A Well-Known Citizen. has a young son whom he wanted to have instructed in piano, by CONSERVATORY methods. He sent him to us. Here is his letter. "Dear Sir: Last September my son entered the Conservatory as a beginner. He has taken the regular class work and to my delight has made rapid progress, and it has not interfered with his school work at all. That he should be able to play all his exercises and pieces in any key is a wonder to me. It is my intention to have him go on with this training. Yours truly, "Geo. W. Brown." Letters of this sort are numerous. J. Alfred Pennington, Director.

NILAND-STUART. St. Paul's church, Green Ridge, was yesterday afternoon the scene of the marriage of Miss Myrtle Stuart, daughter of Peter K. Stuart, of Hammondport, N. Y., to Peter F. Niland, assistant manager for the Pennsylvania Telephone company in this city.

PETER D. NILAND, officiating, executed on violins by Miss Margaret Ferguson and Aloysius Grever, and on the organ by Miss Catherine Niland. The ceremony that united the young couple was performed by Rev. P. J. McManus, pastor of St. Paul's church.

Miss Mary Niland was the bride's maid of honor, and Attorney Frank J. McAndrews attended the groom. The ushers were Frank Kennedy and Thomas Kennedy. The bride and maid of honor were gowned in ecru tailor-made suits, with hats to match. The bride carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. She presented a charming appearance as she stepped from the altar as a wife.

The marriage was witnessed by a large number of friends of the bride and groom, who occupied seats along the center aisle. Carriages conveyed the wedding party from the church to the beautiful new home of Mr. and Mrs. Niland, at 1754 Sanderson avenue. Here a reception was held in the elegantly furnished parlors, at which were present members of both families and the personal friends of the principals. An excellent wedding repast was served by Caterer William Hanley.

Mr. Niland is one of the most thoroughly experienced young men connected with the telephone business of the city. He is earnest and conscientious, capable and courteous; his transcendent tact and innate love of truth having gained for him myriads of earnest friends among patrons of the telephone. His bride is a young lady of sweet disposition, possessing the natural graces which adorn the ideal woman, and is a worthy wife of a worthy husband.

Mrs. John T. Richards gave the most beautiful afternoon reception of the year yesterday at her elegant new home on South Main avenue. Very few day-time functions have been marked with such elaboration of detail. The decorations, arranged by Marvin & Muir, were handsome to a degree. The reception room is a superb apartment, hung in pale green damask of the Louis Seize period, and furnished in the same colors. The white pillars, separating it from other rooms, were wreathed in asparagus ferns and pink roses.

The dining room looked as if it had been prepared for a bridal supper, with its adornments of white and green. The center-piece was of tulips and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Richards was assisted in receiving by her mother, Mrs. Chase, and Mrs. E. E. Chase. Mrs. Richards wore black lace. Mrs. Chase also wore black lace. Mrs. E. E. Chase's gown was white crepe and lace. About the rooms were Mrs. H. V. Logan, Mrs. H. M. Edwards, Mrs. James Merrill, Mrs. T. G. Wolf, Miss Ethna Chase, Mrs. W. W. Patterson, of Philadelphia, Miss Richards, Mrs. J. L. Wentz. At the table were Mrs. E. B. Jermyn and Mrs. James P. Dickson. Mrs. George M. Hallstead served frappe. Six pretty girls in white assisted in the dining room. They were: Misses Grace Thayer, Eleanor Doud, Anna Edwards, Ella Chase, Edith Richards and Cora Davis. Mrs. Huntington catered.
