FOREST CITY.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Forest City, Dec. 27.—The members of the Miners and Laborers' Sick and Death Benefit association, most of whom are of German descent, had a Christmas tree festival last night in Freedman's hall. It was followed after the festivities of the fatherland and on the gaily decorated tree was found a present for the children of each of the members. The Forest City orchestra furnished music for dancing.

At the breaker and mine boys' Christmas treat in the opera house the following articles were distributed: 500 pounds of candy; 278 pocket knives, 140 boxes, 76 pairs of gloves, 56 pairs of mitts, 100 good handkerchiefs, 400 work handkerchiefs. $168 had been collected by Rev. W. Holmstedt, who had charge of the affair and the entire amount was expended. Rarely has a happier lot of youngsters been seen than those who participated in this affair. There were 200 of them and their exuberance of spirit was expended in frequent cheering that made the rafters of the building ring. A committee of business men assisted in distributing the presents. The Star-Strum corps was on the stage and played several selections. Previous to the distribution of the presents a short musical programme was rendered.

THE MARKET.

Wall Street Review.

New York, Dec. 27.—Today's market in stocks was in excess of those of yesterday and the market had the appearance of strength and activity throughout. A closer analysis of results will show, however, that the activity and strength were mainly in a few prominent stocks. In fact there were active trading going on all day and when the market opened it found the money rate rising sharply over their demand the movement to realize became general. The top level of prices was considerably raised as a consequence, and the market showed no disposition to rally, closing dull and steady at the reaction.

The speculative market was the principal feature of the market. It did not open at the front, but with a considerable revival of speculation in Amalgamated Copper. Sugar advanced in the early market after opening a fraction high, and touched 11 1/2 before the market in the stock became active. It was lifted by the market on a net gain of 1 1/2, and closed at 11 1/2, a net gain of 2 3/4 on the week, and a loss of 1/4 on Saturday. Amalgamated Copper, with the dividend of advanced to 7 1/4, and closed a point lower, which is equal to a net gain of 2 1/2. The speculation also continued active in Manhattan and that stock rose an extreme 2 points, but when the market opened it found the money rate rising sharply over their demand the movement to realize became general. The top level of prices was considerably raised as a consequence, and the market showed no disposition to rally, closing dull and steady at the reaction.

The principal activity continued to center in the coal and the transportation group. There was indication of profit taking in some of the coal, notably in the Hocking Valley stocks, which show losses of 1 to 1 1/2, after after all the activity of the week. The coal market was a surprise of the week, but the common stock of the coal companies which were generally steady. Central Railroad, however, showed evidence of investment demand among high grade speculators.

The bond market was active and strong and all-day investment buying held and there. Total fundings declined to the 10 regular 100 and 100 1/2 on the last call.
