AMBITION WINS.

That Is the Spirit Which Fills Some of the Contestants Already Entered.

There is no question but that The Tribune's Educational Contests appeal to the young people. Although more than a fortnight must elapse before the date set for the formal opening of this year's contest, yet already a number of young ladies and gentlemen have grasped the fact that it is an opporunity of a lifetime and have applied to have their names enrolled on the list of entries, so that they may start in without loss of a single day when the proper time arrives. As one young man

"Please send me agent's outfit, book of instructions and a few subscription blanks. I want to post up on the work and be ready to 'pitch in' when the contest opens."

That is the spirit that animates many of the young people. Ambition, coupled with energy, or the wish to "pitch in," is bound to win in the race, and there is no time like the present to read up on the contest and be prepared to start to work bright and early the first morn-

Weyburn, acted as toastmaster, and in a brief speech outlined the purposes of the organization, which was intended, he said, to encourage more friendly relations between the Baptist churches of the city and to bring the Baptists into a closer touch with the cital questions having a direct bearng upon their church. On account of the fact that the closing session of the conference immediately followed the banquet, the toasts assigned to the everal speakers were responded to briefly.

Rev. Albert Hatcher Smith, paster of the North Main Avenue Baptist church, developed the thought that the social side of church life needs to be emphasized more than it is, less Christians ecome warped and one-sided.

Rev. Dr. J. L. Campbell, pastor of the Lexington Avenue Baptist church, of New York city, delivered a wonderfully crisp and trenchant response to the toast, "Baptist Polity." declaration that he is "a Scotchman by descent, a Canadian by birth, a Baptist by conviction and an American by choice," evoked loud and long applause.

Strong Foundation.

The great thing about the Baptist church, he said, is that its church government has a strong and sure founda-Matters of differences arising within its fold are kept confined within the smallest possible area and are not allowed to spread and become the talk of the world. The world is now witessing, he said, one church going through the process of revising its creed another debating whether or ot lay delegates should be admitted to its highest court, and still another worrying about the question of ritual
