A teller knows of just what denom!nations are the counterfelts, and just where to look for the tell tale marks He detects the spurious notes as easily as the reader does a misspelled word. It is no particular effort. It is a habit The principal reason why counterfelts are so easily detected is because in some feature they are almost uniformly of inferior quality. This is, indeed, the main protection of the public Genuine notes are engraved and printed almost regardless of cost, and the very best materials are used in the engravings and printings. It is done in large establishments, with costly materials and by the best workmen. It is practically impossible for counterfeiters to do as well. They must work in secret and at a disadvantage and of necessity cannot have the experience to produce such perfect work If they get the engravings done nicely they fail in the printing, or if they got the engraving and printing done well they fall in securing the proper paper Of late years there has been a great deal of care taken to get paper manufactured expressly for the notes issued by the government. The national bank notes are also issued by the government, so that the sources of supply for exactly that kind of paper are con-

"Arizona" Saturday.

"Arizona," which will be presented at the "Arizona," which will be presented at the Lyceum Saturday matines and night, is the third play of the "state" series which Augusius Thomas has given the stage. "Alabama" and "In Mizzoura," cleverly reflected the scenes and people, customs and incidents which Thomas had become familiar with in his boyhood and early manhood. In "Arizona," it is said, he has utilized a whole lot of personal knowledge which he gained during an active career of two or three years as a cowboy on the southwestern three years as a cowboy on the southwestern cattle ranges. Be that as it may, Mr. Thomas evidently knew all about Arizona and its people when he 'took his pen in hand."

No less distinguished authority than Governor Murphy, of Arizona, has testified as to the acuracy of the types which Thomas has pictured in the new play. Governor Marphy was particularly enthusiastic over the ranchman, Henry Camby. "He is just the dead living picture of old Tom Renfew, of Sonoma county, who died ten years ago!" raid the governor after witnessing the performance, "and Renfew was a "longhorn" if there was one in the territory."

Every item of this meal was excellent; I feel no shame in the confession. The meal was served in a room transformed into a bower of flowers. Masses of carnations and roses filled one side of it, and on the other side a creeper with purple blossoms grew in the house and draped the door of my bed room. When the ladies went to bed they but fresh wine, cognac and biscuits on the table for me; and in the morning they provided breakfast and blushed with pretty pride when I thanked them for their kindness. They asked me for the equivalent of 1s. Sd. and thanked me cordially when I paid it.
