A REMARKABLE INCIDENT.

Rolled the First and Last Rail at the Old Mill.

Fifty-four years ago the first rail was rolled in the old rolling mill of the Lackawanna Iron and Steel company. One of the men who handled it was Thomas Byron, of Moosic street, now approaching the end of his fourth score of years. Thursday last the company was finishing an order of rails, the last to be rolled, prior to the removal of the mill to Buffalo. The fact that the mar who helped roll the first rail was still alive and quite active, occurred to som of the old officials and they sent for him to come to the mill and assist in the rolling of the last rail. He came took off his coat, seized the nippers and swung the rall into the rolls with vigor that betokened plenty of strength left in muscles he had hardened like iron in the half a hundred years he spent in the heavy work of a colling mill.

The incident was witnessed by arge crowd, many of whom had, like Mr. Byron, spent practically their whole ives in the mill. To them it was an affecting scene. The tearing down of the mill began Saturday. Every vestige of it will be emoved with all the other buildings on he company's tract to make way for the power station, shops and yards of

FEEDING OF PRISONERS.

Testimony on the Cost Thereof Being Taken for the Court-Witnesses Heard Saturday.

Depositions were taken Saturday pefore Commissioner Willis D. Coston in the matter of fixing the compensation of the sheriff for feeding prison

The county commissioners had been erroneously assuming this duty, and were contemplating a reduction, at the suggestion of Controller Jones, when Sheriff Schadt forestalled them by showing through his attorneys, O'Brien & Martin, that it was the court and Hackley, of Hartford, Conn.; the not the commissioners, who have the authority to fix the compensation. The sheriff is at present receiving wenty-five cents a day for feeding each prisoner, and he contends that this is not too much. The controller holds that this figure is too high. The court declined to pass upon the matter until it had some light, and ac Colborn, clerk of the United States cordingly appointed Mr. Coston as commissioner to take the testimony each side had to offer in support of its contention. Sheriff Schadt's side of the case was and Charles Senker to tell the price of groceries; George W. Beemer, superintendent of the poor farm, to give the cost of feeding inmates of Hillside Home: T. C. Melvin, Peter Rosar and Martin O'Connor, to tell of the cost of different commodities purchased for hotels, and ex-Sheriffs John J. Fahey and Frank H. Clemons to tell of the expense of feeding prisoners during their respective terms as sheriff. Sheriff Schadt also went on the stand and testified to the bill of fare he quality and quantity of provisions purhased, and the expense of preparing and serving meals. The other side of the case is to b heard next Saturday. O'Brien & Martin represent the sheriff. The commissioners are represented by County Solicitor H. L. Taylor and the controller

DEATH FROM SMALL-POX

GRACE BRACE HAS SUCCUMBED TO THE DISEASE.

Six-Year-Old Child Died Yesterday Afternoon and Was Buried Last Night-Her Father Unable to Even View the Body-No New Cases Reported Yesterday-Probable Manner in Which Lewis Contracted the Disease and Brought It Here-Firemen Vaccinated.

Much to the surprise of the health authorities, there have been no new cases of small-pox reported during the past two days. This fact, however, has not caused the slightest relaxation in the precautionary measures already adopted.

The only important development in the situation yesterday was the death of 6-year-old Grace Brace, daughter of Mrs. W. J. Brace, who died last week at her home on North Bromley avenue, where G. J. Lewis died of small-pox the day before. The Brace child contracted the small-pox upwards of welve days ago and has been quaranined in the Meacs hall building, on North Main avenue, since last Tues-

The little girl died yesterday afternoon at 5.30 o'clock and was buried last night in the Cambria cemetery. to permit him to leave the house. The 16-year-old daughter of Mrs. Charles Parry and the 4-year-old Brace boy are now the only two patients renaining afflicted with the disease, it having been discovered that Mrs. Parry was suffering from another complaint entirely dissimilar from small-pox. It s a significant fact that none of the three children afflicted with the disease had ever been vaccinated, while Mrs. was vaccinated in her early

Every physician in the city is doing hardly anything these days except vaccinating the young and the old. A certain well-known practitioner stated yesterday that he had vaccinated no less than seventy-two persons one day last week and forty-nine another day. The physicians say that if as many are vaccinated this week as last, that when it draws to a close nearly every person in the city in need of vaccination will have been attended to.

TO CONSIDER ESTIMATES.

Joint Councilmanic Committee Wil Meet Tomorrow Night.

The joint estimates committee councils will meet tomorrow night in the select council room for the purpose of considering the estimates for the fiscal year, beginning on April ! The estimates of the several heads of departments as trimmed down by Recorder Connell and his cabinet are being printed and a copy will be ready for each member tomorrow night. The work of the committee will b greatly simplified by reason of the consideration which the estimates received at the hands of the cabinet The figures have been pared down to within a few hundred dollars of the estimated evenness so that any changes which the committee may decide to make will consist in cutting down certain items and adding the amounts taken off to other Items.

It will be practically impossible pass the appropriation ordinance by February 1, the date on which the "Ripper" bill says it must be passed and it is believed that no very energetic effort will be made to comply with the law as regards this particular Instance.

NO GENERAL OBSERVANCE.

County Board Decides Not to Have Parade on St. Patrick's Day.

There will be no general observance of St. Patrick's day this year by the Ancient Order of Hibernians. This was decided upon yesterday afternoon at the quarterly convention of the county board, held, in Campbell's hall, when a notion to have a parade was voted down after having been generally discussed.

The only other business of any imortance transacted was the receipt of an application for a charter from a umber of citizens of Dunmore, who desire to organize a division. The application will be acted upon at the next meeting. Yesterday's convention was largely attended and was presided over by C. C. Donavan, the county president.

IN DANGER OF A DISRUPTION

STREET CAR STRIKERS' UNION IS DIVIDED.

Five Members Whot Waited on General Manager Silliman Independent of the Executive Board Are Subjected to a Severe Arraignment at Last Night's Meeting-They Retort in Kind and a Warm Time Ensues - Motions to Return to Work Declared Out of Order.

For some time past, dissatisfaction has been growing in the ranks of the street car strikers. Some of strikers believed that inasmuch as the executive board was not accomplishing anything towards settlement and that the possibilities of settlement had not been exhausted, a new committee should be selected to wait on the company officials and endeavor to restore

Saturday last, five old-time employes of the company, Messrs. Fleitz, Lynch, Dickson, Cavanaugh and Nicholson, waited on General Manager Silliman and spent an hour conferring with him as to the possibilities of bringing about an adjustment. They went as individuals, openly, in broad daylight and aware of the fact that two members of the executive board watched them enter and leave.

At last night's meeting of the strikrs, these five members came in for a enthing denunciation at the hands of the executive board men and the representatives of the Central Labor union who are interesting themselves in the conduct of the strike. They were characterized as traitors and a committee of three was appointed to investigate and recommend whether or not they should be expelled.

COMMITTEE REPLIED. The five members were not a whit disconcerted by the arraignment, but instead made reply to every attack and took a turn at recrimination when the executive board members were calling names. Charges and counter-charges were freely exchanged, and, as one of the on-looking members put it, "They had t heir coats off at one another a couple of times." One of the things charged against the five assailed members was that they were acting at the instigation of Dr. Lutz, whom the executive board branded as an emissary of the company or the Citizens' Alliance, hired to disrupt the union. The accused members admitted that a man named Lutz, who, they understood, was a doctor, waited on them and wante dto deal for them with the company. They told him he might do whatever he was capable of, but that was the extent of their negotiations with him. The charge that they were to be i nhis pay while they would be engaged in settling the strike and the like o fthat was branded as utterly fulse. The connection of Lutz with the strike problem is not explained. The Citizens' Alliance and General Manager Silliman do not know him as an intermediary; in fact neither is attempting any mediation of the strike.

NEW COMMITTEE WANTED. Several times at the meeting last night motions were offered to have a new committee appointed to arrange with the company for a return to work under the best terms that could be secured, but each time the motion was ruled out of order, amid much confusion. Conservative members of the union greatly deplore the internecine trouble. They say that if the five assailed members are expelled a hundred men will leave the hall with them and that if such a disruption comes, the strike will never be declared off.
