A miniature battle with revolvers occurred on Luzerne street yesterday. It was an outgrowth of the stoning of street cars Sunday on Luzerne street and as a result of the shooting two men were injured and several received bodily bruises. Daniel McAuiliffe received five bullet wounds in his left leg, and John Dunleavy was shot in the groin. The former is now at the Lackawanna hospital, where the X-rays will be used to locate the bullets.

The trouble originated on Sunday when a street car on the Luzerne line was pelted with stones. A warrant was issued yesterday by Alderman Millar for the arrest of one "John Doe" or "Brown," and placed in the hands of "Frank Scotland," a special officer in the employ of Alderman Millar, who is also one of the striking street car men.

He went to Moran's hotel on Luzerne street, accompanied by the motorman, who was in charge of the car that was stoned on Sunday, and Detective "Gus" Grove, of the Drummond agency, who is in the employ of the Street Railway company.

They identified the man for whom the warrant was issued, and while Scotland was reading it to him he was struck in the face by someone. Immediately the crowd surrounded the officers and closed in on them, and prevented their taking their man.

Schofield alleges that while he was fighting his way out of the crowd, two shots were fired at him, and that revolvers were pointed at him. The crowd moved into the street, where the hostilities were renewed, and several shots were exchanged, during which McAuiliffe and Dunleavy were injured.

Schofield, Conroy and the motorman succeeded in making their escape, and McAuiliffe was taken to the West Side hospital, and afterwards to the Lackawanna hospital. Dunleavy appeared at the West Side hospital, but did not remain for treatment.

Schofield claims that they were compelled to shoot in self-defense, although he alleges that he did not do any shooting himself, and does not know who it was that injured McAuiliffe and Dunleavy.

He says there was thirty or forty people in the crowd, several of whom picked on him at the same time. The man, he alleges, for whom the warrant was issued, had a revolver, but passed it over to another man in the crowd. It was this man, he alleges, who fired the first two shots.

The place where the riot occurred was at the corner of Sixteenth and Luzerne streets, and the shooting took place about 1:30 o'clock. The victims reside in the vicinity where the shooting occurred.

OPENING OF THE SECOND WEEK

CASES DEALT WITH IN QUARTER SESSIONS.

Colored Man Who Attempted an Outrage on a Dodgetown Woman Is Given Four and One-half Years in the Penitentiary by Judge Edwards—Import Commodore Tried Before Luzerne's New Judge, Hon. Frank Wheaton and Acquitted. Other Cases Disposed of.

The second week of the December term of quarter sessions opened yesterday, with Judge Edwards in the main court room, Judge Kelly in No. 2 and Judge Frank Wheaton, of Luzerne in No. 3. Judge Wheaton was appointed to the fourth Luzerne judgeship for two years and three months.

Before Judge Kelly, a verdict of not guilty was entered in the case in which Lorenzo Stomoz was charged with assault and battery upon Emily Gentle. The prosecutor failed to appear. The costs were placed on the county.

In the embezzlement case against ex-Tax Collector John D. Jones, of Tazewell, a continuance was granted on motion of R. L. Murray, private counsel for the prosecution.

Opinion in Orphans' Court. Judge A. A. Vosburg, of the orphans' court, yesterday handed down an opinion in which he upheld a decision rendered by Judge Carpenter a few months ago in which the latter held that a charge can be created upon certain land by the owner thereof in his will which holds good despite the transfer of the property by the devisee to another party.

The opinion was given in the case of Charles Gummur, deceased, executor of the estate of Thomas Patterson, and by him conveyed to Silas Hartley. The latter refused to pay the interest which Mrs. Gummur claimed was a fixed charge on the property and she went into court.

The farm was sold at sheriff's sale after the testator's death to Thomas Patterson, and by him conveyed to Silas Hartley. The latter refused to pay the interest which Mrs. Gummur claimed was a fixed charge on the property and she went into court.

Wants $5,000 Damages. Thomas Suravitz, through his attorney, John M. Harris, yesterday began a suit against the Scranton Illuminating, Heat and Power company for damages in the sum of $5,000.

He claims that while walking along South Washington avenue, on his way home, one night last July, he became entangled in a live wire, which had fallen to the street from one of the company's poles. Before he could disentangle himself he was severely shocked, with the result that his right arm has been useless ever since.

Wants $30,000 Damages. Mrs. Mary C. Ansley, executrix of the estate of Joseph Anselmo, charged yesterday began an action to recover $30,000 from the city of Scranton.

A sewer which runs through the premises of the plaintiff, in West Scranton, was maintained by the city in an improper and unsanitary condition, and caused Joseph Anselmo to contract the illness which resulted in his death.

Newest Calendars, Reynolds Bros. Sterling Desk Blotters, Reynolds Bros.

CROSS-ACTIONS. John F. Lukus, charged by Mike Ushko with felonious larceny, and Mike Ushko and John Marten, charged by Lukus with a similar offense, were tried jointly. The parties live in West Scranton, and are members of a secret society. One of the members died, and a dispute arose as to whether the death benefits should be sent to the children of the deceased or to their step-mother. Lukus was seriously stabbed, and Ushko sustained a bad cut. The case is still on trial.

In Judge Edwards' court, John Lukus, of Dunmore, was returned not guilty of the charge of robbery, preferred by John Duggy. The prosecutor claimed that he was visiting at Lukus' house one night; that Lukus voluntarily accompanied him to a home, and that while passing through a field, Lukus forced him to take a doped drink, and when he was down and out, Lukus rifled his pockets and made off with $51. Lukus denied the whole story, with the exception that he took Duggy home one night when Duggy was so drunk he could not walk.

Thomas Kenny pleaded guilty of assault and battery on his wife. He was let off with a fine of $1 and costs, in consideration of his having been in jail since September 28. Thomas Reilly, of South Scranton, pleaded guilty of stealing a suit of clothes, overcoat and watch from the bed room of Coachman Allison Testa in Philip Robinson's stables on October 20, Saturday last. Reilly pleaded guilty of stealing from W. S. Gould's stables, about two months ago, a rubber-tired buggy, a horse, two sets of harness, a fly net, a horse clipper, and a pumeling bag. Yesterday, on the advice of his attorney, John J. Murphy, he withdrew the plea of Saturday and went to trial. His defense will be that he was crazy drunk, wandered into the Gould stables and made off with such things as he could gather up, and that later everything was returned except the clipper which he lost. It will be contended that there was no malicious intent.

WAS QUEEN OF THE KLONDIKE

SHE IS NOW THE WIFE OF A FRENCH NOBLEMAN.

Formerly She Was Miss Belinda Mulrooney, of Archbald, and at One Time Worked as a Stewardess on an Ocean Steamer—Accompanied by Her Husband She Came Here to Take Her Mother, Sisters and Brother on a Visit to Canada and a Trip Through Europe.

On the Hotel Jermyn register, yesterday, were inscribed the names "Mr. and Mrs. Corbonnaux, Dawson, and Mrs. J. Mulrooney." The suite, indicated by the numbers after their names, is the best the house affords for transients.

At once the story went through the hotel that Klondikers, with all kinds of the pretensions, were quartered there. The reporters were after a story before the party was fairly settled, but the Corbonnauxs, of Dawson, and Mrs. Mulrooney (no residence given) were politely, but positively, not at home to interviewers.

Before dinner time, however, the identity of the party was disclosed, and when they came to the dining-room they were the cynosure of all eyes.

Mr. and Mrs. Corbonnaux are no less persons than the Count and Countess Corbonnaux, and the latter is none other than the celebrated "Queen of the Klondike," formerly Miss Belinda Mulrooney, of Archbald. Mrs. Mulrooney is the mother of the countess.

The Corbonnauxs came on here, en route to Europe from Dawson, to visit the Mulrooney's. After a short stay, they will proceed, with the countess' mother, two sisters and a brother, to Ottawa, Can., to visit two other sisters, who are there attending a boarding school. Later the count and countess will go to London and Paris, to negotiate sales of mining stock, and after a three months' tour of the continent will return here, to take up a permanent residence in California. The Mulrooney family will accompany them.

John Mulrooney, father of the countess, went to the Klondike about a year ago. Her elder brother is to go there next year, probably.

REPRESENTS SYNDICATE. Count Corbonnaux is the representative of a mining syndicate composed of some of the most wealthy and prominent of the nobility of England and the old nobility of France, of which latter class he, himself, is a member. When in Dawson he met, wooed and wed the wealthy and fair young Archbald woman, whose fame as an investor and manager had gone the world over.

To those not familiar with the remarkable career of this truly remarkable woman, the following story sent out from the Klondike, prior to her marriage, by a special correspondent, Frederick Palmer, will be of especial interest:

"If Alice Macdonald is king of the Klondike, Miss Mulrooney is certainly queen of the Klondike. Miss Doris says so, and he has the authority to add that, considering the size of the fortune she has made in a year, and how women are handicapped, even in the effort of the east, to say nothing of so rough-and-ready a place as the Klondike, he thinks that Miss Mulrooney deserves the more credit of the two.

The first that the miners heard of her was passed along the line in this wise: "Say, have you seen the new girl from Dawson?"

Walker claimed he came from the west the day before the crime was alleged to have taken place and falling in with a crowd of toughs, was made exceedingly drunk. He did not remember any such incident as related by the prosecution. William Penn, usual guilty of stealing brass from the Lackawanna Iron and Steel company and was given a year in the county jail.

George Metzger, a tough and outcast, who was equally as tough from his parents' home and who one night broke in and got away with $6, was prosecuted by his brother for burglary and convicted. He was sent down to the pen-
