Superior Court, in Harrisburg Yesterday, Affirms Judge Edwards' Findings in the Abington and Factoryville Turnpike Case—Judge Kelly Sustained in the Cases of Reynolds and Edgar Against Callender—Judge Vosburg's First Reviewed Opinion Concurred In.

Factoryville and Abington turnpike is to be a free road. The opinion of Judge Edwards sustaining the report of the viewers, recommending its condemnation, was yesterday affirmed by the Superior court at Harrisburg. The road extends from the terminal of the Providence and Abington or Northern Boulevard company's road, at the little white church in Clark's Green, to the village of Factoryville. It is nine miles long, and passes through South Abington, Glenburn, Dalton, La-Plume and Factoryville. It was built in 1864 by a company which had as its president, George Palmer, of Glenburn, father of Hon. H. W. Palmer, of Wilkes-Barre. Henry Northup is the present president of the company. The capitalization of the company is $9,000.

REPORT OF VIEWERS. Viewers were appointed to take testimony and report on the advisability of condemning the road, and also what damages they reported in favor of freeing the road, and fixed $8,500 as a fair remuneration to the company. The Northern Boulevard company, which had essayed to buy the mile-and-a-half stretch of road from Clark's Green to Clark's Summit, as an extension to its boulevard, also fought the condemnation of the road, but a boulevard company's road is not subject to condemnation, once it is dedicated as a boulevard. Judge Edwards decided that while this might all be true, the mile-and-a-half stretch in question cannot be considered as a boulevard, and the Northern Boulevard company exceeded its charter rights when it assumed to buy it. The company was chartered to construct and maintain a boulevard between Providence corners and Clark's Summit, and it could not, without having its charter amended, even accept as a gift any road or piece of road other than that which would extend between these termini. It was too late to amend the charter in time to forestall the condemnation, and the stretch coveted by the boulevard company goes free with the other seven and one-half miles.

SUITS AGAINST CALLENDER. The Superior court also handed down opinions affirming the findings of Judge Kelly in the cases of G. F. Reynolds and Mark K. Edgar against S. N. Callender, and the finding of Judge Vosburg in the matter of the appeal of Silas Hartley in the Ezekiel Gumaer estate.

DEATH WAS ACCIDENTAL. Verdict of the Coroner's Jury on the Death of George Blaine. A verdict of accidental death was reported last night, by the jury empanelled at the coroner's inquest into the death of George Blaine, the teamster who fell from his wagon and had his skull fractured, at the corner of Madison avenue and Ash street Thursday afternoon. The jury was composed of John DeCarmey, James Maloney, William Corcoran, William Callahan, John F. Liebig and Joseph Ruddy.

AN APPEAL TAKEN. The costs in the trespass case of the executive committee of the Street Car Men's Union against Dr. H. E. Lutz having been relaxed an appeal was yesterday taken from the award of the arbitrators.

JUDGE KELLY'S DECISION. Judge Kelly decided that the contract was enforceable specifically, and that the attempt of the defendant to vary the terms of the contract by alleging fraud or misrepresentation could not succeed when only supported, as it was, by a general allegation.

QUESTIONS AT ISSUE. Whether or not the condition of the will was a charge on the land after it passed to Hartley, and whether or not

Mrs. Gumaer was really in need, were the questions Judge Vosburg was called upon to decide. He decided that the will created a charge on each of the three parcels of land, which the subsequent sales did not obliterate, and directed that Hartley pay the balance, or one-third of the interest unpaid by Fred Gumaer to his mother, and also a sufficient sum to reduce the one-third of the principal to $500, it being the opinion of the court that she was not in need of the whole $2,500.

WHO WOULDN'T BE A JUDGE

DELIGHTFUL EXPERIENCE OF JUDGE FERRIS. Was Talked to for Twenty-seven Solid Hours This Week at Wilkes-Barre in the Case of the Myers Heirs Against the Consumers' Coal Company—During That Period Nearly 175,000 Words Were Hurlled at Him—Attorney Zeisler Broke All Local Records.

Attorney Sigmund Zeisler, of Chicago, broke all previous records for long distance talking in Wilkes-Barre this week and gave ample demonstration of the fact that the citizens of the Windy City carry some of its characteristics around with them. Attorney Zeisler is associated with Attorney Harry Fuller, of Wilkes-Barre, as attorney for the heirs of Oscar Myers and others who have an equity suit against the Consumers' Coal company, which has been up for a hearing before Judge Ferris.

It is alleged that the Consumers' company has not taken all of the marketable coal from a tract of land leased from the Myers heirs and they want to compel the company to continue its mining operations. In Chicago Mr. Zeisler is rated as one of the leaders of the Cook county bar, and was one of the attorneys who defended the anarchists who participated in the Haymarket riots. The testimony in the Myers equity case was heard some time ago, and Monday morning when court opened Attorney Zeisler began his argument. He talked all day Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, and at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon had reached the last proposition of his argument. Judge Ferris told him it was quite unnecessary to argue that as the court agreed with him with reference to it.

ORPHANS' COURT MATTERS. Judge A. A. Vosburg presided at a session of orphans' court yesterday. Argument on the exceptions filed to the auditor's report in the estate of Ambrose Malley, deceased, was continued until March 21. A hearing in the estate of W. W. Smith, deceased, was continued until March 22, at 9 a. m.

On motion of T. J. Duggan, court appointed Mary O'Brien guardian of Ann O'Brien. On motion of Attorney Frank M. Lynch, Michael Bosak was appointed guardian of Annie Mackanos, Mark Mackanos, Barbara Mackanos, Michael Mackanos and Veronica Mackanos, minor children of John Mackanos, deceased, of Olyphant.
