CONNELL-THOMAS NUPTIALS.

Beautiful Ceremony in the Elm Park Church Last Night.

A wedding, marked for its simplicity, yet elegance and good taste, took place last night in Elm Park church, when Miss Elizabeth Thomas, daughter of Mr. Llewellyn Thomas, was married to Ezra Roy Connell, esq., the youngest son of Congressman and Mrs. William Connell. The edifice was filled with friends. Perhaps no church decorations have been seen at a wedding in this city when the effect was so exceptionally beautiful. The balcony facade of the main auditorium was entirely veiled with Florida smilax, which also formed a soft and graceful screen about the organ turrets and down the balustrades.

The choir and altar were entirely hidden by a bank of palms extending far toward either side. Here and there Annunciation lilies gleamed amid the green, while delicate spirea caught the festooning at intervals. Marvin & Muir directed the elaborate decorations.

There were no bridesmaids and the bride and groom walked up the aisle unattended, excepting by the four little flower girls. They were Lucile, Janet and Gladys, the small nieces of the groom and daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Connell, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Connell and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Connell, and Louise, the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Connell, the groom's cousins.

The bride wore an exquisite gown of white embroidered chiffon, over white satin with many soft frillings at the foot. Her veil was held by orange blossoms, and she wore a diamond sunburst, the gift of the groom. Her flowers were lilies of the valley. Rev. Dr. C. M. Gillin pronounced the ceremony. The ushers were T. E. Connell, brother of the bride; Dr. Edson Green, Mr. O. E. Bailey, of Philadelphia, and Frederic Emerick, of this city. The beautiful wedding music was played by Prof. J. Alfred Pennington, the programme consisting of the following:

Grand Offertoire in F.....Waly
Swedish Wedding March.....Sjostrom
Communion in F.....Grisch
Wedding Music.....West
"Sweet Evening Star," transcription.....Wagner
Wedding March from "Lohengrin".....Wagner
Venezian Love Song.....Nevin
Wedding March from "Midsummer Night's Dream".....Mendelssohn

At the conclusion of the ceremony the little maids, in their fairy-like lace frocks over pink silk, made a charming picture as they walked sedately down the right aisle scattering pink blossoms, from the baskets which they carried, in the path of the bride and groom.

A brief informal reception was held in the church parlors where congratulations were offered, after which the immediate relatives proceeded to the home of the bride's father on Mullen street where a supper was served. Congressman and Mrs. Connell were at home from Washington to attend the wedding.

The bride is a young lady of more than ordinary gifts of beauty and character. She has been the solo soprano in Elm Park church for some time and has had exceptional vocal training both here and in London. Her pure and beautiful voice is a delight to the congregations which fill Elm Park church where she is very much loved. The groom is a young man of brilliant attainments and of fine legal ability. Since his admission to the Lackawanna bar he has opened a law office in the Connell building.

For the present he and his bride will remain at the home of Congressman and Mrs. Connell. Later they will take up their residence under their own roof-tree. They left on a late train last night for an extended journey. The bride was the recipient of many elegant and well chosen gifts.

A SUPERIOR PRODUCTION.

Letter to Manager Duffy About "The Bonnie Brier Bush."

Manager A. J. Duffy, of the Lyceum, has received the following letter from Henry F. Dixie, manager of Rorick's Glen Park, Elmira, N. Y., with reference to J. H. Stoddard's work in "The Bonnie Brier Bush":

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 15, 1902.

Mr. A. J. Duffy, Lyceum Theater, Scranton, Penn.
My Dear Mr. Duffy: Perhaps it is unnecessary for me to write you of the quality of the performance given by Mr. J. H. Stoddard in his company in the play, "The Bonnie Brier Bush," but having seen it in several cities I feel that the Scranton public ought to be impressed with its significance.

It is often happens in our business that the public mis a treat from the fact of not being in touch with the attraction, that is a brother manager I would like to say to you that you cannot speak in too much praise of this play and company.

Mr. J. H. Stoddard, as all professional know, is one of the greatest character actors alive today. His performance in "The Bonnie Brier Bush," the acting of the company, the scenery and the general atmosphere of the play is such that no lover of the beautiful in the dramatic art, should miss it.

Pardon me this liberty but I think such a performance tends to elevate the stage and the story presides a lot stronger than any public has ever given. I am

Yours very truly,
Henry F. Dixie.

CLEANING THE GUTTERS.

Department of Public Works Preparing for a Thaw.

A force of men from the department of public works were engaged yesterday in digging out the gutters in the central part of the city on nearly all the principal corners. The ice in some places was nearly a foot thick.

This cleaning of the gutters was necessitated by the heavy snow storm of Monday. When this snow melts, if the gutters were not cleaned, the crosswalks would be rendered impassible.

LOSS OF LIFE IS REDUCED

FACTS SHOWN BY INSPECTOR PRYTHERCH'S REPORT.

During Year 1901, 20,792 More Tons of Coal Were Mined For Life Lost Than in 1900, and 8,818 More Tons of Coal Were Mined Per Accident. Total Output of Second District for 1901 Was 8,674,000 Tons, an Increase of 2,244,948 Over the Previous Year.

Mine Inspector H. O. Prytherch, of the Second anthracite mining district, has just completed his annual report for this inspection district, which will be sent to the secretary of internal affairs for publication at once.

The report contains the usual statistics pertaining to the production of coal, the number of accidents during the past year, and much other general information concerning the work done in the mines during the year.

Comparisons of the results of the preceding year are also made, and comments are offered regarding the manner in which the greater part of the accidents occur. Many practical suggestions are made regarding the defects in mining which have come under his notice during the past year while making inspections and investigations. Recommendations are also made pertaining to efforts that should be made to guard against accidents, which are of frequent occurrence in the mining industry.

GIST OF FACTS.

The report embodies the gist of the facts which are of general public interest, and is as follows:

For the year, the following accidents are reported: Fatal, 62; non-fatal, 186; total, 249. The fatal deaths are made up as follows: Citizens, 58; others, 4; total, 62. The non-fatal accidents are made up as follows: Citizens, 127; others, 59; total, 186. Seventeen nationalities are represented by the killed and injured. There is an increase of 8 fatal and 31 non-fatal accidents over the list for 1900.

PRODUCTION FOR 1901.

The total production in tons for the year is 8,674,000, which is made up of the following three items:

Shipped by railroad to market.....	7,983,212
Sold at mines.....	247,250
Consumed to generate steam, etc.....	283,538
Total.....	8,674,000

There is therefore an increase of 2,244,948 tons over that of 1900.

Taking the number of accidents and production into account, we have 29,722 tons more coal per life lost, and 6,518 tons more per accident in 1901 than in 1900. On these figures, it is safe to base the opinion that mining in the district was less dangerous last year than the year before.

The operations contributed as follows to the total production:

Delaware, Lackawanna and Western.....	1,271,291
Austin Coal company.....	18,292
Delaware and Hudson company.....	208,278
The Hudson Coal company.....	191,926
Scranton Coal company.....	1,182,749
Green Ridge Coal company.....	1,159,839
Pennsylvania Coal company.....	256,719
Williams Connell & Co.....	134,669
Connell Coal company.....	884,275
John & J. J. Jersey.....	456,474
Elliot & McClure.....	297,222
A. D. & F. M. Spencer.....	792,926
Scranton and Hazleton.....	26,400
Gibbons Coal company.....	30,250
North American Coal company.....	287,221
Huron Coal company.....	127,221
Bull's Head Coal company.....	22,125
Carroll Coal company.....	38,474
Williams Connell & Co.....	134,669
Spring Brook Coal company.....	152,342

Causes of accidents are divided as follows:

Killed, Injured.....	29	71
Falls of rock and coal.....	1	2
Explosions.....	1	20
Explosions of blast.....	1	20
Mids.....	9	21
Cuts, inside.....	11	46
Cuts, outside.....	4	4
Falling down shafts.....	4	4
Breaker machinery.....	2	2
Miscellaneous, inside.....	2	11
Miscellaneous, outside.....	0	6
Total.....	62	186

A total of 18,927 were employed in and about the mines of the district, divided as follows: Inside, 13,117; outside, 4,810.

WELL DRESSED BEGGARS.

Pair of Clever Men Have Imposed on Local Clergymen.

Rev. Dr. Rogers Israel last night at the meeting of the associated charities told of two polite and educated pariahs who were seen in the streets and from statements made by Mrs. W. B. Duggan it would appear as if the pair has succeeded in victimizing a number of local clergymen.

The two men were under the influence of liquor when they were upon the streets. They were rather well dressed and appeared to be well educated. They presented a letter of recommendation from Rt. Rev. Bishop Mackay-Smith, of Washington, D. C., and one of the pair represented himself as the pastor of the Epiphany of Edinburgh. They told a plausible story of bad luck but when the doctor showed no signs of interest they merely made a request for a week's lodging.

The doctor informed them that he would do nothing with them and he informed if they thought he didn't know they had been drinking.

"We should be under your intelligence if we didn't think so," replied the more talkative of the two, bowing profoundly. The two then left the doctor's office, holding him good right in the politest way possible.

Mrs. Duggan said that she had heard that one of the priests at the cathedral had been "worked" for $5 by one of the same men and that other clergymen had also been victimized. The whereabouts of the pair at present are unknown.

Mrs. Duggan reported the case of the seven children of a man named Comstock living on Williams street. The parents are under four years of age, and according to Mrs. Duggan are woefully neglected. The disposition of this case was left to Mrs. Duggan and former Judge H. A. Knapp as was also the disposition of several other cases in which legal difficulties have been encountered.

The report of Mrs. Duggan for the month just ended was as follows: Applications for relief, 125; investigated, 55; found worthy, 49; meals furnished, 3; employment found for, 4; legal advice given, 1; sent to hospital, 2; sent to Florence mission, 2; children sent to institutions, 11; arrested, 3; prevented from begging, 4.

The report of the treasurer showed that when claims now outstanding against the board are paid there will not be a cent in the treasury.

CASE OF CHICKEN POX.

Investigated by Dr. Paine Yesterday Morning.

Dr. Saffry reported a suspicious case of chicken-pox to the bureau of health yesterday morning. Dr. Paine investigated and found the diagnosis to be correct.

It was the case of a 2-year-old boy named William Grinshock, at 325 Gibson street. No serious apprehension is felt over the case. The quarantine on the Allen building, North of Bromley avenue, was raised yesterday and the guards dismissed.

The quarantine remains in force on all the other infected houses until further notice.

The case of Ensign Lentz, of the Salvation Army, who has been suffering from small pox, is sufficiently recovered to permit of the raising of the quarantine the latter part of this week.

Councilman Evan Evans is improving slowly and will recover, Mrs. James Bruce is "holding her own," the doctor says. Both Mr. and Mrs. William J. Morgan are up and around the house. The Parry and Brace children are also up and around the house.

The case of Muehlen Vinol is a clear case of small pox. Dr. Paine says, but its source has not yet been located.

TWO SISTERS OF KING.

Summoned from Pittsburg, but Did Not Know He Was Murdered.

Two sisters of the late Peter King, who was killed by Michael Davis at Minooka, on Sunday, arrived in the city on a Delaware and Hudson train at 1:23 o'clock yesterday afternoon from Pittsburg.

They were summoned here by telegram, but did not know their brother had been murdered until informed by Special Officer Spellman at the Delaware and Hudson passenger station. Neither did they know his place of residence, and Spellman induced them in charge of Patrick McGreevey, who accompanied them to Minooka.

STORIES OF EYE WITNESSES

EVENTS THAT PRECEDED THE KILLING OF KING.

It is Agreed by All Those Present That Davis Had Taken Some Drink and Sought Trouble with King but There is a Wide Variance as to the Nature of the Events That Immediately Preceded the Shooting of King by the Accused.

Patrick Sullivan, of Minooka, tells a very comprehensive story of the events which occurred in his place early Sunday morning and which resulted in the killing of Peter King by Michael Davis, a police officer of Minooka borough.

Sullivan says it was sometime after midnight when Davis and his chauffeur Constable Harvey Decker, of Moonic, came in. King was at this time talking to him (Sullivan) at the end of the bar. Davis came over to them and began talking about King having refused to obey a subpoena which Davis had served on him some few weeks previous. Davis talked in a bragging tone and King responded in a quiet way: "You know, Davis, you couldn't take me alone." Davis replied, "Yes I could. I could take you to hell."

Sullivan got them to end their argument, and just then Dan Cotter broke forth in a song. When the song was finished, Davis laid his hand on the arm of Decker and addressing himself generally, but looking at King said: "But man here is as good an Irishman as there is in this house, and I'll stand at his back."

The crowd evidently took this as a challenge from Davis to King and as Davis had been tantalizing King, it was felt that he would take it up. A young man named John Ruane stepped in front of King as if to intercept him if he started for Davis. King pushed him aside and told him to mind his own business.

At this Davis turned on King with a threat of abuse for his treatment of Ruane. He called it a "rotten trick," and referred to King as a "big brute" and "a pig." Still King held his peace. Ten or fifteen minutes went by and during this time Davis kept up a fusillade of abuse of King referring to him several times in a most insulting way.

King did not pay much heed to him but once in a while would retort in a bantering tone, "Davis, you know you're no good," or something to that effect.

Finally Davis' abuse nettled King and he warned him to cease. Davis flared up quickly and said: "I'll kill you, you know," and backed up in a corner.

King followed him with the index finger of his right hand extended as when one wishes to emphasize by a gesture. "Now, see here, Davis," King was saying, when Davis whipped out a revolver from the right hand pocket of his coat, and fired. The bullet went into King's head and lodged in the ceiling. Davis did not aim at King at the first shot.

At the report of the pistol King, who was only four feet away, sprang at Davis clutching his throat with both hands and grasping at the pistol with the left. He evidently did not get a good grasp on the pistol hand, for Davis succeeded in twisting the hand about so that the muzzle of the pistol was against King's body. Constable Decker, who was also clutching with his right hand and grasping at the pistol, but could not get at the pistol. That he got near it though was evidenced by the fact that his coat sleeve was burned by the powder. Several others of the crowd jumped in to take a hand and were striving to overpower Davis.

OTHER SHOTS FIRED.

Only a few moments elapsed after the firing of the first shot, before four more shots were heard. Three of them entered King's body. The revolver was held so close to him that the powder burned the flesh. When King fell, the white crowd fell with him in a heap. Sullivan says that Davis was not drunk and that King at no time showed any anger. This version of the trouble is endorsed by Patrick Loftus and Thomas Sullivan who were also present.

Guineave Dietrich another eye-witness, told that he came down from Scranton on the same train as Davis and Decker, but did not see them until they all got off at the Minooka station. He and Davis and Decker had some drinks together in Judge's saloon and Dietrich went on to Sullivan's leaving the other two in Judge's. He was in Sullivan's when Davis and Decker came in. The first disturbance the witness noticed was when Cotter finished his drink together in Judge's saloon and Decker to be as good an Irishman as there was in the place. At this King jumped at Decker, but at the crowd held him back and pacified him.

Shortly afterwards, Davis made some remark to King, whereupon King made a move as to hit him. John Ruane stepped in between them and King hit Ruane on the forehead knocking him down. Davis expostulated with King for striking a boy, whereupon King again rushed at him. Again a bystander held him back.

In the quarrel that followed Davis called King a "rotten trick" and a "big brute."

At this King followed Davis and Davis drew his revolver and fired over
