M'CUULLOUGH ROBBED PETER TO PAY PAUL

Interesting Embezzlement Case from Blair County Argued in the Superior Court.

In the superior court yesterday, arguments were heard on the appeal of James H. McCullough, of Altoona, former delinquent tax collector of Blair county, from the verdict adjudging him guilty of embezzling $10,000 of the county taxes.

McCullough, it appears, lost heavily in the panic of 1893 and sought to tide over the difficulties by advancing money to himself from the taxes he collected for the county, covering up his borrowings by keeping a year behind in his duplicate. He was re-elected collector from term to term and by this practice of "robbing Peter to pay Paul," managed to avoid detection until the year 1898, when his default was discovered and he was arrested at the instance of one of his bondsmen.

June 18, 1901, he was indicted and shortly afterwards convicted. From this conviction he appealed.

His attorney, A. V. Dively, argued to the court yesterday that the actual embezzlement having occurred in 1894, the statute of limitations intervened to bar a prosecution. That an embezzlement could be charged for the statutory period of two years preceding his arrest was shown, the defense argued, by the fact that the county accounts credited McCullough for that period with $10,000 and charged him with only $91,628.58.

H. C. Greffins and C. O. Templeton, representing the commonwealth, argued that while the actual embezzlement took place in 1894, McCullough carried the crime down to the moment of his arrest, by appropriating county funds each year to make up the shortage of the year before, or in other words, that by appropriating money belonging to the county for the county to pay a debt he owed the county, he was guilty of a misappropriation amounting to embezzlement.

Common pleas were also argued, among them one with a local flavor. This latter was the appeal of Miss Faith A. Bullard, a Luzerne attorney from the judgment in her trespass case against the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company.

Last summer while traveling from her home in Kingston to her summer home in New Milford she lost a satchel at the Lackawanna station in this city. She claimed $125, the value of the satchel contents. The company refused to pay for anything more than the wearing apparel, and when the case went to trial the company's claim that it was liable for only $43 was sustained. Miss Bullard then appealed.

J. O. Creveling and Miss Bullard, herself, appeared for the appeal, but she did not participate in the argument, much to the disappointment of the onlookers. Arthur Hillman argued for the company. The other cases argued were:

G. F. Wesley against W. H. Sharpe, appellant.

W. L. Rader against C. E. Butler, appellant.

M. J. Mallon for the appellee; Edmund G. Butler, appellant.

W. L. Rader against C. E. Butler, appellant.

M. J. Wright et al., against the Township of Lehman, appellant. John M. Gorman for the appellee; G. A. Clark for the appellant.

Joseph Wenzel, appellant, against Catherine Hoffman, et al.; Joseph H. Jones for the appellant; P. F. Laughlin and Abner Smith for the appellee.

Joseph Menosky against Mary Menosky, et al., appellants.

Abner Salberg for the appellee; John H. Williams and John Menosky for the appellant.

John H. Williams, executor, appellant, against the Pennsylvania Fire Insurance company, John McGowan for the appellee; H. A. Fuller for the appellee.

Only three more cases from Luzerne remain to be argued. The Lackawanna list will be called today.

COSTELLO FOR CONTROLLER

NOMINATED BY THE DEMOCRATIC CITY CONVENTION.

He Had Sixty-three Votes as Against Seventeen Cast for D. W. Vaughan, Who Has Been Ill in Bed Since the Day Following That on Which He Announced His Candidacy—Controller Esdras Howell Did Not Allow His Name to Go Before Convention.

P. W. Costello was yesterday nominated for city controller by the Democratic city convention. He received sixty-three votes against seventeen cast for D. W. Vaughan. The present controller, Esdras Howell, did not allow his name to go before the convention.

P. W. COSTELLO,
Democratic Candidate for City Controller.

How his name to go before the convention. He declined, after the convention to give his reasons for dropping out of the fight at the last minute.

Since the close of the primaries Saturday, it has been the general impression that Costello would be nominated. He is now serving the last year of his second term as county auditor and last fall was a candidate for county controller. He was defeated by E. A. Jones, the Republican candidate, by a majority of eleven. Costello carried this city by a large majority.

CANDIDATES NOMINATED.

Nominations for controller were called for by Chairman Schadt and J. P. Hammes was recognized and nominated P. W. Costello in a speech that drew forth some cheering. A number of nearly all the many nominating speeches heard in the court house. He praised Mr. Costello's Democracy, his artistic temperament, his skill with the pen, his popularity with the voters and his record as county auditor. Costello was nominated and elected the books of the city controller's office "will be a monument for future generations." Just what Mr. Hammes meant by that was not apparent but the delegates knew his intentions were good and they applauded John Frederick until he blushed.

Attorney Thomas F. Handley placed the name of D. W. Vaughan before the convention and in doing so spoke eloquently of his services for the city in court and also his years of work for the Democratic party. He referred to the unkind fate that struck Mr. Vaughan down on the day after he announced his candidacy and which has since confined him to his bed.

George Monaghan and J. J. Coleman also spoke in favor of Vaughan, who the delegates were polled it was found that Costello had 63 votes and Vaughan 17. On motion of Mr. Handley the nomination of Mr. Costello was made unanimous.

POLITICAL NOTES.

Howard Pease was yesterday appointed by court marshal inspector for the Second district of the Fourth ward.

P. E. Ryan proposes to run as an independent candidate for the office of assessor, but claims the Democratic primaries were unfairly conducted.

OLYPHANT POISONING CASE IS SHROUDED IN MYSTERY

A child of Frank Marusha, who is a neighbor of the Varga family, at Olyphant, died yesterday from what appears to be arsenic poisoning. Two children of John Bechek, another neighbor, lie at the point of death, apparently from poisoning.

All Olyphant is puzzled over the cases of the three small children of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Varga, who died there last week from arsenic poisoning and the mystery was deepened yesterday, when it was learned that another child had died and that two more are seriously ill as the result of apparently similar poisoning.

An inquest in the cases of Mary, Annie and Peter Varga, aged 7, and 2 and 2 years, respectively, was conducted last night by Coroner J. F. Saltry in Prokopovitch's hall, Olyphant, but was almost barren of results. Drs. Van Sickle and Crans testified as to the symptoms of the three children, explaining that they had found them in an unconscious condition and that the external evidences were of arsenic poisoning.

The report of Chemist Barber, of this city, who examined the contents of the stomach of Mary Varga, the oldest child, was read. This report showed that arsenic in a sufficient quantity to cause death had been found in the organ.

Both the father and mother were put on the stand and subjected to an examination by Coroner Saltry through an interpreter. They both professed to

While the convention was waiting for the reports of the committees, Secretary Murphy called the attention of the delegates to the necessity of making nominations for poor board. He said that four and three years ago elections were held and the men elected had since been fighting in the courts for the office. The court of this county, he said, has declared that the office of poor director is elective and not appointive, as is the present custom, and that the Superior court of the state has endorsed this view. Notwithstanding this the appointing goes on regularly and the appointed board continues to conduct the affairs of the district and the men who were elected are still on the outside.

He called the attention of the delegates to the fact that the Scranton poor board is the only body in the county holding office by appointment that has the right to levy taxes. That is against the spirit of our institutions which are taxation runs by the people. On his motion it was decided to hold caucuses in the six sub-districts of the poor district lying within the boundaries of Jefferson and as follows also, with reference to the administration of Democratic officials of this city and county, and invite the attention of the citizens of this city to the economy practiced as compared with the wastefulness of the Republicans.

We condemn the action of the recent legislature in depriving the citizens of this city of their inherent and inalienable right to select those officers who are to administer the city and call upon all voters, irrespective of party, to express by their ballots their condemnation of such revolutionary methods. The citizens of this city are permitted to elect their representatives without interference from Harbinger, those who are to conduct the administration of its affairs, and to expend our taxes.

Members of the city and have the nominations made at these caucuses for the office of poor directors submitted to the city committee which was empowered to have the names placed on the official ballot. The dates for these caucuses have not yet been fixed, but they must be held before Jan. 21.

DOCTORS AND SOCIAL EVIL

DISCUSSED AT MEDICAL SOCIETY MEETING.

President Reedy Calls for the Substitution of Practical Methods in Line with Advanced Ideas for Those Obtaining at Present in Dealing with This Problem in Scranton—Conditions Encountered by Physicians in Their Practice Are Coming to Cause Alarm.

At last night's annual meeting of the Lackawanna County Medical society the report of the retiring president, Dr. Walter M. Reedy, gravely deplored the method pursued here by the authorities in dealing with the social evil, and called for the substitution of a practical policy in line with advanced ideas.

This, the doctor said, was demanded by conditions at which the practitioners of Scranton are coming to feel an alarm.

The medical society, he said, should make it a primary duty to advise with the municipal authorities on this subject. It is a problem that is almost coeval with the race and since its first appearance in the world it will order society, the brightest minds of the ages have striven for a solution, but in vain. All recommendations ever offered for a total suppression of the vice have proven futile. It is with us, he is here to stay. Its curbs are many, but the worst that should concern the doctors is the trail of disease that follows in its wake. Something must be done to abate the spread in this community of the resultant physical disorders. Were the punishment restricted to the offenders these would not be much call for sympathy. But it is innocent ones who come to suffer the most.

ITS MORAL ASPECT.

Let the clergymen treat the moral aspect of the situation as they will, refusing all compromise, but failure only can be their portion. As to the medical men—they must be practical. It is their duty to think of the physical side. We are fully convinced that a higher standard of morality among men, the inculcation of religion by trained teachers is of course valuable in the battle, but, unfortunately, it can be wholly ineffective, for the evil-doers in many cases are beyond the pale of such influence.

Acknowledging as we must that all means have failed, thus far, to eradicate the evil, we are obliged to make the best of the condition that exists. It can be the only way to be controlled. Legitimate prostitution, confine the prostitutes to certain localities, subject them to close surveillance by the police authorities, and assign physicians of repute regularly engaged by the city to enforce quarantining regulations.

The reception which the paper received at the hands of the assembled physicians attested that they too held these opinions.

The establishment of a bacteriological laboratory by the city, the regular medical examination of school children were among other recommendations of Dr. Reedy's report.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Dr. A. J. Connell; first vice president, Dr. W. A. Palmer; second vice president, Dr. E. J. Bishop; secretary, Dr. Lucius C. Kennedy; treasurer, Dr. L. M. Gates; censor, Dr. R. H. Gibbons; librarian, Dr. H. D. Gardner.

KILLED AT JESSUP.

Michael Buduck Struck by a Delaware and Hudson Train.

Michael Buduck, living in Jessup, was struck by a south-bound Delaware and Hudson train while walking the tracks near his home last night about 10:30 o'clock, and received injuries from which he died almost instantly. Both his legs were cut off.

Coroner Saltry has been notified and will make an investigation today.

DIED IN HIS CELL.

Hubert Albright, Arrested for Intoxication, Passed Away in Centre Street Police Station.

When Sergeant Edwards, of the Centre street police station, tried to arouse the occupant of cell No. 4 early yesterday morning, preparatory to transferring him to the central station, he found that he had a dead man on his hands.

The dead man was Hubert Albright, an upholsterer residing at 615 Dix court, who had been picked up by Patrolman McMahon on Lackawanna avenue, late Monday night, in a helpless state of intoxication. He fell asleep immediately upon being placed in the cell and was heard moaning an hour before he was found dead.

The body was removed by order of Coroner Saltry to Cusick's undertaking establishment, where an autopsy was performed in the afternoon. The coroner said after the autopsy that Albright's death was due to heart failure superinduced by alcoholism. He enumerated a jury comprising John Coleman, James Reilly, Fred J. Wildmayer, Charles Teeter, John Walsh and Thos. Cleary. An inquest will be conducted tonight in the Centre street station.

Albright was 28 years old and is survived by a wife and one child. The funeral will be held from the home on Dix court tomorrow afternoon and interment will be made in the German Lutheran cemetery on North Washington avenue.

GREEN RIDGE.

The annual congregational meeting of the Green Ridge Baptist church was held last evening and the showing was exceptionally gratifying to the members of this church and congregation. The report of the treasurer, J. E. Chambliss, showed a good condition of the financial affairs of the church, the debt having been materially reduced during the year. The report of the pastor, Rev. W. F. Potts, gave the present membership as three hundred and twenty-seven, forty-seven having been received into the church during the past year. After the reports of the different boards had been read and accepted, Thomas Johns and A. E. Callender, deacons, whose terms of office had expired, were re-elected. J. M. Hoyer was elected trustee and E. S. Chamberlain was elected to the office of treasurer for the tenth consecutive term.

E. S. Palmer, of Wayne avenue and Putnam street, and Mrs. Amanda Sloniker, of the South Side, were arrested and brought before Alderman Butler Monday by Officer Robert Wilson, charged with selling liquor without a license. Both parties were fined $25 and costs.
