MONTROSE.

Special to the Scrapton Tribune

Montrose, Jan. 3, 1902.-The smallpox is still with us but the first "scare" appears to be giving place to a reign of common sense, though there are still many wild rumors and badly exaggerated reports, which are very annoying to the authorities. Mrs. Gilbert's death occurred on Tuesday and her burial took place in the evening of the same day, enough volunteers being received to conduct it. She died of confluent hemorrhagic smallpox, one of the gravest forms of the disease, and from which very few, if any ever recover. Mr. Gilbert is very sick with varioloid, but hope has not been abandoned in his case. Dr. Wagner a smallpox specialist of Wilkes-Barre, arrived in Montrose and consulted with the health officer, Dr. J. G. Wilson, who is the Gilberts' attending physician, and with the board of health. This morning Dr. Wagner met many citizens at the office of M. S. Allen, explained the situation as he found it and answered questions. No new cases have developed and it is fervently hoped that the worst is

PITTSTON.

Special to the Scranton Tribune.

Pittston, Jan. 3.-Ruthford B. Cease of West Pittston, and Miss Eleanor May Clark, of Philadelphia avenue, were united in marriage Tuesday evening at the parsonage of the West Pittston Methodist Episcopal church on Wyoming avenue. They were unattended and the marriage was a very quiet affair, owing to the recent death of the groom's aunt, with whom he had made his home. Mr. Cease is employed as engineer at the Wilkes-Barre establishment of Galland Bros.

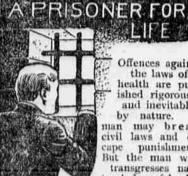

Three times each year the Chautauqua circle of West Pittston hold a social session, the first of this year's events taking place last evening, when the members of the literary committee entertained at the home of Miss Hannah Thomas, on Philadelphia avenue. The most interesting feature of the vening was the presentation of the duel seene and chapter in the "Merchant of Venice," by the members of the committee, which is composed of the following: Mr. and Mrs. Brevier, Mr. B. S. Emory, Mrs. Collins, Misses Thomas, McKane and Spencer, At midnight the company, which included about six guests and the members of the circle, sat down to an elaborate
