The remains of William Coyne, son of-Mr. and Mrs. Philip H. Coyne, arived in this city yesterday afternoon from Asheville, N. C., where he died Friday morning, and were taken to the family residence at Adams avenue and

Mr. Coyne went to Asheville a month igo with his father and mother in the hope that the change of climate might work an improvement in his health. A decided change for the better was ob served and when the elder Mr. Coyne was symmoned to return to his business interests in this city he was hopeful of the recovery of his son. week he received word that the young man's condition had grown worse and immediately started for Asheville arriv-Ing there a few hours too late to see his son in life.

Arrangements were at once made to oring the remains home and Mr. and Mrs. Covne began their sorrowful journey northward. The funeral will be held omorrow morning at 9 o'clock from the house. A solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrated in St. Peter's Cathedral and interment will be made n the Cathedral cemetery.

The death of Mr. Coyne caused genral sorrow among his friends and acquaintances in this city. He was born here 27 years ago and enjoyed an acquaintance with the people of this city and its vicinity possessed by few men of his years. Whole-souled and generous, ever courteous and charitable of peech, he won the regard of all whom ne met. He had carved for himself a prominent place in the business life of this community when he was stricken with the malady which resulted in his death. Besides his father and mother ne is survived by a sister and two brothers. They are Mrs. Hortense Congdon, of Binghamton, and Leo and Stanley Coyne of this city.

PINK SLIP TAKEN OFF.

That Does Not Mean That Fire In surance Rates Have Been Restored to Their Former Basis.

The following copy of a letter re eived by the Scranton Underwriters' ssociation from the Underwriters' association of the middle department was on Saturday sent to all of the fire insurance agents of this city and its viinity.

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 20, 1902. tr. John M. Hughes, Scranton, Pa,

Dear Sir: At a meeting of this association, real teld on the 18th inst., the following, relating o "Pink Slip Charges," was adopted:

First—That rates on all property within the corporate limits of the city of Scranton and the ugh of Dunmore be advanced 33 1-3 per cent. is of March 5, 1902, with the following excep-Dwellings and their contents and all special izards upon which new rates have been pro-aulgated under Middle Department schedule The foregoing advance to continue in force un il such time as a general re-rating by revised chedules and the promulgation of a new tariff hall have been made by the association. relates of pink slip charges shall be al-lip, whether at short rates or pro rata, shall be reported to the companies through the stamp clerk, and by him recorded. Any insurance written subsequent or prior owed on any policies now in force, bearing said thereto which directly or indirectly replaces the whole or a part of the line shall be at not less than the rate, including pink allp charge of the Very truly yours,

This means that the rate on dwellings 'pink" slip was put on policies, but there will be no rebate of the insurance paid under that arrangement. On all other kinds of insurance there will be an increase of 33 1-3 per cent, on the rate that prevailed before the 'pink" slip increase went into force.

Not a New Discovery.

Editor of The Tribune: Sir:—Please allow me to make known to your readers that aseptic vaccination is no new discovery as is claimed from the reported experi-ments furnished by two local "homeo's" in Sat-urday's issue of your valuable paper. The fact is that aseptic vaccination is practiced by every regular up-to-date physician throughout the country. Wherever a package of reliable vaccine is sent, a printed circular goes with it giving explicit directions as to the necessary precau-tions to be followed in its employment. No intelligent physician, therefore, has any logical reason for not knowing that aseptic or surgical cleanliness is required in vaccina-

And it should be understood by all that sore rms from vaccination are not always due to a lack of pure virus or cleanliness; because much depends on the temperament and constitution of the person vaccinated, Some skin disease, such as eczema, if present, will cause the process of vaccination to take on an aggravated form. Likewise a cold or con-gestion is liable to give trouble. And people who are addicted to eating fat meats, condiments, and pastry, or indulge in the use of alcoholic drinks, are most certain to suffer from large augry vaccination sores, in spite of aseptic measures.

Vaccine virus is a pcison, and when introduced into the blood sets up a chemical or physiological change in the system-like leaven in flour, it leaventh the whole body. And while the virus is operating more or less physical disturbance is likely to take place, as indicated by elevation of temperature or fever, increase of heart action, loss of vitality, languor, indicesting and more all walks. But it is a gestion, and general weakness. But it is great satisfaction to know that after it has had full sway for several days, the affected person fully recover, and are rendered practically in nume against the ravages of small-pox which

In the morning he spoke in the First while last night he spoke in the Green i Ridge Presbyterian church. His night ermon was, in part, as follows:

"In the advance of the nineteenth century, the Presbyterian church played no unimportant part. The Presbyterian personal. church occupies her own peculiar niche in the sisterhood of churches and is destined to do a particular kind of work, a work which would remain for and on the threshold of the twentithe Christian tasks which lie before

CLOSER UNITY IN CHURCH LIFE. "I propose to consider this question n a threefold way and I desire to speak first upon assimilation, the necessity of closer unity in our church life. The Presbyterian church is becoming great church. Some churches measure their greatness by counting, but we Presbyterians always measure ours by weighing. And still we are large it numbers, with over 1,250,000 members. "There are many ties that bind us ogether as a church, and perhaps the greatest is the tie of doctrine. The great truths for which the Presbyterian church stands bind all her members into an organic unity, no matter how vastly divergent may be their ancestry. their education or their social position in the community. The doctrine of the Presbyterian church doesn't change every two or three years. She doesn't hunt after new things, but is loyal to the truth as she understands the truth. She occupies a safe middle ground between Roman Catholicism on the one hand and Unitarianism on the other: between Roman Catholicism exalting earth, placing him equal in authority vill be the same as it was before the to the Bible and Unitarianism denying

"Standing between these two extremes Presbyterianism places her hand upon the Bible and declares it DEATH OF CHARLES STAULPE. to be the great and only guide for man's life here below. The fundamenreign in wisdom, sovereign in love and sovereign in mercy, Presbyterianism writes God over all history; writes God over the skies, writes God over ime. On this fundamental fact of an all-sovereign God the Presbyterian church is built.

"Another bond that binds the church together is the bond of church government. All the church is one. If one hurch suffers the whole church feels t. Here again we stand on a charmed niddle ground between ecclesiastic emocracy or Congregationalism and clesiastic monarchy or Roman Cathocism. We have all the liberty of the ne and all the stability of the other minus the vices of both. Another bond binding us close together is our form f worship which is the same in every part of the world and where again e occupy a middle ground between the millinery of ritualism and un-hecked devotionalism. The second problem which we find obfronting us is the problem of eduation and this problem includes the chole question of the college as against the university. The American people are becoming university intoxicated and to my mind the greatest educational heresy of the time is the substitution of the university for the col-Rev. Dr. Henry C. WARNING IS SENT OUT

WEATHER BUREAU SAYS LOOK OUT FOR FLOOD.

Rain and a Thaw Are Promised for Today-The Thaw of Yesterday Was Not of an Alarming Character-Department of Public Works Had Its Own Trouble Saturday with the Immense Amount of Snow That Covered the City Streets-Two Buildings Collapsed.

There is every promise of a flood such is has never before been witnessed in this part of the state. Weatherman Clarke received a warning telegram on Saturday and yesterday at 11 o'clock came another one, reading as follows: diserver, Scrauton, Pa.

Warmer weather indicated for next two days with conditions favorable for rain by Monday night. These conditions will be most favorable for a general breaking up of ice in the ma-rivers and streams of Pennsylvania, W Maryland and West Virginia, Notify all interest concerned that danger from floods in low lyin lands is imminent.

The wentherman himself predicts rainstorm for this afternoon or tonight but this prediction is based on data procured no later than Friday night Should such a rainstorm come, coupled with the warmer weather which promised, the snow on the mountain sides and everywhere else will be rapidly melted, and the Lackawanna river and Roaring Brook will become swollen to great proportions.

I should warn all dwellers on lov lands adjoining the river to prepare for a flood," said Mr. Ciarke vesterday, "H the rain comes, as I think it will, there will be nothing to prevent the ice is the mountain streams from breaking up and the snow on the mountain sides from melting. A flood will be inevit able.

SENT OUT WARNINGS. Mr. Clarke sent out over 800 posta parts of Northeastern Pennsylvania. giving warning of a flood, and notified the train dispatchers of all the rail roads to look out for washouts. There was no very great thaw yes terday, as the temperature was at the protest against this shutting out of freezing point nearly all day, and the God's word in the name of patriotism show only melted when the sun was up. and in the name of that faith and free. The walking was fairly good, except at dom brought here by the Pilgrims and the crossings, where the water came over one's ankles in many instances Early in the afternoon it began to freeze and when nightfall came on the Presbyterian church today and $5,009,- | slush had been transformed into halfsolid snow. The department of public works we swamped Saturday notwithstanding its best efforts. Early in the day Director Roche realized that the urgent neceshe skepticism that is manifesting it- sity of the hour was the keeping open of the sewers, sewer basins and the gutters so far as possible that the water from the melting snow might be drained from the streets and prevent the woes that an accumulation of sur face water would entail.

He directed Superintendent of Street Thomas to hire every man he could find and they were set to work opening sewer basins and gutters and digging canals through the heaped up snow to get a passage way for the water. It was impossible to get men enough to do this and keep the crosswalks clear and the latter had of necessity to re main uncleaned.

SEWER BASIN CHOKED. Yesterday the sewer basin at Linden street and Washington avenue choked but a gang from the street department was soon on hand and had it restored to its normal condition. The wisdon Charles Staulpe, of Washington, N. of bending every energy Saturday to midnight at the Moses Taylor hospital, had power enough to thaw. The snow was no sooner reduced to water than His remains will be removed to his it passed into the sewers leaving the streets comparatively dry. Today the energy of the street department will be The "Bon Ton Burlesquers" will directed to the work of cleaning the cross walks. In view of the thaw and rain that is promised, Director Roche requests that sidewalks at once where they are not cleaned but also assist the department in keeping the gutters open. If the gutters are kept open, allowing surface water to pass into the sewers, much water to pass into the sewers, much damage to property will be prevented.

The telegraph companies have to some extent repaired the damage done in this vicinity by last Friday night's storm, but the Scranton Railway company is still suffering from the effects of that memorable combination of snow, sleet and rain. Cars are being run on nearly all lines, but with more or less irregularity. The tracks on South Main avenue, south of Washburn street, were completely covered with frozen snow yesterilay morning and it was midday before cars could get as far as Hampton street. It is expected far as Hampton street. It is expected that the street will be cleaned as far as the city line today.

BUILDINGS COLLAPSE.

The storm was responsible for one thing which the residents of Bull's Head are thankful for, and that was the collapse of the roof of the celebrated Red Barn, in the rear of Churches' corners, on Saturday. The snow became too heavy for the roof of the structure and in it crashed, rendering the building uninhabitable at

The Red Barn has been for years the dwelling place of a number of persons of bad reputations. It was split in two by a mine cave last summer, but the residents were not at all disconcerted and kept right on living in the structure, despite the fact that it was apparently in imminent danger of topoling over. It is believed, however, that the falling in of the roof will necessitate the moving out of the occupants. The roof of a large shed in Green Ridge, belonging to the Green Ridge Glass company and formerly used by that concern as a wagon shop, collansed under the snow on Saturday Nothing prettier was ever seen in this ity than the appearance that the lee
