edith, living in Chicago, and Margaret, aged 15, living with her father in Chicago.

An examination of the court records by a Star reporter this morning revealed the fact that Rockwell's statement is true and correct. The divorce was granted on Monday, May 27, 1901, so that Mrs. Rockwell has no case.

The Rockwells formerly resided in Scranton, and for several years Mr. Rockwell was organist at Elm Park church, and later had charge of the music at Second Presbyterian church. Mr. and Mrs. Rockwell moved from Scranton to Syracuse about five years ago.

ARRESTED FOR ARSON. Miss Bridget Lavelle Taken Into Custody This Morning, Charged with Causing Midnight Blaze. Another woman is in custody on the charge of arson. The prisoner this time is Miss Bridget Lavelle, of McDonough avenue, who was arrested early this morning by Lieutenant Palmer, charged with setting fire to a house on Church avenue, near Ferdin and Street, which she claims to own.

The house, which was unoccupied, caught fire last night a few minutes before midnight, and when the police and firemen arrived they found Miss Lavelle being held by a man living in the neighborhood, who turned her over to their custody, after explaining that he had noticed her moving about inside the house for an hour before the fire started.

There were two separate and distinct free, one on the second floor and the other on the ground floor. Both were easily extinguished, and then the firemen began an investigation. They found that the blaze on the second floor had been caused by an oil stove, which was turned inside down. On the ground floor a big pile of charcoal paper was found in the center of one of the rooms. An old mattress, pulled apart and saturated with kerosene, was found, as well as a sheet soaked in oil.
