YE OLD FOLKS' CONCERT

ENJOYABLE AFFAIR AT BELLEVUE C. M. CHURCH.

Midge Thronged to Heary Peggy Smith, Old Black Joe and Others Sing—Several Funerals Yesterday Afternoon—Mules on a Rampage. Heptasophs Debate—Death of a Former Resident—Quarantine Raised on Several Places—Notes and Personals.

The "Old Folks' Concert," a thing of the past, which never dies, brought with it last evening many old-time songs and choruses which are not new in this century. Such an event was given last evening at the Bellevue Welsh C. M. church.

The edifice was crowded to its utmost limitation by people who came from afar to hear the choir sing the old, old songs of long ago, and to see the pretty maids and stylish gentlemen all attired in olden costumes.

The programme was as follows: The choir sang "Harlech," followed by a solo, "Lady Llanover." The village choir, a selection which was followed by a recitation by Charles Dickens. The village choir sang "Far Away," "Long Ago," "Strike the Cymbals," "Livin' On," and recitations were given by Beulah Ricketts and Charles Dickens.

A dialogue by William Parks, Nancy Parks, Lawyer, Pettifogger and Judge Quackenbush, met with meritorious applause. The female party which sang a Welsh selection entitled "Gwenthy Gwyn" showed good training by Leader Peggy Smith, who also sang a solo, and greatly surprised the audience with her sweet contralto voice.

Laura Hanks of the village choir, also sang sweetly. The selections given by the quartette were exceptionally fine and especially in the solo and chorus of "Old Black Joe." The bass voice of Old Darby Jones never loses its richness.

The entire programme was well received and will be repeated this evening.

Quarantine Raised. On the home of Ensign Lentz, opposite the Salvation Army barracks, on Price street, has been raised, Mrs. Lentz having recovered from the mild attack of smallpox, from which she suffered. The quarantine is now removed.

OBITUARY.

MRS. GEORGE PATTERSON died at her home at La Plume Tuesday night after a long and exceedingly painful illness. For more than a year, Mrs. Patterson had been confined to her bed helpless with rheumatism. Last summer she was brought to this city and taken to the Hahnemann hospital, in the hope that the electric treatment might help her, but nothing availed to stay the progress of her disease, and she continued to grow worse until death ended her sufferings. Mrs. Patterson was a woman of charming personality, a devoted wife and mother, and leaves, besides her husband and four small children, a host of friends to mourn her early death.

JOHN McDONALD, who resided on Pittman avenue, near River street, died yesterday afternoon, after an illness of several weeks. He was a man well-known and held in high esteem in the neighborhood where he resided. A wife survives him. The time of the funeral will be announced later.
