The incident today was the direct sequel of the very bitter controversy which arose between the senators in South Carolina last spring. Mr. McLaurin arose to a question of personal privilege today and proceeded to explain what he charged was a conspiracy to discredit him in his own state for acts and views which did not meet the approval of certain Democratic leaders. He declared that he was being humiliated and according to public prints was to be excluded from the Democratic caucus because he had acted upon certain public issues in a way interests of the country and the people Lakeville, when a negro postmaster which he considered was for the best believer in the old Democracy and after voted for the war with Spain and dedenouncing the new Democratic lead- clared that in the same spirit in which ers who, he said, had brought destruc- he had cast that vote he felt that he tion upon the party, declared that he could not be driven from his old allegionce into a party with which he did not care to affiliate.

Senator Lodge presented in executive session the report of the committee on foreign relations recommending favorable action upon the Hay-Pauncefote isthmian canal treaty and gave notice that tomorrow he would ask the senate to go into executive session for the consideration of the treaty, repeating the request each day until the senate should act upon it.

Mr. Hoar's Resolution.

Mr. Hoar (Mass.) offered a resolution to authorize the president to enter into negotiations with other civilized countries for the purpose of selecting some island or other suitable territory to which might be transported and confined persons instigating or counseling the destruction of all government, or those attempting the lives of chief magistrates. The resolution was referred to the committee on foreign

A stir in the chamber followed, when Mr. McLaurin (S. C.) arose to a question of personal privilege. He had before him a huge pile of manuscript.

"I arise to a question of personal privilege in connection with the published statement that I have been excluded from participation in the Demoeratic party," he announced. With evidence of considerable emotion he proceeded to explain that if such was the case and if he was to be without assignment upon committees the right of his state, which he in part represented in the senate, would suffer. The only notice he had ever had, he said, that he was to be excluded from the Democratic caucus came last spring, before the adjournment of the senate, when chairman of the Democratic national commuttee in the cloak room asked him why he no longer attended e Democratic caucuses. He replied that in view of his opinion of the questions growing out of the Spanish war, he thought his presence might be embarrassing. The Democratic chairman had replied: "Then, perhaps, it would less embarrassing to you not to be invited to the caucus.

Mr. McLaurin said he had replied,

This incident, Mr. McLaurin declared, was the cuimination of a long series of events in a contest waged by an element of the Democratic party against him.

The entire senate by this time had become interested. Several Republi-cans crossed to the Democratic side, to be better able to listen to what Mr.

He said he had not wished to vote gainst his yarty upon the question of ratifying the peace treaty and had it not been for the reopening of hostilities in the Philippines he would have deferred to the opinion of his colleagues. But he declared "the dictates of reason and conscience should not be stifled by the party lash." With bitter words Mr. McLaurin then proceeded to excoriate the new leaders of the Democracy, who, he said, had guided the party to its destruction during the last six years and was trying to crucify those who seek to draw the Democratic party back to its old allegiance. still proposed, he said, to vote in his judgment for what he believed to be along the lines of Democratic principles but he did not propose to place himself against a proposition which he believed to be for the best interests of the people simply because it was advocated by Republicans, In conclusion, he said he did not propose to be driven from his own party or to be forced into affiliation with the party which he did not care to ally himself and that on great public questions he would act according to the dietates of his own constience and best judgment. When Mr. McLaurein took his sent, Mr. Jones (Ark.), (the chairman of the Democratic national committee took the floor. He denied some of the statements made by Mr. McLaurin, erpefully so for as it indicated that he (Jones) had any ulterior motives in any action he took regarding Mr. McLaurin's connection with the Democratic party. He admitted, however, having said, in's recent conversation with a leading member on the other side, that he did not think the Democratic cauus could undertake to provide committee assignments for the senator

Mr. Tillman (S. C.) was on his feet when Mr. Jones concluded. In his charicteristic way be announced that, while his name had not been mentioned, be realized that he was the acuse of it all.

He would not at this time make an extended reply. Briefly, he reviewed he controversy between himself and Senator McLaurin, which led to the joint tender of their resignations to the governor of South Carolina last spring and of their subsequent withdrawal on he suggestion of the governor. .-The fate of George Hayes and a party of three prospectors, who left here to prospect in the Philippines in 1899, has been revealed in a letter just received in this city. The party has been missing since March, 1900, and every effort to locate the miners has been futile up to this time.

The Rev. J. C. Lenhart, formerly a minister at Hawaii, residing at Manila, was induced by friends of the missing men to take up the search. Diligent inquiry on his part disclosed the fact that the party, disregarding he warnings of the military not to venture beyond their lines of defense, had gone into the mountains of central Luzon. Later the bodies of the four men were found literally chopped to pieces by bolomen. The heads and arms were severed from the bodies and the bodies were otherwis horribly mutilated. ANOTHER CASHIER TAKES A VACATION

H. J. Fleishman, of Los Angeles, Left a Shortage of $100,000. The Bank Protected.

By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press. Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 9.-H. J Fleischman, cashier of the Farmers and Merchants' bank of this city, has disappeared with a sum of the bank's money, which Vice-President Hellman discovered today. Fleischman has not been seen since Saturday morning. He notified the bank people that he was ill Saturday morning and would not be at his desk.

When he failed to report today his accounts were examined and the shortage was discovered. The exact amount has not yet been ascertained.

Fleischman has been cashier and assistant of the Farmers' and Merchants' bank for a long time. He began work for the bank when a boy in 1875. He was under bond with a surety company for $30,000. In addition to this, he has real estate and personal property in this city sufficient in the opinion of Mr. Hellman to protect the bank from the loss of a dollar. Fleischman married the daughter of

Failing in this they will report some recommendation to the executive council of the Federation for carrying out the resolution adopted Saturday, pledging the fullest support of the Federation to the fight of the strikers. Only one session of the convention was held yesterday, adjournment being made at 11 o'clock to give the committees opportunity to frame reports for the convention's consideration. During the two hours the convention was in session, fifteen of the 197 resolutions referred to committees were reported and disposed of.

One Caused Discussion.

Only one of the resolutions was productive of any considerable discussion. This was one involving the attitude of the federation towards labor-saving machinery. It was precipitated by the recommendation of the committee on labels that the word "machinery" be eliminated from the resolution denouncing cigars made by "child labor, machinery and other unfair methods.

to non-concur in the committee's report and adopt the resolution as it stood, explaining that the Clgarmakers refuse to recognize eigar machines. Delegate M. M. Brandt declared it a feelish proposition to attempt to boycott machinery, especially when it may be true that the machines are made by

ers, opened the discussion by moving union labor. Delegate J. T. Morgans thought it an exceedingly unwise and bad policy for the American Federation of Labor to go on record as favoring a boycott on machinery. Delegate Max Hayes, who is looked upon as the leader of the socialists, made a lengthy speech in defense of the committee's action in cutting out the word machinery. In the first place, he said, the word was superfluous, because the words "other unfair methods" were broad enough to cover all that ought to be encompassed in the resolution. In the second place, he declared, the Clearmakers have no right to come into the convention and ask the American Pederation of Labor to go on rec-
