MAY ELECT YOUNG GOLDEN.

shool Roard Is Disposed to To Such Action.

There is a lively struggle on the part X a number of residents of the Sixth ward for the vacancy caused by the death of Patrick Golden, the school controller from that ward. Among those seeking the honor are P. J. Murphy. Peter Walsh, William O'Malley, Joseph Drury and James O'Malley. The school board elects a man to fill the office until next spring's election and then the voters elect for the remaining year of the term. So many candidates have appeared on the scene that the members of the board are likely to elect Michael Golden, son of the deceased controller, unless the citizens of the ward get together and give expression to their choice. There is talk of calling a caucus for this purpose.

Building Inspector T. B. Jackson has been removed from office by Superin-tendent F. L. Brown, of the bureau of building inspection. The latter when himself but to Mr. Gibbons belongs the asked yesterday why he removed Mr. Jackson, said:

'I have not removed him. I have discharged him. He was a personal employe of mine, paid by myself. I discharged him because I had no further use for him in the office. Further than this I do not care to state.' Mr. Jackson was formerly in charge of the bureau of building inspection, but resigned upon request shortly after Recorder Connell assumed office. He was later employed by Mr. Brown, the newly appointed superintendent as assistant, and has been since paid out of Mr. Brown's own pocket. The appropriation ordinance for the coming fiscal year includes an item of $750 to pay the salary of a building inspector in addition to the superintendent's sal-

Superintendent Brown will probably appoint a successor to Mr. Jackson within a few days and when the appointment is made it is understood that the man appointed will be one selected by Director of Public Safety F. L. Wormser, who will have the appointing power as soon as the salary for the office is provided by councils.

DIED BY HIS OWN HAND.

Illness and Inability to Get Employment Drove Frank Lesh to Suicide-Shot Himself in Head.

Frank Lesh, aged 42, a carpenter, committed suicide yesterday morning shooting himself in the head, in his bed room at the family home, 1115 Albright avenue. Long standing illness and inability to secure employment are assigned by his friends as causes which drove him to the deed.

He was abed yesterday morning at 6.30 when his wife was about her household work and called to her to inquire if their older son had gone to work, She answered that he had and a few minutes later went into the back yard with their younger son to attend to some work. The boy who was first to return to the house called to his mother that he smelled powder smoke. His mother thought it was sulphur from the stove, but on examination proved her surmise incorrect. Then the true cause of the smell, like a flash, came to her mind. and pushing open the door of her husband's first-floor bed room, discovered his right temple.

The family say he has been melancholy for twelve years, on account of ill health, but no one thought his melancholia was so intense as to drive him to sulcide, though he sometimes declared he wished he was out of his misery. Raging headaches, resultant from chronic catarrh, were the principal causes of his complaints. Up to the time of the strike he was employed in the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western car shops. Since then he has not been able to secure work. This augmented his melancholy.

SYMPTOMS OF RABIES.

Important Information That People Generally Should Become Acquainted with.

In view of the fact that an outbreak among dogs of rables, canine madness or hydrophobia, has unfortunately appeared in this city, and also that an order has been issued from the department of public safety requesting ownlatter are allowed to run at large, it concerning a most important phase of the matter, viz.: A clear description of the symptoms shown by a mad dog that owners may be assisted to distinguish clearly between symptoms of rables and those harmless diseases from which dogs may suffer.

Rabies appears in one of two forms, viz., the dumb or paralytic: the furious or irritable. The former may early be discerned by paralysis of the lower jaw. Because the jaw drops the dog's mouth s constantly open. Saliva runs freely rom the mouth because the victim is powerless to swallow it. As a rule this kind of a mad dag is quiet and tranquil. It seeks a quiet place and lies there, but appears dull and dazed. The dog cannot bite because of the paralyzed jaw, hence is not dangerous. But if a person should put his hand in the animal's mouth and it was cut by the dog's teeth, the result would be the same as if bitten. Occasionally an active case of dumb rabies is seen. In president so well administered as during the year just closed.

> In some outbreaks more cases in this class occur, than of the furious kind, As such cases are comparatively harmless from beginning to end of the attack, this is indeed fortunate. This class usually die from the fifth to the eventh day. Occasionally the time is ess-sometimes is extended.

The other form of rables-commonly alled furious rables—is also quite easily detected. In most cases in this class the dog at first is dull and morose as if ashamed. It seeks sympathy, may be affectionate, loving to caress its master by licking the hand. But ts general behavior is entirely changed. It can plainly be seen the dog acts in nervous, unnatural manner, that its ways have changed. It becomes more restless, manifested by the dog's lying down, then in a few seconds quickly rising and walking about. As the nervous symptoms progress in these cases the dog usually wanders, often miles from home, biting people, especially children, also dogs and other unimals. The dog generally dies from paralysis before the ninth day. In this manner, and in this alone, is the disease of rables passed from one dog to another, until it becomes known that a number of dogs have been bitten. This is what constitutes an out-

If known, the symptoms above enu merated are sufficient to enable any intelligent person to quite positively diagnose a case of rables. But great at one long table in the main dining care must be taken not to confound room, at the head of which sat Consymptoms of other diseases in dogs with the typical symptoms of rabies. of the night. At his right sat Mr. Gib- For example-it is quite common for a dog to have a fit or a convulsion. It may have pain-may appear nervous and restless, but there will be marked symptoms of pain. It may have trouble in the mouth-toothache perhaps, neuralgia, bowel trouble, etc. These and many other allments will cause the dog to appear sick-unnatural, but not necessarily rabid.

A vast number of dogs, not rabid, but afflicted with other diseases, have been foolishly destroyed. Such a thing is wrong, is unnecessary. If the dog be confined a few days the facts as to be confined a few days the facts as to cause of the trouble become positively known Most dogs are owned by people who value them highly. They want no harm to come to these pets. A dog is not to blame for becoming mad. It is an accident and might have been averted had some owners been more careful. Hence, if during an outbreak, all owners of dogs will see that their dog shall not roam about without an efficient muzzle, much will have been accomplished. For by such sensible co-operation between the people and our sanitary authorities the result of stopping the spread of rabies will be accomplished

Thus valuable dogs and pet dogs will be saved, to say nothing of the lives of people who are in great danger during an outbreak of rabies.

In conclusion, it would appear far more reasonable to require the muzzling of dogs during an outbreak than during the hot dog days of summer when there is no outbreak, and which custom is found in nearly every city. It is to be deplored that some newspapers, instead of counseling reason. magnify and distort, as well as allow heir columns, which should be used to calm the public mind when in the face of danger, to become a means of ers to muzzle their dogs whenever the causing undue excitement and spreading alarm to the possible injury of peo-
