THE POWER OF COURTESY

Three-fourths of the Doctors and One-half the Merchants and Lawyers Owe Their Success to It More Than Any Other Power, Says Dr. Phillips, of Westchester Normal School, to Carbondale Teachers. Miss Lloyd's Talk on Physiology. Prof. Albert Continues Geography Talks-Other Incidents of the

"Half the merchants and half the lawyers owe their success not to their business qualities nor professional ability, but owe as much to their courtesy as to any power they have; and three-fourths of the doctors of Carbondale are successful for the same rea

This is what Dr. Phillips, of West Chester Normal school, affirmed in his talk yesterday forenoon at the city teachers' institute. He was discussing school discipline or school manage-ment and when he stated this fact which is accepted as having a good deal of force, he was seeking to impress on the teachers what a source of power they had in their school life in being kind and courteous. Thurlow Weed, the great politician of New York, when he was in the height of his power, advised a young man to be courteous if he would succeed.

Child study is good, but selfstudy of ourselves, our dispositions will be a great help and will be another source of power. Another source of power is the respect of the pupils for our scholarship. The teacher who will have her scholars respect her powers of knowledge and learning will find that it will go a long way towards her controlling her school.

The Value of Praise.

"The value of praise is wonderful." said Dr. Phillips, with greater em-"We are too ready sometimes phasis. to find fault when we ought to praise. There is a good deal more in praising than in finding fault. I never knew one teacher who praised too much; the trouble is we do not praise enough. You know how good you feel when your superintendent or one of your directors visit you and says a kind word in recognition of some of your official acts.

Be frank and willing to admit your error if you are wrong; and always hear what your pupils have to say in defense of himself. Keep in mind that the worst scoundrel on trial in your court house for the most dastardly crime has the right to tell his story before he is condemned. Remember the advice of Edison to the mother who brought her son to the famous inventor to hear something that might benefit him. Edison was absorbed in his work: he was lost to everything but what was before him; naturally he was in ill humor when approached by the woman and her son. Edison looked at the woman and the lad and blurted: "Madam, tell you son not to watch the So teachers, said Dr. Phillips. don't watch the clock; don't hurry time in anticipating the social or other engagement that you have in mind.

In conclusion, Dr. Phillips suggested that the teachers read more of work on education, by Herbert Spencer, the father of school management He reminded them as a parting thought that, primarily, education is not the mere teaching of the lessons of the text books; public education is to make your scholars good citizens. In this great and responsible work, school management is of the first importance.

In the afternoon, Dr. Phillips took the teachers and spectators on a hurried, but none the less interesting trip through the city of London, commend ing with the ride on the railway cars to the famous city, after crossing the His descriptions were so clear and entertaining that everybody enjoyed the illusion that she was in the city of fogs and historic place.

Dr. Phillips gave a graphic picture of the poverty and misery of London. which was probably the greatest of any city in the world as was true of the wealth and pleasure of the big city.

The Tobacco Habit.

She spoke on alcohol in the evening It was incidental to her talk on primary physiology. She instanced the athletic contests of the land of William Tell where the contestants in archery abstain for months from the use of alcohol and tobacco that they may have steady nerves to send the arrow into the mark. Teach the boys, was her advice, that they will have need for strong muscles and steady nerves in the battle of life, which can best be preserved by abstinence from | SCOTT & EOWNE, 400 Peal sizes. Miss Lloyd decried the education that would tell a boy that he could earn his living without the use of his tion of "Way Down East," is also bands. She had a contempt for this owner of "Lovers' Lane," This is a kind of education. Dignify manual labor, by impressing on the boy that staging of the piece; of this, those who he will have to use his hands. In this way he will learn to value the wonderful body given him and he will like "Way Down East," is far superior learn to care for it.

In her talk in the afternoon, Miss Lloyd went after the tobacco habit, particularly the eigarette habit which she claimed "was ruining so many of our boys and preventing them from reaching their full growth and development." She attributed the growth of the habit among boys to the example of older persons who smoked at will

Miss Lloyd quoted France as one of tions showed that the women of the clared to be a success. present generation are taller by one nch than those of the preceeding generation; while men are three-quarters of an inch shorter. This falling behind on the part of the men, she charged to the use of tobacco as a factor. Miss Lloyd gave numerous hints as to the suppression of the habit, not by scolding, but by pointing out those prominent men, men of national prominence, who do not use tobacco. Foremost among these was President Roosevelt

Prof. Albert gave two of his usually interesting talks on geography and that he is sowing the seeds of his teachings in good soil is evident from the disussion of his methods heard among the teachers.

CRUSHED TO DEATH.

Brakeman Walter Rounds' Life Destroyed Between Two Cars While at Work in D. & H. Yard.

Walter Rounds a Delaware and Hudson brakeman, had his life crushed out yesterday morning, about 11 o'clock, while at his duties in the Delaware and Hudson yard in this city. He was caught between two trains and was fearfully squeezed, his neck being broken. Both arms were also frac-

Rounds met his tragic death. The most plausible is that while he was walking dong with his train to uncouple a car from the engine, he did not know of the approach of another train on an adjoining track, which caught him, jammed him between the cars and squeezed him until his neck was broken. The other supposition, for it s no more, is that he was riding on the tender of his engine, that he struck against a car on the adjoining switch. not noticing it, as he was riding backwards, and was struck on the head. His cries attracted Conductor Frank Kiefer, on whose train he worked, but he expired immediately. Rounds had just come to work, as his train was getting ready to pull out for Wilkes-Barre, after having come in from Nineveh in charge of Conductor Sig Robbins.

Rounds was taken first to Purple's undertaking place, and then to his home at No. 1 Canaan street, to his wife, whom he left only an hour before, and who became prostrated with grief. The deceased came to Carbondale seven years ago from Uniondale, where ne was born thirty-one years ago. After working on the trolley road a short time, he got employment as trainman. He had many friends among the trainmen and off the railroad, and there will be much sorrow over his death. He was a member of the First Methodist Episcopal church.

Mr. Rounds is survived by his wife one daughter, Anna, aged seven; his mother, Mrs. Oney Rounds, and one sister and three brothers, as follows: Mrs. Henry Robinson, of Omaha, Neb.: Jason D. Rounds, of Galeton, this state, and Jesse J. Rounds, of this city, a train dispatcher for the Delaware and Hudson.

DR. WALSH'S COMING.

Achievements of the Lecturerer Who Will Be Here Monday Night.

The third number on the Knights of 'olumbus lecture course will be given on Monday evening next, when James J. Walsh, A. M., Ph. D., will deliver his famous lecture, "Literature and the Protestant Reformation."

This lecture has been given before the Catholic club of New York and the Women's association of Brooklyn, and is to be delivered before the John Boyle O'Rielly reading circle of Boston. The ports from committees this afternoon. latter has but three lectures per year and selects its lecturers with much eare. The last two on the course were Booker Washington and Father O'Brien Pardow, the recent provincial of the Jesuits. As a lecturer, therefore, it is shown that Dr. Walsh is second to none in the United States. As literary lecturer to the Brooklyn Institute of Science and Art, he is associated with such men as Brander Matthews, Hamilton Mable, Henry Van Dyke, of Princeton, and Bliss Perry of the Atlantic Monthly. Dr. Walsh is also well known in Europe, where he spent some years in study and research. As a linguist untussia, a few years ago.

The Knights of Columbus are being late from Dr. Walsh, and he will undoubtedly be greeted by a large au-dience in St. Rose Hall on Monday
