

SHOULD GO TO COMMON PLEAS

OPINION IN THE MATTER OF CONNOLLY ESTATE.

Judge Vosburg Disposes of All but One Exception to the Accounting and Refers That One to the Common Pleas Court for the Purpose of Having the Facts Determined. Judge Cannot Find That the Commissions Charged by the Executors Are Excessive.

Judge A. A. Vosburg, of the Orphans' court, yesterday handed down an opinion in the matter of the estate of Ann A. Connolly, deceased, overruling all but one of the exceptions to the accountant's report, and transmitting this exception to the court of common pleas to have the facts determined.

There has been considerable litigation in this estate. Ann A. Connolly, the testatrix, died on the 28th day of June, 1898, leaving a will which was probated on January 18, 1900, in which two of her sons, L. Tyler Connolly and Joseph F. Connolly, were named as executors. Joseph F. Connolly, one of the executors, died on February 23, 1899, and after that time the surviving executor continued to attend to the duties of his trust until April 8, 1901, when he was removed by order of court. The proceeding leading to his removal was based upon the petition of some of the heirs, depositions were taken, and the order of removal was then made by Judge John P. Kelly.

The opinion filed in this proceeding states that "Although the executor filed an answer denying the charges contained in it (the petition) he has not seen fit to offer any evidence to sustain his answer and, therefore, the evidence contained in the depositions of the petitioners, and the matter is before us on the petitioners' depositions only."

The executor has filed two accounts, the first and partial account on Nov. 12, 1901, and the second and final, on Dec. 10, 1901. Exceptions were filed to each account, and by agreement of counsel all the exceptions to both accounts will be added together in this proceeding.

BOTH SIDES HEARD. Both sides have been fully heard in this proceeding, and I do not feel that the fact of the removal of the executor, under the circumstances referred to, is necessarily conclusive of the right to charge commissions.

The surviving executor has filed two accounts, the first and partial account on Nov. 12, 1901, and the second and final, on Dec. 10, 1901. Exceptions were filed to each account, and by agreement of counsel all the exceptions to both accounts will be added together in this proceeding.

Commissions are in the nature of a brokerage or allowance to a factor or agent, but a trustee may earn a commission without receiving a dollar. As to the sum to be allowed, it should also depend, to some extent, upon the amount of the estate. Circumstances may also affect the amount of commissions, for example, if the collection is made of small sums with great difficulty, or of large sums with almost no trouble at all, in the former case, five per cent may be inadequate, and in the latter case, it would be an exorbitant commutation. See 2 Brewster, Or. Court, Sec. 414. Five per cent is the general and ordinary commission of an executor who has successfully managed the estate. Gilpin's Est., 138 Pa., 122.

It appears by the evidence, that at the time of the death of the testatrix, there was a number of unpaid bills, and only twenty-five dollars in cash to meet them. There were two mortgages due the testatrix, one of $5,000, and one of $1,200. In order to meet the indebtedness of the estate, it was necessary, as well as to pay the legacies, it became necessary to realize upon these mortgages before they became due.

SALE DEFICIENT. The executor attempted to do so, but found some difficulty in effecting a sale. Auctions were offered to the security of the mortgage of $5,000, it being contended by those to whom the executor applied, that the property mortgaged was not sufficient value to secure the payment of that sum. Finally the executor secured from the Dime Deposit and Discount Bank, on their personal note, secured by an assignment of the mortgage as collateral security, a sufficient sum to meet the present needs of the estate. Both executors at first, and the surviving executor later, also transacted the other ordinary business of the estate, collected money on the mortgage of five thousand, paid the loan to the bank, paid the legacies and debts, and apparently did everything required by the law except that the account was not filed until a citation had been issued to compel an accounting.

I have carefully examined the records and evidence, and cannot discover any want of care or diligence upon the part of the accountant in the management of the estate. It is true that the executor alleges that he has paid some claims which were charged against himself, instead of the estate, and that he has paid himself an alleged debt which was not really due him from the testatrix. He has made a mistake in the payment of bills, this can be corrected by a surcharge; but this should not deprive him from any right to pay for his services, in the absence of fraud or gross mismanagement.

More negligence or carelessness will not work a forfeiture of commissions. McManis' Est., 24 W. N. C., 222.

It appears that about $10,000 was paid through the hands of the executors, and the usual commission of 5 per cent, upon this sum, would amount to $500, while the commissions charged are only $850, or 3 1/2 per cent, on the sum of $24,000.

Considering this charge for commissions as having been made for one executor, I cannot find under all the evidence in the case, that it is excessive.

The exceptions relating to the commissions charged by the accountant are therefore overruled and dismissed.

TESTIMONY INSUFFICIENT. Appreciating the difficulty under which the executor labors in procuring evidence, I have carefully considered all the testimony he was able to adduce, with a view to giving it all possible weight. I have been unable, however, to find sufficient in the testimony to warrant me in sustaining any of the other exceptions filed to either account, with the possible exception of the first exception filed to the first partial account, viz: that the "accountant fails to charge himself with $275, the amount which he owes the said estate, having borrowed the said amount just previous to the death of said Ann Connolly."

The evidence offered to sustain this exception is not strong, and it is met with evidence which seems to indicate that no such debt was due. I find from the evidence that L. Tyler Connolly did not owe his mother anything up to a period of three months before the death of Mrs. Connolly, and I will award an issue to determine the question of fact, as to whether or not a loan of $275 was made by Mrs. Ann A. Connolly to L. Tyler Connolly within three months prior to the death of Ann A. Connolly on June 28, 1898, in the following form, to wit:

"Was there a loan of money made by Mrs. Ann A. Connolly to L. Tyler Connolly, to the amount of $275, within three months prior to June 28, 1898?"

In this issue the executor, John K. Connolly, shall stand as the plaintiff, and L. Tyler Connolly as the defendant. As this issue was not specifically requested, it will not be certified to the court of common pleas for trial, unless counsel for the defendant shall file with the clerk of the court, within ten days from the filing of this report, a precept directing the said clerk to certify the said issue to said court of common pleas, and the cost of discharge, and the sum of $55, allowed for the fees of accountants' attorneys for services rendered at the audit. If the issue is certified, upon precept filed, then this court will withhold until the final determination of said issue.

of $275, within three months prior to June 28, 1898?"

This is the first time the new Orphans' court has had occasion to transmit a matter to the common pleas court.

Wants Property Divided. Mrs. Virginia Harvey, administratrix of the estate of Albert Harvey, deceased, yesterday began an action against Alfred Harvey to secure a division of a property on South Washington avenue, of which they are joint owners. Mrs. Harvey has a one-third interest in the property.

She alleges that she has asked for partition, but that Alfred Harvey has refused to consent to a division. The court is asked to direct that the property be divided and if this cannot be done equitably that it be sold and the proceeds divided. Mrs. Harvey is represented by Attorney Clarence Balestiene.

Yesterday's Marriage Licenses. James Snyder, Susquehanna county, and Emma Lee, Lackawanna county, were married yesterday at Scranton. James Littlejohn, Lackawanna county, and Emma Lee, Lackawanna county, were also married yesterday at Scranton.

COURT HOUSE NEWS NOTES. A charter was yesterday granted by the court to the Star Social club.

Thomas J. Brown, Esq., of Erie, Pa., was married yesterday at Scranton to Miss Anna Brown, to whom she was married Sept. 11, 1914. In March, 1896, Mrs. Brown says her husband deserted her without cause.

The New Trolley Road. Rails for the new Hazleton and Wilkes-Barre trolley road will be here next week, and in six weeks the grangers of Butler and Conyngham valley will be shipping their butter and eggs to the Hazleton market by trolley.

Progress on the new road is being made rapidly. The work of the Lehigh Traction company, stated that they were pushing the construction with all possible speed and expected to be handling their own material for the road in the course of a few weeks. The order for rails, fish-plates, etc., has already been placed. To the valley by trolley is now but a question of a few weeks.—Hazleton Item.

TALK ABOUT DEAFNESS.

They Point Out the Cause of Progressive Hardness of Hearing and Show Conclusively How it May be Cured.

Says a well known ear specialist: "Deafness is ninety per cent. of the cases is the direct result of closure of the eustachian tube (a little passage-way leading from the middle ear to the back part of the throat) from a catarrhal inflammation of its mucous membrane. Then follows a retraction of air in the middle ear, with consequent intrusion on the drum, and an involution of the ossicular arch, with a gradual atelectasis of the ossicular articulation, and a progressive stenosis of the eustachian tube. An editorial in The Medical Brief, a journal published by and for physicians and having the largest circulation of any strictly professional medical publication in the world, says (109-110, P. 1471): "Deafness is becoming increasingly common, and the frequent failure of local treatment makes it necessary that we look for systemic conditions which may play a part in the continuance of the trouble. At least three-fourths of the cases of deafness are due to catarrhal disease involving the eustachian tube. Simply cleansing diseased mucous surfaces, inflating the middle ear, injecting medicaments, etc., will make no permanent impression so long as constitutional conditions remain unchanged. Persistent medication with careful attention to hygiene may yield an amelioration of the trouble, and as deafness is a very great affliction, hampering the individual in a business way and snuffing out much enjoyment, even a slight improvement is well worth working for." Stuart's Catarrh Tablets constitute the best, most reliable and economical internal or constitutional remedy for catarrh anywhere about the body, acting as they do through the blood they

Messrs. Morris, Bert and Harry Bennett, of Scranton; Walter Bennett and Will Edgett, of Carbondale, and Frank Bennett, of Clinton.
