City Notes.

TENTH ANNIVERSARY.—The tenth anniversary of the conversion of William Bryan will be held at the Rescue mission tonight. After the services refreshments will be served. Everybody is invited.

SPRAINED HIS ANKLE.—Mounted Officer Charles Perry sprained his ankle on Saturday night while alighting from a street car on Adams avenue. He will be obliged to report sick for several days.

BOARD OF TRADE.—The regular monthly meeting of the Scranton board of trade will be held today at 12 noon. A brief paper will be read giving a history of the work of the board of trade since its organization.

AGED MAN INJURED.—Edward Rosello, aged 80 years, an inmate of the Hillside Home, fell and broke his leg Saturday. He was taken to the Lackawanna hospital. On account of his years the injury is serious.

PETERSBURG FIRE.—Damage to the extent of $300 was done by a fire in the residence of Louis Fisher, on Taylor avenue, Petersburg, Saturday morning. It originated from a furnace in the basement. The Relief Engine company extinguished it.

DISORDERLY HOUSE RAIDED.—A disorderly house on Oakland court kept by Lottie Smith was raided on Saturday night by the police. The proprietress and another woman together with three men were arrested. All were fined in police court yesterday morning.

STAGE NOTES.

Tom Sharkey, the pugilist, is preparing to be a melodramatic entertainer.

Mrs. Langtry, who played Sydney Grand in "The Duplicators" in London during the week, has a deal is said to be by which Charles Dalton will be seen in "If I Were King" in Australia next season.

Zella Frank has left the vaudeville ranks and signed a two years' contract with the Henry W. Savage Opera company.

Elizabeth Tyree is to head her own company next season in a play written for her by Grace L. Furness, called "Gretchen Green."

Amelia Bingham has decided to branch out in the theatrical business next season and will direct the destinies of five companies, two of which will play "The Climbers," two "A Modern Magdalen," and one "Lily Margaret."

Frank McKee, Mary Manning's manager, is said to have secured three new plays for his star. He is also having one written for her by Clyde Fitch, which will be produced in New York next fall. Upon the success or failure of Mr. Fitch's play, depends the chances of the other pieces being presented.

Mrs. Fiske is to return to New York in five weeks, when she will revive "Yess of the D.U.R. Revolvers," in which Frederick De Belleville will be seen as Alroy; and "Duplicators," with Mr. De Belleville in his original role of DesFroncles. Mrs. Fiske will also appear in her own one-act tragedy, "A Light from St. Agnes," and may also possibly do Ibsen's "A Doll's House."

IS IN NEW YORK.

Whereabouts of Missing John Cleary Are Revealed.

Mrs. John Cleary, of Crown avenue, has received a letter from her husband, announcing that he is in New York city, but giving no explanation for his sudden departure from this city. He complained to his wife last Tuesday that he had been requested to join the United Mine Workers by the members of the local attached to the Pine Brook colliery, at which he was employed. He had no money to pay his initiation fee or dues, he said, and he was fearful that if he tried to work he might raise trouble. He left the house on Tuesday night and nothing was heard of him until Saturday, when his wife received the letter above mentioned. It was feared at first that it was his body that was discovered near Old Forge.

ATTRACTIONS TODAY.

TODAY'S ATTRACTIONS.

ACADEMY—"The Convict's Daughter." Night. STALL—"Dainty Duchess Burlesques." Afternoon and night.

"Devil's Auction."

Charles H. Yale's "Everlasting Devil's Auction" company, which comes to the Lyceum Wednesday night, will be presented with everything entirely new; costumes, scenery, cast and ballet. In fact, Mr. Yale has made so many changes in this, the twentieth edition of this phenomenal attraction, that the many thousands who have witnessed this spectacle in years past will find it hard to recognize the "Devil's Auction" only in name.

Mr. Yale has always been foremost in this particular line of attraction and feels that by giving the public a new show each year, retaining the old title, they have more confidence than they would in going to see a show with a new name that would probably not please them half so well.

"The Convict's Daughter."

The powerful melodrama, "The Convict's Daughter," will be presented at the Academy of Music the first three nights of this week, with matinee Tuesday and Wednesday. This play is considered to be a master piece. It has been said that the perfection of art is the concealment of art. This may apply to "The Convict's Daughter" with consummate skill.

The author has woven his story, and presented the scenes that they are living for the time amidst the incidents so graphically portrayed. The play shows and plays upon the sympathies of the audience as no dramatic composition has ever done before, full of deep human interest, it presents a story never to be forgotten.

"The Outpost."

"The Outpost," a sensational comedy drama, in which Hurler & Seaman are starring. J. K. (Fritz) Emmet and Lottie Gilson, "The Little Magnet," will be seen at the Academy of Music the last three days of the week. It deals with the life of the Boers of South Africa and affords these popular stars ample opportunity to display their talent. Mr. Emmet as Fritz Von Neiland, whose home was on the Veldt, some miles from Kimberley, joined the Boer forces and his knowledge of the country as a civil engineer made him a valuable acquisition to their forces and a dangerous one to the British.

They (the British) were naturally anxious to capture this gallant young Boer officer and many are the thrilling situations. His quick wit more than once saved him from capture.

Dainty Duchess Burlesques.

The Dainty Duchess Burlesques, one of the largest aggregations of vaudeville talent billed to appear here this season, will be seen for three days at the Star, beginning with matinee this afternoon. Besides a long list of the best artists in the profession, this company will consist of the most gorgeous and costliest burlesques ever witnessed, entitled, "Ping Pong," a satire on the now fashionable craze. Magnificent new costumes, bright and catchy music, grand and elaborate scenery, and dazzling electrical effects. These combined with a congress of beautiful ladies, headed by the queen of burlesque, Miss Phyllis Buffell, make this one of the finest productions of the season.

The olio is headed by Paul Barnes and company, who will produce a one-act comedy entitled, "Wanted, An Aunt," which is a screen from start to finish; the mysterious De Bire and company, the famous illusionist and magician, who is pronounced by the press and public to be the best of his kind; Ching Ling Foo, or Lafayette, who has been secured at an enormous expense by the management of the Dainty Duchess Burlesques, for this engagement only; Williams and Allen in a comedy sketch, "Mr. Dabbs of Dabbs Ferry"; Howard and Burke, in a swell singing and talking act; the Electric Clark sisters, pretty singers and sensational dancers; Cleary and Russell, Irish comedians, and Zella Clayton, the winsome sobrette.

Russians Attacked by Bandits.

Pekin, April 20.—A post on the outskirts of Newchang garrisoned by forty Russians, has been attacked by bandits. One Russian officer and four privates were killed.

MEN OF THE HOUR.

Dr. John Wentz continues a sweeping winner at the horse shows with his beautiful pair, Lord Brilliant and Lord Golden. On Saturday, when the Boston horse show came to an end and the winners of the big prizes were announced, it was found that the Scranton man, as usual, took first honors in every contest in which either or both of his horses could be entered.

That P. W. Costello would make a good city controller, his political opponents did not deny in the recent campaign. Though he has been only three weeks in office, he has demonstrated that he proposes to make changes in the conduct of the affairs of his office. Provision for the payment of a number of old delinquent bills created several years ago is made in the appropriation ordinance recently passed by council, and warrants for them were sent down to the controller's office the other day for his signature. An examination of some of the bills resulted in the discovery that they had not been approved by the auditing committee. Controller Costello refused to sign them. It was pointed out to him that the bills were several years old and that as provision had been made for them in the appropriation ordinance, they should be paid without delay.

"The auditing committee will have to approve them, delay or no delay," he is reported to have said. "No bill without the approval of the head of the department and of the auditing committee will ever receive the touch of my pen."

And so the new auditing committee will have to get the bills signed by the officials who authorized their creation, and will have to pass them formally before the warrants will be ready for payment. Controller Costello devotes nearly the entire day to his work in the municipal building, despite his outside business interests, and he is as busy himself over the books as the hardest-worked clerk in the building. He is an accountant of no mean ability and his service as county auditor has brought him much experience in this line.

PASTOR FOR THIRTY YEARS

ANNIVERSARY OF REV. R. S. JONES CELEBRATED.

He Has Been in Charge of the Providence Welsh Congregational Church Since April 21, 1872, and His Congregation Commemorated the Event Yesterday with Special Services, Which Are to Be Continued Today. Something About the Work Which Dr. Jones Has Accomplished.

Seldom does it fall to the lot of one clergyman to minister unto the spiritual needs of one church for thirty years. Rev. Dr. R. S. Jones, pastor of the Providence Welsh Congregational church passed the thirtieth milestone yesterday and gives every promise of being able to continue for many years in active service for the Master.

A commemoration of this happy event special services were conducted yesterday in honor of Dr. Jones in the old church on West Market street. There were services in the morning and afternoon and at night. All were conducted in the Welsh language and the extremely large attendance for this year a splendid testimonial of the high esteem and great respect in which Dr. Jones is held not only by his own parishioners but also by the members of other churches and by people of Welsh blood all over the city.

A handsome picture of the clergyman hung behind the altar and above it below it appeared the dates "1872" and "1902." The pulpit itself was banked with flowers and massive palms.

Henry Jenkins presided at the morning session which was devoted entirely to the singing of hymns of praise and to the reading of the scriptures. The name of each member of the congregation was called, he or she responded by repeating a verse from the bible. The members present who were members thirty years ago when Dr. Jones took charge of the church, arose in their places while answering to their names.

In the afternoon a special service was conducted for those members who have spent thirty years of their life under Dr. Jones' guidance. Henry Jenkins again presided and addresses were made by several fine old men. Among these were Thomas Eymon, John D. Evans, Dan. V. Evans, Evan Gabriel and John J. Morgan. Mr. B. I. Evans, of West Scranton, also spoke. The addresses were entirely of an informal nature and consisted largely of recollections of the early days of the church.

THE EVENING SESSION.

The evening session was largely attended and was presided over by Evan Gabriel one of the deacons. Thomas R. Williams, John J. Morgan, John L. Evans, some of the best speakers delivered addresses and D. D. Lewis, of Olyphant, led the devotional exercises. He also delivered a short address giving a brief history of Dr. Jones' career as a pastor. William Simms, Mrs. D. D. Lewis and Mrs. Arthur Hobbs, rendered several solos.

Miss Lizzie J. Williams, superintendent of the Dutch Gap mission school in behalf of the mission, while Miss Hannah Williams, superintendent of the Sunday school spoke in behalf of her school. The session was closed with an editorial address by Dr. Jones in which he expressed his hearty thanks for the honors showered upon him and congratulated the congregation upon the work done for the Master during his long pastorate.

Rev. Dr. R. S. Jones comes of fine Welsh ancestry. He was born in Carmarthen, one of the counties of Wales. He was educated in boyhood in the common schools of his district. He was prepared for college at New Castle and was graduated from the Brecon Congregational college in 1868. Shortly afterwards he was ordained to the ministry and had several charges until 1871, when he came to this country, going first to Middle Granville, N. Y., for a few months as supply.

From there he came to this city in response to a call he had received from the Providence Welsh Congregational church and began his ministry on April 21, 1872. The church had a membership of 128 at that time and was in a fairly flourishing condition. Within the course of a few years the church building was enlarged to twice its original size, all debts were cleared up and a lecture room seating 200 persons was added to the church property.

The membership had kept gradually increasing until some thirteen years ago, the Puritan English Congregational church was formed from the older church and was given a splendid start by the congregation of the latter. A mission Sunday school at Dutch Gap has been established and the support of the churches and a great work is being accomplished through its agency.

One of the characteristic features of the church is that its membership has been recruited solely and entirely from among the Welsh. Not a single man of means has ever been connected with it in any way and yet the church has done more than the average church every year in the way of raising funds for missionary works. The Christian Endeavor society has become imbued with the missionary spirit also and has undertaken the support of a native missionary in the Madure district in India.

The present church building is in rather a bad state of repair having been in use for so many years but the congregation has purchased a lot on the corner of Williams street and Wayne avenue and as soon as the plans for the work of erecting a new church building on it will be begun. The church has a membership of about 260 at the present time.

Those who were members of the church thirty years ago and who are still alive are as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas R. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. John D. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Price, Mr. and Mrs. Evan Gabriel, Mrs. David Christmas, Mrs. W. B. Jones, Mrs. Sarah Richards, Mrs. Mrs. David Jones, Mrs. J. D. Evans, Mr. W. L. Williams, Mrs. Seth Griffiths, Mrs. Jane A. Williams, Mrs. Lewis Harris, Mrs. W. A. Williams and Mrs. William Isaac Jones.

OFFICERS THIRTY YEARS.

The officers of the church thirty years ago were as follows:

The present officers of the church are: Deacons, Henry Jenkins, Luther Edwards, Evan Gabriel, John Lody, Thomas R. Williams, Daniel Price, John Grier, Thomas J. Evans, Richard E. Jones, and Henry H. Hitchcock; trustees, Mrs. Evan Gabriel, Mrs. Henry R. Williams, Mr. Thomas R. Williams, Mrs. Richard Thomas, Mrs. Daniel Price, Mrs. R. S. Jones, Mrs. David Jones, Mrs. William Richards, Mrs. John E. Lewis and Mrs. Seth Griffiths; trustees, Daniel Price, Thomas R. Williams, Evan Gabriel, Luther Edwards, Henry H. Hitchcock, John Hobbs, Thomas J. Evans, Robert R. Williams and Thomas E. Thomas.

Rev. Dr. Jones, the recipient of yesterday's honors, is a remarkably well preserved man, who though over 60 years old, has all the vigor and vitality of a man twenty years younger. It requires something more than an ability to preach to enable a pastor to hold the pastoral reins of a church for over a quarter of a century and Dr. Jones possesses in an ordinary degree those characteristics which are a man to his fellow-men in bonds of friendship and love. Stern to rebuke the defiant sinner he is kind and gentle with the contrite wanderer from the paths of righteousness. His beautiful Christian life has been a shining example to the community in which he has lived and which has received so much benefit from his teaching and influence.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon there will be a service for the clergymen from outside the city who may desire to attend. This will be presided over by John Grier. The clergymen of Welsh connection from the churches of all denominations in this city will participate in a service to be conducted tonight at 7 o'clock.

George W. Bowen, the well-known writer of music, composed a poem in commemoration of Dr. Jones' anniversary, which he read at the morning session. It was as follows:

O! man of God—scholar profound, And sermon of sacred skill, For thirty years thy words resound On boy Zion's temple hill.

The world, in living marble told Of deeds wrought on the battlefields; And regal fame their praises swell, And to the dead her trophies yield.

The noble deeds that thou hast wrought, Along grim life's sequestered road; The holy lessons thou hast taught, Are guided in the Book of God.

That Book tells not of heroes grand, Who nobly fell in worldly strife, But of the lowly ones who saved, From Death—to God—to Heavenly Life.

Oft, in the little church, I've heard The trumpet speak words of fire, And songs, like summer zephyrs stirred, Resound from David's tuneful lyre.

And, oh! how sweet the music swells Athwart the deep sounds of my soul— The magic music sweetly quells My sin-thoughts, as they upward roll.

With thee I've wandered far apart, Where Hebron, Nebo frowning stand And heard thy voice, with trembling heart, Bespeak the glories of the land.

And then—to hapless Calvary— I've seen my suffering Savior tread; And spik'd upon the cursed tree; And laughing soldiers spurn Him dead.

And thus the retrospective gleam Before my eyes, with burning glow, And every nerve that quivers there, Recalls thee—thirty years ago.

May Heaven spare you, Reverend Sir, To meet for thirty years again; And may your earnest deeply stir The hearts and souls of sinful men.

RELIGIOUS NEWS NOTES.

The semi-annual convention of the Northeastern Pennsylvania Lutheran League will take place at St. John's Lutheran church, Wilkes-Barre, tomorrow. At the evening session, Rev. E. F. Bitter, of this city, will deliver an address on "Education."

Services in commemoration of the Passover will be held in the Linden Street temple at 6 o'clock this evening and 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, by Rev. A. S. Auspacher.

The Young Men's Christian association was held yesterday afternoon at 3.45. George G. Mahy, general secretary of the Young Men's Christian association, was the speaker. The male quartette of the city sang.

Human Hands

BIBLE SHOULD BE EXAMINED WITH RIPE WISDOM.

Views of Rev. Thomas B. Payne as Set Forth Last Night in All Souls' Universalist Church, Where He Preached a Sermon on "A Common Sense View of the Bible"—No Claim to the Infallibility of the Bible Can Be Maintained—Third Sermon in Course.

Last evening, Rev. Thomas B. Payne, pastor of All Souls' Universalist church, gave the third sermon of his present series on "What Universalists Believe," taking for his theme "A Common Sense View of the Bible."

Mr. Payne began by quoting from Washington's Gladden's "Who Wrote the Bible?" where he says, "Some good people seem to imagine the Bible must have originated in a manner purely miraculous; and, though they know very little about its origin, they conceive of it as a book which was written in heaven in the English tongue, divided there into chapters and verses, with headlines and reference marks, printed in small pipe, bound in calf, and sent down to earth by angels in its present form."

The Bible, of course, was produced in no such way. Human hands alone wrote it, printed it, bound it. Like everything else made by the same hands, we should examine it with the ripest wisdom we possess, the largest experience we can command, if we would determine its real value.

Among the many matters of instruction advanced concerning the Bible, the following salient points were emphasized:

1. The Bible is not one book, but a collection of sixty-six different books; written by a great many different men, through widely-separated intervals of time.

2. It does not claim to be infallible, and no such claim can be successfully maintained for it; but certain of its books are absolutely trustworthy as moral and religious instructors.

3. Its moral and religious instruction is not all of equal value. Certain of the old Testament books teach the law of retaliation and vengeance. To make them of equal value with Jesus' law of love and non-resistance is to confuse all moral distinctions.

4. There are a great many errors in these books, as why should there not be when we remember their authors? They were not written to teach geology or astronomy.

5. They are the history of a race, struggling morally and religiously upward and upward. In these books, therefore, God speaks to men as he has spoken in the history of no other people.

6. Just as my common sense tells me certain of the Old Testament books had never been left out of this collection called the Bible, so it tells me that certain others of these books record the sayings and lives of men who were certainly inspired by the Spirit of the living God. Not every one of these books is a revelation from God; but others of them are unmistakably revelations from God.

7. The wise man in this or any other instance will throw away good wheat simply because he finds it in the midst of worthless chaff. In these sixty-six books will be found the loftiest moral and religious teaching ever given to the world. Every man ought, therefore, to search the Scriptures for that message. The man who finds it and lives by it will be a nobler and diviner man than he who tries to live without it.

ANCIENT MAN IN ARGENTINA.

The Discoveries of Dr. Moreno in South American Graves.

From the New York Sun.

Less attention on the whole has been paid to the study of prehistoric races in South America than in other parts of the world. A partial exception is made by Dr. Francisco P. Moreno, the distinguished geographer and anthropologist of Argentina, who for years has been studying relics of the ancient inhabitants, throws some curious light upon the early history of man in that region.

The facts he has collected show that man has existed from a very remote period in South America and that inter-continental and even inter-oceanic communications were maintained in prehistoric times. Geological studies have also shown that the conditions in prehistoric Argentina offered unlimited hunting grounds, arable lands and homes to vanished races of men.

In 1873 Dr. Moreno was struck by a number of human types which he found in the graves of the old Indian encampments in the valley of the Rio Negro, Patagonia. It seemed to him that here was a general burial place of many American races during their forced migrations to the extreme south of the American continent. Later, in the Argentine territory further north, he discovered some of the races that were represented in these graves. He has proved that even in this remote region a type such as Columbus found in the West Indies, traveled clear to the southern part of South America, where they lived and died. Another remarkable discovery has been made with regard to some of the prehistoric peoples.

There was undoubtedly a connection between the South Americans and people of Polynesian origin. This is explainable only on the theory that a land connection existed in some previous age between what is now the island world and South America. In the graves of the Rio Negro there are human remains that cannot be referred to any living race of South America, but only to those of Polynesia. Some of the skulls from the Rio Negro are of the Papuan type. Maori stone implements have been discovered at Cuzco, in Peru, and at Estero del Estero in Argentina. Carved wooden clubs entirely similar to those of the Marquesas islands have been brought from the ruins of Truxillo in Peru and from Quillota in Chile; others have been discovered in Colombia, Ecuador and other places in Peru.

The remains of men who lived before the continent acquired its present relief and contour have been found. Proof has been obtained that a later race appeared at the end of glacial epoch and that the earlier people were pushed to the south, where today their descendants are found, among whom is an extraordinary variety of types never observed in any other country of the world. It has been proved that man lived in caves with extinct animals as he lived in European caves, and that Polynesian is mixed with Patagonian elements. Dr. Moreno's paper shows that the study of South American anthropology is very important and in-
