TUNKHANNOCK.

Special to the Scranton Tribune. Tunkhannock, April 6.-Miss Etta Luckenbill left on Friday for Kingston, Pa., where she has accepted a position.

The Monday club will meet at the home of Mrs. E. N. Stone, on West Tioga street, this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Prof. Frank J. Herman, of the Mehoopany schools, was calling on friends here on Saturday. Prof. Herman will be a candidate for county superintendent before the school convention in May.

Attorney Walter L. Hill, of Scranton, was looking after some legal matters here on Saturday. George W. Stanton, a well-known farmer of Nicholson township, was in town on business on Saturday. Dr. George M. Kinner and wife, of Mehoopany, were among those in attendance at the public installation of the officers of the Knights Templar on Friday evening. Owing to losses in business, the firm of M. S. Kinthner & Son, engaged in the milling business at Mehoopany, have been forced to make an assignment for the benefit of their creditors. The ferry which is being placed in

Mrs. Yeamans is the best fon maker of the show. Devoy sings very well and acts quite naturally. The other members of the company fill their several parts very acceptably. There are two rather elaborate stage settings and some ingenious mechanical effects. A prairie fire in the second act is a novel bit of realism

Are You a Mason?

The Lyceum theater tonight will be goven over to laughter, "Are You a Mason?" a farce adapted from the German by L. M. Ditrichstein, will be presented by the company that scored such a success in this comedy in New York and Chicago. The triumph of Mr. Ditrichstein's comedy was so great that it was decided by Charles Frohman to present the farce at his Shaftesbury theater, London.

The company is one of unusual excellence This statement is fully carried out by the fact that the cast is the one that crowded to the doors nightly at Wallack's and the Garciek theaters, New York, and Power's theater, Chicago. In ad-dition to the author, Mr. Ditrichstein, the company includes John C. Rice, Thomas A. Wise leorge Richards, Charles Halton, Charles J. Greene, Charles Edwards, Gertrude Whitty, Esther Tittell, Grace Hadsel, Hazel Chapple, Amy Muller, Sally Cohen and Maude Travers. Seat now on sale.
