TODAY'S ATTRACTIONS.

"The Head Waiters."

In "The Head Waiters," which was presented to two big houses at the Lyceum, Saturday, Ward and Vokes are at their best. Nothing they have done heretofore compares with their work of this melange of funny foolishness and catchy music. Their "Percy and Harold" business is all new good and their burlesque work in the war drama which concludes the show sends the house away with ach-

"Monto Cristo" Tonight.

There is every reason to believe that the engagement of James O'Neili at the Lyceum tonight will prove the most interesting of the year. Mr. O'Neill has been associated with the character of Edmond Dantes for a number of years but never has he had a production like the present one, which is said to be the most massive affair of the kind ever attempted on the American stage.

A notable company, including Frederic De Belleville, James O'Neill, jr., Miss Selene Johnson, Kate Fletcher and Warren Conlan, is supporting the star.

Robert Mantell.

The announcement of the coming next Wednesday and Thursday of Robort Mantell in Shakespearian plays, will be received with no small degree of pleasure by the patrons of the Ly-

Although Mr. Mantell for the last few years has been seen principally in romantic drama like "Monbars," "Corsican Brothers," "The Dagger and the Cross," and "Fre. Lance," etc., it will be remembered by theatre goers that his best work has been in tragedy. His selection for the coming engage-ment are "Hamlet," and "Othello."

"The Penitent."

"The Penitent," W. E. Nankeville's great production of Hall Caine's latest and, some say, best book, will be een at the Lyceum Tuesday night. This book, like "The Christian," deals with an original subject, but is upon in entirely different line of thought. preserving, at the same time, all the Hall-marks of that popular and masterful writer

"Miss May Fiske and a competent company presented "The Charity Girl' at the Park theater last night. There was a large attendance and those who were present were well repaid. Miss Fiske proved a delightful comedienne and was easily the favorite of the evening. A well-balanced company supported the leading lady. Throughout the performance are many pleasing specialties. The most pleasing numbers were undoubtedly those of Mrs. Fom Thumb, Count and Baron Magri. Mid-Winter Circus.

Without doubt the most elaborate entertainment ever given here in Scranton is to take place February 20, 21 and 22, with matinee on the 22nd, Washington's Birthday, for the benefit of the International Correspondence Schools association. This entertainment will consist of a mid-winter circus, to take place in the new armory. Among the professional features will be some of the best acts known to the circus business. The entertainment is to be given under the direction of the well-known musical caterer, Henry F. Dixie, who has just returned from a trip to the winter quarters of the Barnum and Balley show, where he has engaged most of the acts for the performance. The ring will be erected in the middle of the great armory, so that everyone can see, and there will be a circus performance of two hours, a feature that has never been equalled in this city. Outside of the many professional acts, a number of the best amateurs will appear as clowns and come-There will be a regular sideshow, with the "barkers," curiosities, Circasian woman, fat lady and skeleton man; cages of animals, trained horses, athletes, gymnasts and acrobats. It is certainly a wonderful per-

A performance of this kind first took place in Boston for a local benefit, the success of which was certainly phenomenal. Mr. Dixie, who was there at the time, has engaged from that performance a number of the leading features, and the performance here is sure to surpass even the Boston midwinter circus.

The members of the International Correspondence Schools' association all have preliminary tickets, with which they are erady to supply all who will purchase. The advantage of these tickets is that the holder can secure a reserved seat two days before the regular sale of seats, thus assuring them of the best places to see the performance, which no one is likely to merry for the thousands who are always ready to patronize the circus.

Paderewski.

The great interest shown in Scranton and vicinity in the appearance of the great Paderewski on February 24, at the new armory, increases as the time approaches, and it is predicted that the And Scores of Them Rearmory will be filled. The enthusiasm over this world-famed artist increases wherever he appears.

The following, from the New York World, shows the interest evinced at Poughkeepsie, where he played on Frilay evening last:

Poughkeepsie, Feb. 7.—Paderewski has charmed Vassar to a girl. He gave a recital tonight in Collingwood Opera house, and 300 students were fairly wild in their enthusiasm over his playing. During the rendition of the last number of the girls became hysterical. She acreams wildly, but Paderewski kept on playing. Friends were compelled to escort her from the theater while Paderewski concluded his recital. Value turned out on masse to greet the plan-ist. Special trains brought many from towns along the river, and the audience was an unusuallarge and builliant one. Paderewski was manifestly pleased by the earmth of his reception from Vassar. The demonstrution was pronounced from the first. He responded to the encores with the best of good He ature. The fervor of the students increased as

STAGE NOTES.

Miss Selone Johnston, leading lady for Mr. James O'Neill, who has been seriously ill for the past two weeks, has now recovered and has again ssumed the role of Mercedes in "Monte Cristo."

Blanche Bates, having entirely recovered from her recent severe illness, is again appearing as Cigarette in "Under Two Flags," in an elaborate cenic revival of the piece that opened under Charles Frohman's management at the Academy of Music, New York.

Miss Elsie De Wolf, now her own manager, re-appeared before a New York audience in lyde Fitch's play, "The Way of the World," at the Savoy, a week ago, and such success as was accorded the offering on its first presentaion at the Victoria some weeks ago was re newed. John Mason appeared as leading man,

Miss Charlotte Walker, the lady who has been playing the part of Mine, de Bruhl in Kyrle Bellew's, will resign the role in two weeks to appear as leading lady for James K. Hackett in his forthcoming production of Winston Charchill's "The Crisia." Her role in the "A Gentleman of France" cast will be taken by Miss Carolin

John Blair, of the Kyrle Bellew company, is to be Mrs. Patrick Campbell's leading man at the Royalty theater, London, next season. Mrs. Campbell had heard much of him, and during her stay in New York she sat in a box at Wallack's during two performances of "A Gentleman of France," saw his impersonation of M. de Bruhl, and her good opinion of Mr. Blair confirmed. The contract followed, and so Mr. Blair will follow Mrs. Campbell to London at the close of Mr. Bellew's season, and enjoy the deserved honors that have come to him. Mrs. Campbell and Mr. Blair are in perfect accord in their attachment to the artistic side of the profession, and with his new opportunities Mr. Blair will, without doubt, achieve added distinction.

Langdon McCormick announces that his new day, "Out of the Fold," will concern mainly he woman described in the Moody and Sankey norm as the one "out in the hills astray," and not the "ninety and nine safely lodged in the shelter of the fold," His selection of a title, he says, was based upon a magazine article by the younger Sankey who held that the familiar poem should have been entitled "Out of the Fold" instead of "The Ninety and Nine," for the reason that it had mainly to do with the erring one. Mr. McCormick has given to Long Jim, a character in the play, the following line in explanation of that point: "Then that's in the in the main, a humorous story, involving Chinese and English characters. The lyries, written by Percy Greenbank, Ardian Ross and Lionel Monokton, are especially attractive. The music by Sid-ney Jones has become unusually popular, even for an extraordinary successful production. The title role will be sung in this city by Marie Celeste, who created the character in America. The part of Yen How, the Chinese mandarin, is sung by George K. Fortesque. The principal comedy interest is exploited by Samuel Collins as Li, an eccentric Chinese boy who gets into all sorts of trouble and extricates himself with remarkable eleverness. This was the part assigned to James T. Powers in the original company.
