CRUSHED UNDER PILE OF LUMBER

FRIGHTFUL DEATH OF LABORER
STEPHEN SKILSKIA.

Floor Gave Way in the Drying Room at Ansel's Lumber Yard, Carrying Three Men with It—Slight Fire on Seventh Street—Electric City Wheelmen Bowling Contest and Minstrels—Funerals and Other Matters.

Stephen Skilskia, a laborer, employed at Ansel's lumber yard, on Meridian street, met a frightful death on Saturday, and Joseph Reese and John Ganz had a narrow escape from serious injury. The floor in the drying room gave way under the weight of a heavy pile of lumber, and the men fell with it. Skilskia was pinned beneath the lumber and when extricated he was dead, his neck having been broken. Reese sustained slight injuries and was removed to his home on Pine avenue, and Ganz also received injuries which incapacitated him. He was taken to his home on Meridian street.

When the remains of Skilskia were borne to his boarding place in the Rising Sun block, at Seventh and Scranton streets, the boarding boss refused to admit the body, claiming that he had no money to bury him.

Funeral Director Regan took charge of the remains and after preparing them for burial, removed them to the boarding house, where they were finally admitted and arrangements made for the interment. The funeral will take place at 10 o'clock this morning, and burial will be made in the Greek Catholic cemetery.

Skilskia was about 45 years of age, and leaves a wife and three children in the old country. He was an industrious man and sent all his spare money to his family. Satisfactory arrangements were made for his burial before the boarding boss admitted the remains. Coroner Saltry was notified and went to the mill shortly after the accident occurred. He empaneled a jury, composed of William McGee, A. T. Heiser, William Coughlin, H. O. Hottes, George Malott and Thomas McHaley, and will conduct an inquest in the case at the court house this evening.

NORTH SCRANTON IMPRESSIVE SERVICE IN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Ten Magyars Were Received Into Its Membership Yesterday Morning.

Funeral of the Late James Tridnick—Services Conducted by the Rev. R. J. Reese, of the Puritan Congregational Church—Fairs Opens Tonight in St. Mary's Hall—Cases Heard in Police Court.

A service of exceptional interest and impressiveness, and withal of special import, took place yesterday morning in the Providence Presbyterian church. Preceding the celebration of the sacraments—the Lord's Supper and baptism—ten new members were received and entered into covenant relations with the church. Sitting in a body immediately in front of the altar were twenty Magyars, who were present to receive public recognition and to be received into the membership of which forty-two had already been received, after careful examination by the session of the church. So large a group of converts, and of worshipful men and women of foreign tongue engaged in worship with an old and established church in their adopted country presented an inspiring scene which will linger long in the minds of those present.

It was a prophetic event foretelling what ought to be speedily realized in our valley, viz., a church home provided for such strangers and sojourners in our midst as those people who yesterday morning found a warm welcome among the Providence Presbyterian church people. Rev. Dr. Guild was assisted in the service by Rev. Dr. Logan, superintendent of the work among the Magyars, and who read the formal recognition covenant to which assent was given. The covenant was interpreted to those who could not understand English, by Paul Hamborsky, son of Rev. Julius Hamborsky, the missionary. The Magyars were members of the church in Austria; they were trained in Christian faith and brought up to the observance of Christian duties, and in the adverse circumstances incident to leaving their home land and coming as strangers to a new country and among people unknown to them, they have, nevertheless, zealously held to the faith of their fathers, and maintained an earnest and reverent piety, and they give promise of useful and even influential lives for the years to come.

Most of those who united with the church live in Dickson City, and are spoken of as "the know nothings," personally as a people of quiet and thrifty habits, who will be zealous factors in the religious life of their countrymen and women. The service yesterday was attended by communicants that filled the auditorium.

Funeral of James Tridnick. The funeral of James Tridnick, who died Thursday evening, aged 34 years, after a lingering illness, took place yesterday from the residence of William Pearn, of Wayne avenue, with whom he had made his home for a number of years. Before the funeral, the religious services to begin, the house was thronged with sympathizing friends, anxious to pay their last respects to the departed.

Rev. R. J. Reese, of the Puritan Congregational church, was in charge of the services, and delivered an address, touching feelingly upon the exemplary life of the deceased. The Puritan church choir rendered several appropriate selections. The floral offerings were many and beautiful, and attended the high rest of which was held. The pall-bearers were selected from among the members of Lincoln lodge of Odd Fellows and of which he was a faithful member.

At the conclusion of the services the remains were taken to the Delaware and Hudson station and from there conveyed to Wilkes-Barre, where interment was made in the city cemetery.

Fair Opens Tonight. This evening the fair of the congregation of Holy Rosary church will open in St. Mary's hall. For several days the fair has been in progress, and other workmen have been busy getting the hall in readiness. The committee in charge has secured a large number of valuable articles to be placed on display.

This fair is being conducted to aid the fund for restoring the jawless church on William street. Each and every evening an interesting musical programme will be rendered by some of the best talent in the city.

Police Court. Yesterday was another busy day in the police court, in which several drunks and disorderly people were arrested and fined as follows: Stanley Misarich, fined $5; John Tolau, $7; Peter Knoovos, $3; Julius Kontoski, $5; John Skiban, $5; Frank Bartonick, $5; and Martin Skiles, $5. Most of these arrests were made by Patrolman Saltry, Ross and Thomas at a drunken row on McDonough avenue.

TOLD IN A FEW LINES. Major J. B. Fish is able to be about after his recent illness.

At a regular meeting of the North Scranton Republican club last Friday evening all Republican candidates recently nominated at the Republican primaries were highly endorsed by the club.

Next Friday evening the Institution of Human Development will hold a special mass meeting in the Tabernacle of the North Main Avenue Baptist church at Oak street and North Main avenue. Colonel Ripple and Judge Edwards will be present and deliver addresses.

Ex-Sheriff W. J. Lewis, of Edna avenue, is improving.

Revival services will be conducted during this week in the Providence Methodist church.

The North Scranton Glee club is practicing hard to compete in the city at Allentown.

The work of constructing the North Scranton Bowling alley which is to be located in the basement of the auditorium has begun and it will be completed in about two weeks at which time there will be a grand opening.
