A TALK ON "HAMLET."

"Carmen" Bize
Mr. Eugene Wentzel and Chorus.

Dr. J. J. Walsh, of New York, Addressed the Catholic Historical Society on the Tragedy.

Dr. J. J. Walsh, of New York city, gave a most interesting talk on Shakespeare's "Hamlet" last night before the members of the Catholic Historical society. It was the second of the series of talks which he was engaged to give this season on Shakespearian subjects. The doctor did not attempt to go deeply into his subject, because of the limited time placed at his disposal, and contented himself with selecting a few of the incidents and characters in the play and enlarging upon them.

In beginning his talk, he referred to "Hamlet" as the greatest tragedy ever vritten, and traced in an interesting manner the development of tragedy through all the ages. All sorts and conditions of men, from the very beginning of literature, have had a deep and abiding interest in tragedy, he said This, he thought, is largely due to the fact that every human bein's life, taken as a whole, is a little tragedy in itself, and that a certain air of mystery always surrounds the telling of the story of the sufferings and trials of men and women, the mystery of what someone has aptly termed "the whyness of life." In tracing the origin of the story of Hamlet, which was taken from a crudely written novel of the name, Dr. Walsh the most peculiar facts about Shakespeare's writings is that he never exercised, to any very great extent, the faculty of invention. He never wasted his time in constructing and devising plots, but was content to take up the stories of other writers and infuse into them the fire of his own matchless genius. "The exercise of the imaginative faculty now seems to be about the only thing necessary for success in liter-ature," said the doctor, "We have the spectacle presented to us of a young woman receiving the princely sum of $150,000 for a novel which is simply the stringing together in a clever manner of a number of incidents in which sword play is the dominating feature. I mean the young woman who wrote 'The Helmet of Navarre,' which has had such a phenomenal success. There is nothing enduring, and nothing which can be called literature in its truest sense in

Perhaps the most interesting of Dr. Walsh's comments on the play was on the character of the ghost of Hamlet's murdered father, whose words spurred him to take vengeance on his murderers. The ghost is pictured in an apparently straightforward manner by the poet, as if he meant to really portray a spirit returned to earth from the other world, the doctor said, but when a close analysis of the play is made it will be found that the idea that the ghost was but a creature of the imaginations of the men who saw it, seems to be just as apparent. He pointed out that the spectre appeared first to a lone sentinel standing in the cold on the ramparts of the castle. The soldiers' surroundings were such that he was in an almost ideally tor said that in the intense cold, when the blood is forced in from the surface of the body, a man's imagination is always liveliest, and that it is more than possible that Shakespeare meant to represent the spectre as a the mind," and to show that Hamlet and the other characters imagined that that he means Hamlet to show that he seriously doubted the real existence of the spirit, the doctor said.

abor convention were also present. Hamlet's later reference to "that undiscovered country from whose bourne no traveler returns," in which Shakespeare is said by many critics to contradict himself, is rather an indication that he himself seriously doubted the real existence of the spirit, the doctor

He attempted no analysis whatever of the character of the melancholy

OBJECTED TO PROCEDURE

ATTORNEY DUNN WANTED A JUVENILE COURT.

Tried to Prevent the Trial of His Clients in Quarter Sessions-Took an Exception to the Ruling of the Court-Jury Which Acquitted Geo. Cummings Was Censured by Judge Edwards-New Plan of Dividing Costs Is Now in Force-Other Court Matters.

Three boys, Frank Carlucci, James Lipnick and Peter Loberenti, were put on trial before Judge Frank Wheaton esterday, charged with malicious mischief by Mrs. Mary Sullivan, who lives on Ninth street. They were represented by Attorney Arthur Dunn, who took exception to the trial of the youths outside of the juvenile court, created by the last legislature, as the boys are under sixteen years of age.

Judge Wheaton consulted with President Judge Edwards, and learned that n this county the cases against boys are being tried in quarter sessions, pending the establishment of a juvenile Judge Wheaton therefore dicourt. rected the trial to proceed, Attorney Dunn having an exception to the ruling noted.

The boys were on trial when court idjourned for the day. It is alleged hat, with other boys, they stoned Mrs. Sullivan's house, tore off shutters and did other damage. They deny the charge absolutely.

The Jury Censured.

President Judge H. M. Edwards yeserday censured in a mild way the jury which acquitted George Cummings, who was charged with using a false measure. The jurors were John Phillips, loseph Taylor, John Demuth, Dennis Hughes, Harry C. Hinkley, John Wagner, James Tighe, George Rosar, Patrick J. Hopkins, Philip Foy, E. J. White and William Klein. On Sept. 18, the defendant, with two other men, were selling potatoes at Green Ridge, Prof. W. L. Rogers agreed to buy a half bushel, but when they were measured out he discovered that something was wrong with the measure and upon examination found that the measure had a false bottom. which took nearly two inches off the lepth of the measure.

Cummings was turned over to Patrolman Addyman; the other two men escaped. The accused said he had been up in New York state picking hops. and arrived in Scranton on Sept. 17, on his way home to New Jersey He met two men who hired him to peddle potatoes at $1.50 a day. He did not know who they were. The measure was furnished by them and he did not know there was anything wrong with it. In rebuttal City Detective Long Day and former County Detective Thomas suspicion of using a false measure. When the verdict of not guilty was rendered Judge Edwards said the evidence warranted a conviction. There a good deal of such fraud practiced in this region, he said, and he would not like the impression to go abroad that such an offense would go unpunished here. As Cummings has been in ill since Sept. Is he had probably been sufficiently punished, but, the judge said, he would have taken that into onsideration in imposing sentence had there been a conviction.

We Are Progressing.

It is a proud day when the average boy passes from fractions to decimals. It is progressing; he is gaining knowledge. We ought to be equally proud of our jurors, for after struggling with fractions for weary years and years, we have passed forward to decimals. In the past, jurors in dividing the costs have put half on one side and half on the other, or three-fourths on one side and one-fourth on the other. Sometimes, indeed, they went into eighths, but not often. The jury in the case of George Kn. ck yesterday divided the costs by putting 60 per cent. on the defendant and 40 per cent, on the prosecutor. The jurors responsible for this innovation are William Law, W. A. Sanford, Martin Jennings, L. W. Keller, Michael Foy, Patrick Moran, John Shields, Charles H. Pond, O. P. Stoll, P. J. Ward, Martin Ready, jr., and W. R. Bradbury.

It was an assault and battery case, which grew out of festivities in connection with the christening of Knopick's child, May 19 last.

Colored Man Used Razor.

Berton Gray, a colored man, was before Judge Kelly, charged slashing Patrick Caffrey, with Green Ridge, with a razor on the night of Oct. 21 last in the back room of a Penn avenue botel. Caffrey said he was in the barroom and passed into the back room intending to leave the place by the rear door. There were several colored men in the room and a colored woman was dancing. She bumped into him and he pushed her Gray advanced threateningly toward Caffrey and the latter pushed him into a corner. Then the bartender came in and put all the colored people out into the alley. A few minutes later Caffrey went out through the rear door and was set upon by Grey who slashed him under the eye with a razor and again on the head, making a cut from the top of the head to below the ear. Caffrey was taken to the Lackawanna hospital, where he remained for three weeks.

The defendant, who was represented by Attorneys John J. Murphy and M. J. Weish, denied the cutting. He said that after they were put out into the alley he returned with a colored barber named Van Sickle, and was at once attacked by Caffrey, who knocked him He putled Caffrey with him, and while they were on the floor Van Sickle did the cutting. The jury went out on the case just before adjourn-

Thorne who was present at the killing, promised to make a statement before the board of pardons in Bat-tle's behalf, but failed to do so at the last moment. He accused Mrs. Duffy of sending him a scurrilous letter because of this fact. Harry Oblinger pleaded guilty of having mainained a nickel-in-the-slot machine, and was sen enced to pay a fine of $10. A verdiet of not guilty was taken in the case of William Swires, charged with pointing fire-trms by Santi Voti, because of the latter's failure to appear. The costs were placed upon Voti.

Fubri was employed as watchman by M. H. Dale, one of the contractors constructing the line of the Scranton and Northeastern Rail-road company. He is accused of having stolen coment and tools from a shed along the line of the new road. The prosecution offered evidence to show that he had been exchanging the cement with a farmer for chickens, and that he had been caught in the act of doing so by Constable Woelk-ers and Foreman Nichols. Fubri claims that the farmer had done work for Mr. Dale, for which no received cement, and that he thought be was toing right in giving him the stuff.
