and Personal

The Bachelors' ball, the greatest sotial event of the season, will take place tonight at the new armory. The guests may prepare themselves for a surprise e they have not had in the history of these affairs. The scheme of color is beautiful beyond the wildes anticipations and instead of a bleak and barren ten-acre lot, such as some people have feared it might be, the at armory is made cosy and comortable in a unique way. The florist's ert has made a holiday bower of the nterior, while additional light and leat obviate any fear which may have been entertained on either score,

The members of the committee wer closely watching all details yesterday and felt a pardonable pride in the advance stage of the preparation. Particular satisfaction is entertained regarding the music, the rehearsal of which has surpassed expectations.

The annual dance of the Catholic Historical society, given last night in the Knights of Columbus club house was undoubtedly the most successful social affair ever conducted under the melety's auspices.

The dancing hall and upper floor of the club house had been elaborately decorated with trailing vines and holly, and a most beautiful scene was presented. Bauer's full orchestra furnished the music for the long programme of dances, which were enjoyed by upwards of 125 couples. Supper was served between 11 o'clock and midnight

A business session was to have prereded the banquet, but owing to the late arrival of some of the guests, that feature was postponed to a later date. It was 9.30 o'clock when Dr. Wentz began his introductory address, in which he apologized for not being able to fill the position of toastmaster as acceptably as he felt it should be filled, nevertheless he acquitted himself creditably and eleverly

Provost Harrison was introduced to speak on "Our Alma Mater." He said he has become deeply interested in the University of Pennsylvania, and proposes to work for it as long as he can The practical character of the institution is what commends it to every one. Groups of alumni are holding meetings all over the country at the present time, and in the northwest the University of Pennsylvania has the second largest and strongest alumni. Yale being first. He said he has the utmost respect for all the other universities, but Pennsylvania does not need to take its hat off to any of them.

Wherever you go the interest and strength of the University of Pennsylvania is felt, and that comes from association with its graduates. There are 11,000 living alumni, and Dr. Harrison said he would object to any of them

Seventy different states and countries are there represented, all working together on a practical basis, and it is the duty or all to arouse the same interest in the University of Pennsylvania as is now being done in other institutions of learning.

Dr. Harrison spoke of the immense properties owned by the university which was started 160 years ago, and has grown to such an enormous pro portion that it is now the greatest roperty of any of the colleges in the heart of a city. He related several his-torical incidents in connection with the founding of the university, and referred to the work that is under way for broadening out its usefulness in the future, particularly in the line of physes and scientific engineering. He added that it is his purpose to see he present plans for enlargement fulfilled, if he lives, and that the trustees have pledged themselves to carry them out after his death, if need be. He concluded by saying that the University of Pennsylvania expects to have best laboratory for teaching and research that can possibly be established. the toast of "Preaching vs. Practice," the executive committee, represented the strikers. Rezin Orr. of Detroit, national treasurer of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway Employes, who is here to assist in conducting the strike, did not attend the conference. The company had nothing to offer further than it has all along been offering, namely, the reinstatement of as many of the old men as it has places for. To make the offer more definite, however, President Clark agreed to submit in writing the proposition that the company will re-employ not less than fifty-seven per cent, of the men, at once, and additional strikers, probably

No mention was made of wages, Mr. Clark positively refusing to discuss this question. The strikers' committee said it was not there to represent fifty-seven per cent, or any other fractional part of the strikers, but the whole of Division 168, and consequently could not deal with the proposition. The committee agreed, however, to report the proposition to the strikers' regular meeting this morning and let them do with it as they may

President Shea said last night that the probabilities are the men will not even vote on the question of accepting or rejecting the proposition. "We have voted on this same thing often before." said he, "and it has been unanimously defeated every time. It is the same old proposition, and contains not a single concession. Mr. Clark told us this was the best the company could do. He was very courteous and gentlemanly with us, but very firm. He would not recede one lota from his original posiion. We made no counter-proposition. because we didn't have the opportunity. The company said it would do so much and no more. That settled it as far as we were concerned. At all events they have our counter-proposi-

That counter-proposition is the best the committee could offer. It was framed by the division itself and given to the executive committee to transmit to the union. The committee couldn't go behind that."

THE COUNTER-PROPOSITION. The counter-proposition to which President Shea refers was presented on December 2. It demands that the men shall be taken back in a body, as a union, at 20 cents an hour, with not more than ten and not less than eight hours constituting a day's work, the sum of five cents an hour additional to be allowed for overtime, and the old fications noted above, The proposition of the company does not mention anything concerning the signing of a contract. General Manager Silliman stated afterwards, however, that there would be no contract. One year ago last night, after a conference in Burke Bros,' office, the strike of last December was settled by practically the same men who were present at yesterday's conference.

NURSE'S SERVICES FREE. Arrangement Made by the Directors of Hahnemann Hospital. For a long time past the directors of the Hanemamm hospital have recognized the need of the city for a visiting nurse to render professional service to the sick poor. At a meeting of the directors, held December 7, it was decided to employ a nurse, and they have now secured one whose services may be obtained without charge, upor request left at the hospital before o'clock in the morning or before ; the afternoon, beginning January 2, 1902. Physicians also are privileged to call for the services of the free nurse through the hospital. The length of her visits will be limited as necessity Conference Between Strikers and requires, Wherever possible, nominal charge will be made for supplies.

MASS MEETING OF STRIKERS.

Prominent Speakers from Various Places Will Deliver Addresses. The striking street car men will conduct a mass meeting in St. Thomas' college hall tonight, to which the publie is invited.

Addresses will be delivered by Rezin Orr, of Detroit, national treasurer of the Amalgamated Association of Street Rallway Employes; Presidents T. D. Nicholls, John Fahey and Thomas Duffy, of the three Pennsylvania anthracite districts of the United Mine Workers, and President P. J. Shea, of the strikers' union.

AN INTERESTING LECTURE.

Talk by J. M. Vincent on the Subject of "The Maine Woods."

J. M. Vincent who is a professor in the public schools of New York gave a talk on "The Maine Woods," last night at the members' rally at the Lacka- wanna department of the Young Men's Christian asociation. During the summer vacation each year Prof. Vincent hies himself up to Bangor and from there plunges into that vast mystery known as the Maine woods. The talk was illustrated with steropticon slides made from photos taken by Prof. Vincent. They begin at a lumber came near Moosehead lake and take in the beautiful views of camp life and natural scenery on the Penobscot river Carlbou lake, Little Lobster pond Sourduahunk lake, Abol pond and then up the 5000 feet to the top of Moun Katahdin, in all over 130 views,

Mr. Vincent said that about 10,000 sportsmen annually go hunting into this region of nearly 15,000 square miles of the hunting and fishing country the world. This great wood, is counected by a system of registered camps, where you can locate and from which you can make trips out into the wilderness with a guide unless you are a through woodsman like Mr. Vincent. The lecturer said that the stories told by the local sportsmen who have gone up there are not exaggerated and he proved it by showing pictures of deer, moose and caribou that he had photographed. He also showed pictures of some splendid catches of trout.

Mr. A. V. Bower operated the stereoptican and the department male quartette furnished delightful vocal music previous to the lecture.

COMPLIMENTARY CONCERT.

Enjoyable Musical Event in St. Thomas' College Hall.

A complimentary concert was tenlered last night to Miss Sadie Edwards at St. Thomas' college hall, and was attended by a very large audience of local music-lovers and friends of Miss Edwards.

The programme was an excellent one and included a barltone solo by Philip H. Warren, a soprano solo by Mrs. Frank H. Brundage, and two tenor solos by E. P. Johnson, of New York city, a talented young singer with a wonderfully clear voice. There were also two selections by a quartette composed of David Stephens, Arthur Morgan, Mrs. Brundage and Miss Edwards The most enjoyable part of the programme was the singing of Miss Edwards. This gifted young woman has contralto voice of great richness. Hersinging of "A Flower Song," by Gounod, and Nevin's "The Rosary," was especially well received.
