While crossing the Susquehanna river, near his home, on Friday evening, he broke through the ice and narrowly escaped drowning. While being drawn from the water he uttered an exclamation of fright, and his speech is almost entirely restored. Physicians say that in a few weeks he can talk as well as ever.

MINED MATTERS.

The largest and longest stone bridge n the world is over an arm of the Thing sea, 300 arches, each 70 feet high. This is considerably longer than the Starrucca viaduct at Lanesboro, but the latter is twenty feet higher.

THIS, THAT- AND THE OTHER. Congressman Wright will return to Washington during the week. If Colonel Charles C. Pratt, of New Milford, is not the next state senator from this district, all signs fail in all sorts of wenther. There are no additional cases of small-pox at Hallstead, and a further spread of the disease is not expected. Miss Coddington, the one patient, is doing well. THIS, THAT AND THE OTHER.

In newspaper cards, sixteen Susquehanna county gentlemen, have thus far declared their willingness to accept a state or county office. This number does not include the Democrats, who are not supposed to hold office.
