ADDITION IS COMPLETE.

Tenants Are Moving Into the New Part of the Connell Building—A Great Structure.

The addition which makes the Connell building on Washington avenue one of the largest and finest in the state is about completed and the tenants are moving in. It covers a ground 150 feet wide and 150 feet deep, is eight stories in height and is nearly fire proof as steel, stone and fire proof material can make it. The entire building has 240 offices. The new part is 50x150 feet and has 80 offices. Already the greater part of these have been leased.

The interior fittings of the offices are of oak highly polished. Another elevator has been put in place giving three rooms, smooth running elevators to carry people up and down. Big stand pipes run from cellar to roof in the front and rear hallways with valves at each floor. These valves are each connected with 100 feet of hose always ready for use. The stand pipes are connected to a steam pump in the cellar. The pump is supplied with water from the city mains and the force of water that can be directed against any fire that might start in the building is so great that it would be almost independent of the city fire department.

Two big dynamos are stationed in the cellar to supply electricity for lighting the building and these are to be reinforced by another of equal size under construction, that there may be no lack of light for the new part of the building.

The Webster Vacuum system of steam heat is used which insures an equal distribution of heat all over the building and prevents the condensing of the pipes with its resultant annoyances.

The storeroom on the first floor of the building is to be occupied by Connolly & Wallace who will also have the rear half of the second floor. The storeroom has been connected with the others now occupied by the firm. The International Salt company in addition to the offices which it has occupied on the eighth floor of the old building for some time has had the front part of the new building's eighth floor especially divided into offices to suit its needs. Altogether the company now has a suite of fifteen offices which are furnished in an exceptionally handsome and artistic manner.

On the sixth floor the law firm of Willard, Warren & Knapp has a suite of ten offices specially arranged to meet the needs of the firm. They are on the front of the building and are very cheerful and well lighted. There is a large reading office, which opens into a hall off of which are the private offices of the members of the firm. At the end of this hallway is the law library, the largest as to space occupied and number of volumes in Pennsylvania. The firm is already in possession of its offices.

The front half of the third floor has been leased to the New York Life Insurance company which has had the front half of the second floor of the underwriters association which has quarters on the same floor of the old building for some years. Altogether the building is one of which the city can well be proud.

AN AFTERNOON WEDDING.

At the Home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Scott Inglis.

Bernard E. Miller, master painter of the Lackawanna railroad, and Miss Jessie M. Inglis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Scott Inglis, were united in marriage at 1.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Rev. James McLeod, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

The wedding occurred at the home of the bride's parents, 627 Madison avenue, where the immediate relatives had gathered to witness the happy event. The couple were unattended, and the only relatives who extended a luncheon was served by Hanley.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller left on the Lackawanna limited for New York, and will visit Old Point Comfort, Richmond, Washington and Philadelphia before returning.

They will establish their home on Linden street. The groom is in charge of all the painting work on the Lackawanna railroad. His bride is an estimable young woman, with a host of friends.

Marshal Preston, W. W. Davis, Samuel York, and Lyman A. Clark, of the Scranton Master Printers' association, attended the meeting of the Wilkes-Barre association at the board of trade rooms in Wilkes-Barre, Tuesday evening.

The conference was held with a view to uniting the masters of both associations in a community of interests, and this is already assented from the preliminary steps taken.

The Scranton association has a membership of twenty-seven, and Wilkes-Barre has twenty-three. They have established a uniform rate for job work and incidentally organized for social purposes.

The members of the Wilkes-Barre association will attend the meeting of the Scranton association to be held in the A. B. hall next Monday evening, and all of them will enjoy a banquet at the St. Charles hotel on Saturday evening, March 15.

TWIN TROUBLES.

They Are Often Together These Days. They Work Have All Over the Country and in Scranton.

Weak, nervous, the digestion out of order—that is what ails too many of people. It comes about in this way: First from overwork or other causes, the nerves are burdened beyond endurance, nerve waste is not replaced, nerve force is exhausted, then the stomach loses its nerve-controlling power and indigestion follows, with falling strength. When first Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills came to Scranton people could hardly be convinced that this great medicine was real. Now it is an accepted fact because of their cure of very stubborn cases no other medicine would influence.

Mrs. J. L. Johnson, of No. 720 Main street, Scranton, Pa., says: "Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are excellent. I was so dizzy and nervous, and the stomach digested its food badly. This condition induced a feeling of debility and lassitude. Hearing of the nerve pills at Matthews Bros., 329 Lackawanna avenue, I got a box, and the result has certainly been fine. They gave the stomach strength to handle the food properly, the nervousness and dizziness disappeared completely, and my general strength and vigor returned. Consequently I am pleased and glad to recommend the medicine."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at Matthews Bros., 329 Lackawanna avenue, or at Dr. A. W. Chase's Medicine Co., Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

THEY WILL GET PLACES.

Former Opponents of John Gibbons Will Be Appointed to Committees.

It has been learned on very good authority that when President Gibbons announces his list of committees at next Monday night's meeting of the board of control, it will be found that the members of the so-called Jayve faction will have a good representation on the committees.

The men who supported Mr. Gibbons last year, when he had a fight on his hands, will be given the important chairmanships as a matter of course, but the other side will not be left completely out in the cold. Many during the year just ended. The honor of a unanimous election, which was accorded to Mr. Gibbons, has made a rearrangement of committees advisable.

McCarthy is a big, strapping athlete, weighing 193 pounds, and being six feet one inch in height. He was wanted by the Detroit club, of the American League, for this season, but preferred

And So William Foster, Charged with Larceny, Had to Go to Jail.

William Foster, the young man arrested on Tuesday for breaking into the Lackawanna Mill and Elevator company's office and warehouse, admitted his guilt, when arraigned before Magistrate Howe yesterday morning. He was committed to the county jail in default of $500 bail.

VEIN OF COAL IN DISPUTE.

An action in ejectment against the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad company was begun yesterday by Attorney Welles & Torrey, who represent Caroline L. Hoystraad, Grace Gleason, Jessie Hoystraad, Florence Rossman, Warren J. Hoystraad and Alice E. Hoystraad.

The plaintiffs allege they are the owners of a vein of coal, known as the Big Vein, which underlies one hundred acres of land located partly in Taylor borough and partly in Lackawanna township, but that the defendant company is in possession of the vein and is mining coal therefrom.

Railroad Company Sued.

Isidore and William S. Krotzky, owners of the building at 209 Lackawanna avenue, yesterday began an action in ejectment against the Lehigh Valley Railroad company, Griffin Art company and Yonezama Brothers, through Attorneys M. F. Sando and Joseph O'Brien.

Some years ago the railroad company leased the first floor of the building at 209 Lackawanna Avenue, and later were given permission to sublet it to the Griffin Art company. Subsequently there was a further subletting to Yonezama Brothers and this was objected to by the owners. The lease is forfeited, they say, by this action, and they ask the court to so declare and give them the possession of the building.

WILHELMINA'S HUSBAND.

Why the Prince Has Become Unpopular in the Netherlands.

From the Minneapolis Journal.

According to a private letter received in Minneapolis from Holland, reports of Prince Henry's unpopularity are not entirely without foundation. The stories regarding strained domestic relations with Queen Wilhelmina are credited to socialistic papers, which are not to be believed, but the fact that the prince consort is persona non grata to the Hollanders is not disguised. The letter says:

"Prince Henry has not, so far, succeeded in making himself popular in this country, neither (if rumors are to be believed) in court circles nor among the lower classes. What have more than anything else made him objectionable are his Nimrod inclinations. The royal parks of the 'Loos,' one of the summer residences of our queen, are richly stocked with deer; but King William III never hunted them—at least, not as long as I can remember—nor did anybody else during the years of the regency. The animals have, therefore, become all but tame, and great was the indignation (and openly was it expressed in leading papers) when Prince Henry shot them for his amusement—and continues to do so. I think it was this objectionable proceeding, and the fact that many papers continually made mention of the fact, which made him unpopular; for so far

TWO PRISONERS PLEAD GUILTY

COUNTERFEITER AND MAIL STEALER SENTENCED.

Fred J. Robinson, of Greenfield, Gets Two Years in the Western Penitentiary for Passing a $20 Counterfeit, and Lintford J. Smith, a Colored Boy, of Honesdale, Sent to the Reformatory for Stealing Letters from Postoffice Boxes—Trespass Suit on Trial.

Sentences were imposed yesterday by Judge W. R. Archibald in United States District court, on Fred J. Robinson, of Greenfield, for counterfeiting and Lintford J. Smith, of Honesdale, for forging the mails. Both plead guilty. Robinson was given two years in the Western penitentiary and Smith was sent to the Huntington reformatory.

Robinson is about thirty-two years of age and a farm hand. He cut the numerals from an old Confederate $20 bill, pasted them on a $1 bill and passed it for $20 on Samuel Grieco, an Italian storekeeper in Carbondale, February 14 last.

When arraigned he frankly admitted his guilt and attempted no excuse or explanations other than that he was hard up for money. Secret Service Agent M. F. Griffin told Robinson's story in court, and United States Attorney McCarroll stated that Robinson averred that he had no accomplices.

Smith is a 16-year-old colored boy and was employed at the Allen house barber shop in Honesdale, Wilkes-Barre, during the summer of 1901. He was caught by the postoffice inspectors while carrying a box of letters from the postoffice, which he had taken out of the mail. During a period of several weeks he succeeded in abstracting letters from five boxes.

TRACED TO SMITH.

Assistant Postmaster John M. Sharpstein explained to the court the manner in which the letters were traced to Smith. A complaint came from Attorney A. T. Searle that a valuable document he was expecting by mail from Harrisburg had been picked up, minus its envelope, on the street opposite the Allen house barber shop, and that the sender, Mr. Shank's box in the postoffice.

W. P. Shank, an insurance agent, complained a few days later that an insurance policy which had been mailed to him from New York, was found in the Allen house barber shop, and that the sender, Mr. Shank's box in the postoffice.

The boy was placed under arrest and when questioned confessed to having taken mail from five boxes. One letter which was abstracted from King Kimble's box contained $5. Numerous letters were taken from the Wayne County Herald's box but no money was found in any of them.

In imposing sentence, Judge Archibald limited the boy's term to two years. A true bill was returned against William Reader, a butcher of Towanda, who is accused of making, possessing and passing counterfeit five-cent pieces. He was willing to plead guilty to having counterfeited five-cent pieces, but maintained that he did not make or pass any of them and never intended to pass them. United States Attorney McCarroll refused to accept the plea, and Reader will have to stand trial on all three counts of the indictment.

A TRUE BILL.

There was a true bill also returned against R. Heber Breintale, of Lehigh, one of the seven members of the Blooming Grove Park association charged with violating the Lacey game law. Two more of the seven cases are still pending.

Ignored bills were reported in the cases in which Joseph Strate, of Pittston, and Stanley Adams, of Lehigh, were charged with counterfeiting.

Strate was arrested last December by Chief of Police Loftus, of Pittston, on suspicion of having passed thirteen counterfeit silver dollars, which were picked up among Pittston storekeepers. He admitted his guilt and alleged that the two Edwardsdale men had given them to him to circulate. He told that he was in Wilkes-Barre one night and was taken to a hall by Archibald and Mascoevitz. They gave him dollar coins and had him set 'em up on his turn and give them the change. They afterwards gave him a number of other counterfeit dollars and told him to pass them at Pittston.

Deputy United States Marshall Snyder and Chief Loftus went to Edwardsdale and searched the premises occupied by the accused men. Between the ticks of Archibald's bed were found $15.75 in halves, quarters and nickels. No counterfeit or anything tending to indicate that they made counterfeit coins was discovered. The only evidence found that even hinted at a corroboration of Strate's story was the change found in Archibald's bed. The grand jury evidently didn't believe.

PERMISSION WAY.

The case hinges on whether or not the route taken by Robinson is what is known in the law as a "permission way," that is whether or not it had become a customary path for pedestrians by reason of long sufrage on the part of the company. The defense will be that there was no pathway there and that Robinson was a trespasser.

The plaintiff told that he had used this route for many years and that it was a common pathway for persons living on Belmont street and that immediate neighborhood who came from the Delaware and Hudson trains. It was their custom, he said, to stay on the train until it was pulled up into the yard, after it had stopped at the upper station, and then cut across the yard by this alleged pathway to Belmont street, crossing the river by the "mill bridge." The company, he averred, not only permitted but invited this.

William R. Johnson, former master mechanic for the Delaware and Hudson company; Nathan B. English, a former bookman at E. Brennan, an attorney and Western brakeman, and William Mainwaring, a former laborer at the shops, were called to prove the claim that the route pursued by Robinson was a "permission way," but their witness stand was not ordered to strongly support this contention.

DR. BAILEY'S TESTIMONY.

Dr. D. L. Bailey, who attended Robinson, testified that the sensory nerves of the leg were affected, but that the nerves of motion had escaped injury.

At the conclusion of the plaintiff's presentation of evidence, today, the defendant will move for a non-suit.

The rule obtaining in all the New York state and many other courts, that an attorney shall stand when examining a witness, as well as when examining the court, also prevails in the Federal court.

Mr. Carr arose and remained standing each time he examined a witness. During the afternoon, as Mr. Carey was about to begin an examination in a sitting position, Judge Archibald suggested to him that the better way would be to stand up, except in very long cases.

Mr. Carr remarked to the court that he had stood up when examining witnesses from force of habit, as it is required in his state, and not because he wanted to appear singular or anything of that kind.

Mr. Burns was absent at this time, and when he came to examine a witness he was sitting. Judge Archibald remarked to him: "Mr. Burns, in every picture I have seen of a court, the distinguished counsel are represented in a standing position."

BIT OFF END OF HIS TONGUE

MAX ROSENBLUTH ALLEGED TO BE THE CAUSE.

He Is Made the Defendant in a Suit to Recover $10,000 Damages—Mrs. Emma A. Plummer Asks the Equity Side of the Court to Interfere and Protect What She Believes to Be Her Rights in Blakely Coal Lands—Coal Land Ejectment Suit. Appeal from Summary Conviction.

Josef Zeupnik fell into a ditch last Saturday night, through the alleged carelessness of Max Rosenbluth, and bit off the end of his tongue, knocked out seven teeth and injured his spine. Yesterday, through Attorney E. W. Thayer, he began an action to recover $10,000.

Rosenbluth is a merchant and has a store on Maple street in Old Forge. Zeupnik also lives there. For some time it is alleged, Rosenbluth had a deep ditch across the sidewalk in front of his property to drain the water which lodges on his lot. This ditch, it is charged, was not properly guarded and Saturday night Zeupnik fell into it with the result above described.

He is a young man 22 years of age, and has been speechless since he met with the accident. More than half an inch of the end of the tongue was chopped off by his teeth when he fell. He has since been speechless, and it is believed that he has permanently lost the ability to articulate.

Another Plummer Case.

Mrs. Emma A. Plummer, who lives in Blakely borough, began equity proceedings yesterday against the Hillside Coal and Iron company, Lackawanna Coal company, Limited, and the Temple Iron company. She is represented by Attorney S. B. Price.

The plaintiff asks for an injunction to restrain these companies from mining under land owned by her, their operations in the past having resulted in caves, which damaged the surface of the land, as well as a building erected thereon.

That the defendants and those claiming under them should be compelled to specifically perform the covenants and stipulations between Thomas Meredith and Samuel Callender, entered into October 1, 1828.

That an accounting be taken of all coal mined and removed from the property and that the plaintiff be ordered to account to her for all such portion of the coal mined and removed.

That if the court arrive at the conclusion that the plaintiff is only entitled to six-sevenths of the rent and six-sevenths of the purchase money still remaining due and unpaid, then a decree to be entered for such amount as the court may deem due from the defendants to the plaintiff.

This is another of the series of cases brought by Mrs. Plummer, in which she seeks to establish an interest in the coal underlying a big tract of land in Blakely borough. She began an action in the common pleas of this county for coal mined from what is known as the Deigh and Callender lots, but the court decided that the lease given by those from whom she obtained title created a severance of the coal from the surface, and that the defendant had title to the coal and an action in trespass would not lie.

An action in ejectment was then begun in the United States Circuit court, where it was decided that the lease effected a severance of the coal and land. The defendants were seized of a title under the deed and the action of ejectment had not been brought specifically to enforce the rights of the plaintiff, the Callender-Meredith contract, the judgment was for the defendants.
