FIXED BY ORDINANCE.

Office of Clerk of Common Council Can't Be Abolished by Simply Cutting Out Salary.

The effort of a majority of the members of the joint estimates committee to have the item of $600 for the salary of the clerk of the common council cut out of the appropriation ordinance will likely go for naught because of a discovery which was made yesterday.

It has been found that the office of the clerk of the common council is created by the re-organization ordinance and the salary of the place fixed. The innocent looking paragraph creating the office reads as follows: "There shall be a clerk of the common council whose salary shall be $600 per annum."

It is said that in order to dispense with the services of the clerk it will be necessary to pass an ordinance repealing this section and it is believed that this would be a very difficult thing to do because of the fact that a majority of the members of the common council have always seemed to favor the idea of having a clerk of their own.

FREE MATERNITY HOSPITAL.

Offers Its Services to Those Who Are Destitute.

The following has been received from the Society of Free Maternity Hospital service of Pennsylvania, with headquarters at 14 South Broad street, Philadelphia, with a request that it be presented:

A society, recently established, to dispense charity to worthy, deserving patients, known as the Society of Free Maternity Hospital Service of Pennsylvania, with headquarters at 1414 Hotel building, Philadelphia, Pa., is spreading its good work throughout the state, and is now reaching Scranton, Carbondale, Olyphant and other parts of Lackawanna county.

Respectable married women, who through misfortune, have been placed in destitute circumstances, will be cared for in their time of illness by the society. To become a beneficiary of the society, a prospective patient must, thirty days previous to her illness, sign application form, which can be secured by request to the secretary of the society, William J. Theodor, Room 311, Hoteldel building, 14 South Broad street, Philadelphia. This application form must be properly filled out and signed by two reliable residents of the state.

This line of charity will be dispensed irrespective of color, creed or nationality. A prominent feature of the society is the treatment of patients in their own homes, provided the proper conditions exist for the necessary treatment to the mother patient, otherwise, patients are treated at hospitals near their home, where arrangements have been made by the society to receive such.

At the home, the services of a doctor and nurse, the diet and clothing are provided by the society, and no case is dismissed until proven satisfactory to the medical director of the society, who visits the patient after her thorough recovery has been announced.

In order to maintain the society in its most laudable work, contributions will be placed in all the stores of Scranton, Carbondale, Olyphant and other parts of Lackawanna county, appealing for small donations of one penny or more. The contents of these boxes will be collected monthly and the same returned to the main office at Philadelphia.

Thus far, the society has given its needed assistance to a number of cases in Philadelphia and adjacent towns.

The officers of this organization are as follows: President, William H. Peterman; vice president, Frank L. Markward; secretary, William J. Theodor; treasurer, Harry C. Chesler; business manager, John J. Courtney.

WORK DONE BY THE LIBRARY

SHOWN IN THE ANNUAL REPORTS OF THE OFFICERS.

Scranton Public Library Now Has on Hand 41,836 Volumes—During the Year 1901, 125,719 Volumes Were Issued, of Which 125,518 Volumes Were for Home Use—On May 1 a Separate Room Was Opened for Use as a Young People's Library.

The eleventh annual report of the Albright Memorial Library has just been issued in pamphlet form. It contains the reports of the various officers for the year, and a considerable amount of information concerning the library. The report of the president, Hon. Alfred Hand, is as follows:

The growing interest of the public and its desire for extension of the benefits of the library are the best possible proof of the service rendered by our institution, the Scranton Public Library.

The literary value of the books received and put into the hands of hungry readers by the library constitute an assurance of growing intelligence, and of an uplift in individual character, which is of promise for our city.

The accompanying reports speak for themselves; and a careful study of them from year to year brings cumulative evidence of the hold that the library has upon the entire community. As an educational institution, as a conservative force that makes for stability, and for wisdom in the younger portion of our citizens who are growing in self-responsibility, this library has won its way into the hearts of our people.

With confidence and hope, therefore, the library trustees and their officers place the responsibility of its full and increased usefulness upon the conscientious care and support of every member of the city council; promising them our faithful administration of the trusts imposed upon us in this behalf.

LIBRARIAN'S REPORT.

Librarian Henry J. Carr, in his report to the trustees of the library, says: The following summary review of work done by the Scranton Public Library, during the twelve months of 1901, includes its ninth year of current public operation.

REGISTRATION. A necessary and preliminary act, prior to loaning of books for home use, is the registration of borrowers. The library cards, which are issued for a limited term; and to continue them in force a re-registration is required at the end of two years from the date of each card.

Registers in 1901 numbered 2,222 new and 1,900 re-registered; total, 4,122, of which 4,002 were city borrowers, 28 non-resident, and 81 teachers' or other special cards. As to sexes, 1,825 were males and 2,297 females; as to ages, 2,242 were persons of 10 years and over, and 880 under that age.

The circulating department was opened 304 days. The book issues numbered 125,518 volumes for home use, and 5,201 for use in the library; a total issue of 125,719 volumes. Daily averages for the year were 222. Comparing monthly totals, those of the first five months of November, resulting in a higher daily average. That for March, 481, was the highest average for any one month.

The net circulation of all other classes of books than fiction (adult and juvenile) did not differ materially from the totals of prior years. Hence it would appear that our annual fluctuations in circulation depend mainly upon the increase or decrease in the use of the so-called light reading; a fact that has been commented upon in these reports in other years.

YOUNG PEOPLE'S LIBRARY.

Commencing May 1 a separate room at the front of the building, on the main floor, was opened to use as a young people's library. It was supplied with a collection of books especially selected for that purpose, containing 1,000 volumes at the outset. By subsequent purchase and transfer, some 800 more were added to it by the end of the year.

Books are loaned from that collection for home use, as if from the general circulating department. During the eight months, from May 1 to December 31, the young people's library numbered 1,114 (6 daily average of 69), which included in the total book circulation reported above.

Free access to the shelves has prevailed; and equal opportunity is given for reading at the tables in that room, or for drawing books for home-taking. No count has been kept of the number of readers within the room, but the attendance of young people making use of the books there, has averaged quite up to previous expectations. On Saturdays, in the afternoon and evening of many other days, it has taxed the seating capacity of the room.

REFERENCE DEPARTMENT.

The former lecture room, on the second floor, having been adequately furnished and fitted for the purpose of a combined reference and reading room, was opened for use on February 1, 1901. The following are the principal facilities that provided have made it possible to locate the chief books of reference, including bound magazines, in adjacent rooms on the same floor. Considerable space has been added to the reference department, as well as greater convenience of access.

The regular issues of 25 weekly, 55 monthly, and 8 quarterly periodicals were received during the year 1901. Material additions were made to the sets of bound periodicals, through the binding of various volumes from the accumulations of previous years; and an equal or greater number of periodicals were added to the collection in the coming year.

CONTENTS OF THE LIBRARY.

The total number of volumes in the library at the close of 1901 was 47,924. Accessions of 1901 include 4,724 volumes; of which 4,404 were books newly bound and 320 volumes were exchanged; 129 by periodicals and pamphlets bound, and 290 by United States documents deposited.

Books of the year 1901 numbered 1,312 volumes; of which 1,200 were books, and 112 were replacing or increasing copies of standard works in all classes of literature.

The binding account for 1901 includes 602 volumes newly bound and 142 volumes recast in covers or rebound. At the library, 344 volumes were repaired, so far as feasible to do so without rebinding. In addition to constant mending, patching and pasting in of loose leaves and plates, the printed lists.

Nicholas E. Rice, 602 periodicals numbers; Arthur H. Stone, 14 numbers; M. R. Walter, 176 numbers; William A. Wilcox, 2 volumes and 117 numbers; Presbyterian Free Reading room, Honesdale, 150 periodical numbers.

From Hon. William Connell, M. C., the library received the daily issues of the Congressional Record, and 2 annual volumes on the Philippines; and of Hon. James C. Vaughan, state senator, sundry Pennsylvania documents.

An interesting collection of 41 autograph letters of various famous lecturers, written in the years 1838 to 1860, was presented by Colonel F. L. Hillsbeck.

Bound files of the Scranton Republican, and of the Scranton Tribune, were received from their publishers, as in previous years. Also the current issues of the two monthlies, Mines and Minerals, and Science and Industry, from the Colliery Engineer company.

MISCELLANEOUS MENTION.

Current appropriations for delivery stations and branch reading rooms were adequate for the continuance of only the three already in operation prior to 1901, viz: On the North Side, 25, 25, and 25; in Hyde Park, at 131 South Main avenue, and in Providence, at 112 West Market street. For each of those rooms, open weekdays from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., a supply of the current numbers of some 30 various periodicals was provided. A daily basket exchange of books to and from the library has been maintained with each, in the nature of delivery stations.

Total issues of books thus drawn from the main library for home use were as follows: On the North Side, 5,888 volumes, daily average 13, and largest single day 32; Hyde Park, 8,658 volumes, daily average 24, and largest single day 69; Providence, 8,110 volumes, daily average 22, and largest single day 54. Through the Green Ridge library, while it was open in the first five months of the year, 123 volumes were delivered at its own cost of service.

Reading room patronage has not been lacking at either of the three branches, the yearly average per day being 69 at the South Side, 57 at Hyde Park, and 46 at the Providence branch. The number of hours open, an average of from nine to ten persons per hour. At the Providence and South Side rooms the number of readers present at one time has been from 25 to 35, in excess of the possible seating capacity of either premises.

Annual meeting of the American Library Association, held at Waukegan, Wis., in July, 1901, was attended by Miss Decker, assistant librarian (as delegate and representing the library), and Frank Librarian; the latter being an officiating president of that national body.

The library staff for the year 1901 received the addition of Miss Mattes and Miss McMillan, each having had a practical course of library instruction at the Pratt Institute as a preliminary qualification. Later in the year, Miss Craven, after previous experience as substitute in 1900 and 1901, served regularly as Miss Decker's assistant. All others of the staff, viz: Misses Decker, Keeler, Hawley, Millett and Hardsberg, were regularly on duty, as in past years; and Samuel Numan, janitor.

The extent to which the institution as a whole, and the librarian as its executive officer, in particular, have been indebted to those faithful and earnest workers, the patrons of the library, is shown in words. Patrons of the library, the public that it serves, too, have been kind in their appreciative comments concerning its general and industrial disposition evinced by the several members of the library force with whom they have come most in contact. And, therein, the library administration has found no less cause for satisfaction.

FRANCHISE CONSIDERED BY SELECT COUNCIL.

Railways Committee Will Recommend That Wyoming Avenue Route Be Cut Out—Amendment Taxing Company on Gross Receipts as Per Agreement of Scranton Railway Company Adopted. Amendment Limiting Franchises to Forty Years Voted Down.

The railways committee of the select council considered the new street railway franchise ordinance last night and adopted numerous amendments to the ordinance which was presented to the council. The most important of these amendments was one imposing a tax on the gross receipts of the new companies to be added to the tax which the Scranton Railway company in a communication addressed to W. H. Taylor agrees to pay.

The only ordinance considered by the committee was the one providing for a franchise to the North End Street Railway company and the objections raised to the measure by the International Text Book company, and Rt. Pinlay Ross offered an amendment providing for the dispensing with the Wyoming avenue line and for the running of the tracks out Franklin avenue to the city hall. The amendment was adopted, however.
