DISASTER FOLLOWS JAMES CORRIGAN

The Fire Fiend Which Destroyed His Place of Business a Couple of Months Ago Wipes Out His Home. The Victim of Such Hard Luck Is

The time-honored phrase that tells of the purauit of the Nemesis of bad luck finds application anew in the case of James Corrigan, who many months ago sustained the loss of a hand in an injury which came to him at his work about one of the local breakers. A couple of months ago Corrigan's sole means of livelihood, a small candy store on Park Place, in the old postoffice building, was destroyed by fire. Yesterday the home that sheltered him and his family was wiped out by the same fiend. When the store was burned all that Corrigan owned was lost and in the disaster of yesterday there was nothing saved except a few chairs. In each instance everything was swept away.

Corrigan's home, which was destroy ed yesterday, is located on South Church street, in the rear of the cemetery. The blaze was noticed about o'clock by Mrs. Jacob, a neighbor, There was no one at home in Corrigan's. Smoke was coming from the kitchen. A telephone message caused an alarm to be rung for box 46. The Mitchells were on the scene first, but istance of the fire hydrant from the burning house made it impossible to reach the fire with the hose the company carried. When the Columbias arrived the combined hose made a stream available. At this juncture the greatest difficulty was met with: the water pressure was extremely weak and there was another loss of time, while the larger nozzle was being changed to a smaller one. Altogether there was a delay of perhaps a half an hour from the time the alarm was sent in, so when the firemen were ready to work the Corrigan home was past saving. Efforts were then centered in preserving the Wills' house about ten feet away from the flames.

The loss on Corrigan's house, as mentioned, was total, save a few chairs and some bedding. The contents, it was said, were not insured. The house which was owned by a building and loan association, had insurance that probably covers the loss.

Corrigan's hard luck has awakened the warm-hearted sympathies of the public and it is expected that he will speedily relieved by the charity of Corrigan's Wife Injured.

Corrigan's cross of yesterday was made the heavier by an accident which his wife met with on her way to the When the news that her home was being destroyed came to her, Mrs. Corrigan, affrighted, hastened to the place. In her excitement and nervous ness she slipped or tripped while ascending the hill and in falling sustained

HANDY HUSBAND.

Knew How to Get Part of the Breakfust Anyhow.

"I know one dish I can prepare for breakfast as well as any cook on earth," said my husband one day when the cook was ill and he had volunteered to help get breakfast. He appeared with his dish and I discovered it was Grape-Nuts which, of course, was easy to prepare for it was perfectly cooked at the factory, but it was a good illustration of the convenience of having Grape-Nuts about.

took up Grape-Nuts immediately after returning from a five years' sojourn in a hot country and our stomachs were in-bad condition and we were in bad health generally.

When we first tried it I confess we thought there were other and better things to eat and were told we must acquire a taste for this new food. Sure enough, in a day or two we liked Grape Nuts better than any other kind of food on the table. We both gained steadily in health and strength, and this was caused by Grape-Nuts and Postum Food Coffee.

A friend of ours had a similar experience. She was seriously ill with indigestion and could find nothing to eat that would not give her heart burn and palpitation, especially at night.

She found that a small dish of Grape Nuts with cream made her a satisfac tory supper and gave her a comfortable night's rest. In a short time sh has gained several pounds in weight." The writer lives in Topeka, Kan. Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek.

THE MUNICIPAL LEAGUE AND THE WATER OPINION

Discussed at Public Meeting in Academy of Music When the League Perfected Its Organization by Electing J. P. A. Tingley President and W. W. Towne Secretary-Addresses by L. A. Roberts and Reese Hughes.

The opinion handed down by Judge Halsey in the municipal water case visit the opera house this week, was plainly discussed at the meeting of the municipal ownership league in the Academy of Music last night. This means that opinions unfavorable to the decision were frankly expressed by the speakers, chief among whom were L. A. Roberts, who is the candidate for mayor on the third ticket and Reese

Besides listening to these addresses the lengue transacted the business for which the meeting was called, the perfecting of the organization. This was carried out by the election of J. P. A. Tingley, the druggist, as president or permanent chairman, and W. W. Towne as secretary. John B. Walsh was chairman of the meeting, and after calling it to order turning a sharp corner, the cutter over Reese Hughes was called to the stage to address the assemblage. The au- Foster had her arm broken, while Mrs dience was not large; in fact the atthan 50 persons being present.

Mr. Hughes urged a deeper interest occurred, on Birkett street. in the movement which he commended for its object, the greatest good for the greatest number. As to the opinion of Judge Halsey, Mr. Hughes expressed the opinion that it was somewhat onesided. It advocated for the consolidated people and it gave them all there was in it. It riled him wonderfully, he an Unfortunate Cripple-His Wife said, when he read it, and some people were so thunderstruck that it drove them under the ground. The people are still here, though he declared, and they would hold all they had, come what would. He urged the league to stick together and to carry the case to the court of last resort to win out in the fight against tyranny and degradation.

Mr. Roberts was also called upon by the chair. In his opening he reiterated what he said at the last meeting with reference to the attitude of the Consolidated Water company as he and his associates in the municipal water fight regarded it. In discussing the opinion of Judge Halsey, Mr. Roberts said he felt it was an outrageous decision. As a layman he couldn't say as to its legal uspect, but he believed it to be the vorst opinion that could be written.

He criticised the opinion for its failure to deal with the question of the purity of the supply on the West Side, source of the supply and observed the genial ways. manure that had been carted thereupon. The opinion may be honest, he said, but it doesn't look so, a belief which was shared by the majority of the people of Carbondale. Mr. Roberts also discussed the opin-

o of the court as to the sacredr the rights of the Consolidated Water company, taking exception to the ruling by pointing out this company forcing the Rushbrook company out of Jermyn by ruinously cutting rates. If the Consolidated company could do this with impunity, why not the poor people of Carbondale.

Mr. Roberts gave the assurance that the case would be appealed to the Supreme court whether or not counsel advised such a course. It was expected, he said, to obtain a favorable decision in the Supreme court. In conclusion Mr. Roberts urged a deeper interest in the movement of the league, which was to be wide in its scope, looking after the interests of the city in every direction. Chairman Walsh also made an address in which he pitched into counells, declaring that the league was going to elect "honest councilmen.

The next meeting will be February 10, when John J. Hart, of Scranton, will be the speaker.

Another point which Mr. Roberts laid stress on in a brief talk after his first appearance was that if Judge Halsey was sustained according to his own opinion Carbondale could go ahead and condemn the Fallbrook Water company's plant, purchase it and by so doing have a water system ready for service. This would perhaps be better even than the plan new proposed, namely the erection of a new plant, In the event of Judge Hadgey being reersed, then Carbondale could proceed as intended when the injunction was applied for. In either case municipal water seems a certainty.

Speech of Governor Cummins. Des Moines, Iowa, Jan. 29.-Governor A. B. Cummins delivered an address to a joint session of the legislature today upon William McKinley, in honor of the anniversary of the birth of the late president. Governor Cummins said in part: William McKinley believed and acted upon the belief that to be great and helpful and powerful a man must know some one thing better than any one else knew it, and that the world was always on the lookout for such a man. He chose for his especial study one of the most dif-ficult, as well as one of the most controverted ubjects of his time, and he mastered it abso utely, so that before many years had passed over his congressional career, William McKinley knew more about the productive capacity of the United States, more about the conditions under which labor carned its wage and capital its return, more about the possibilities of our magnificen future than any one man in America.

OPERATIONS OF THE STEEL CORPORATION

The Trust Refrained from Advancing Prices Last Year-Outlook for the Future is Bright.

By Exclusive Wire from The Associated Press. New York, Jan. 29 .- A preliminary report, covering the operations of the United States Steel corporation since it came into existence ten months ago. was made to the stockholders today. It was a forerunner to the more extended resume to be submitted at the annual general meeting on February 17, and was designed to familiarize the shareowners with the financial status of the company and the trade situation in the market where it buys and sells. The report, signed by both Charles M. Schwab and Albert H. Gary, declared present business and future outlook viewed ahead through 1902, to be highly satisfactory. The report said:

The outlook for the year 1902 is very bright. Everything indicates that all of the facilities of each subsidiary company will be taxed to their atmost to supply the demand that is being made. The actual business now booked and of which shipment is being called for faster than t can be supplied amounts to more than half he total combined annual capacity of all the companies. The heavier products like rails, bil-cts, plates and structural material are sold up o the productive capacity of the mills until carly the end of the year. In the more highly finished products the consumption in each case is greater now than at the corresponding period in 1901 which it should be remembered was an documently heavy year. The expectation, there are, of those closely connected with the manu acture and sale of these highly finished products s for a demand even larger than that of 190 and up to the limit of production.

Discussing prices, the report said that they could have been advanced, but it was decided to be better policy to refrain from doing so. The reference to prices follows, in part: The demand for products has been so great that prices could early have been advanced, indeed higher prices have been voluntarily of-fered by customers who were anxious for the umediate execution of orders but the companie are firmly maintained the position of not advancing prices, believing that the existing prices were sufficent to yield a fair return on capital and maintain the properties is satisfactory physical condition and that the collateral advantages to be gained in the long run by refusing to advance prices would be of substantial and sting value not only to the companies but also the general business interests of the country, The report asserted that this policy the system of economies.

The report said that great progress had been made in the general plan to armonize the work of the many plants, to secure perfect eq-operation and to effect economy in manufacture, but that the end had not been reached and more favorable results might still be ecomplished. The departments of ore aining, coal mining, coke manufacture and lake transportation, the report stated, have been thoroughly systematized and the managements of manuacturing plants have been brought into

If I turned in bed a cramp like pain caught me in the small of my back, and it was something terrible. In the morning my back felt lame and sore and so weak that it would hardly support my body. I felt tired and languid and had little ambition to do my work. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised and so highly recommended that I got a box at Matthew Bros.' drug store.
