THE MAYOR'S NOMINEES FOR BOARD OF HEATH

Dr. John A. Kelly, John P. Collins, George W. Norris and Patrick G. McDonough Are Named, but Their Confirmation Put Over One Week. Other Doings of Select Council.

Mayor O'Neill's choice of members for the board of health, whose announcement was preceded by a good deal of speculative interest, was made known last night, when he sent the following names into select council for confirmation:

Dr. John A. Kelly, one year; to succeed Dr. A. F. Gillis, resigned. George W. Norris, four years; to succeed A. C. Tiffany, term expired. John P. Collins, five years; to succeed Alex Wyllie, term expired. Patrick G. McDonough, four years; to succeed E. H. W. Burke, moved from district. Interest centered in these appointments, as it will be remembered that during Mayor Kilpatrick's term, select council persistently refused to confirm the names he sent in. The appointments of last night were not confirmed, as was expected in some quarters. When they were read, Mr Mannion moved that they be referred to the judiciary and legislation committee, with instructions to report at the next meeting of council. Dr. Fletcher was the seconder, the motion prevailing. The names were accordingly given to committee, with instructions for a report, two weeks hence.

The element that worked to the dela in confirmation was the secretaryship of the board. This is a position which is being somewhat eagerly sought for, and which indicates some interesting developments. The postponement of confirmation last night was an adroit move on the part of the supporters of one of the candidates, who seems to wield the greatest influence.

The session of council was a brief one, though all the matters disposed of were quite important.

The summarized report of the annual statement of the city controller will be made public this year. The common council resolution directing that the report be published was reported on favorably, with the amendment that the report be summarized. The committee's recommendation was adopted. The ordinance providing for the annual tax levy of ten mills, with a poll tax of one dollar was received and was passed on two readings. The bonds of City Treasurer Connor for $50,000, and City Controller Evans. were presented by the city solicitor with his approval, and were accepted by council.

BUTTONS CAUSE TROUBLE.

Disorder on Two Trolley Cars Be cause Car Men Are Minus Them.

The first disturbances on or about the street car lines in this vicinity since the recent strike, were committed on Saturday evening and on Sunday evening. when the union buttons worn by the street car men, or rather the absence of the buttons, caused a good-sized mix-up on two occasions.

The first trouble was at Mayfield yard, when several passengers took rades. notice of the absence of the buttons on the motorman by refusing to pay their fares. One of the passengers, when the conductor remonstrated with him, picked up a broom and began to assault the motorman. There was a livedily skirmish for a few minutes. On Sunday evening, a crowd of passengers began to annoy a non-union crew, after leaving Carbondale, by pulling the trolley from under the cabl the meantime, some one got hold of the register rope and rang up sixty-five or more fares before the conductor stopped Along the line the crowd continued its annoyances, ringing the small bell every few feet. The disturbance A delayed the car for about an hour.

SOLDIER'S HONORS FOR ALVAH W. DALEY

Impressive Burial Rites of a Well Known Carbondale Citizen-Laid at Rest Amid Many Tributes of Respect-Grand Army Post Pres-

The late Alvah W. Daley was laid at rest yesterday. He was taken to his final sleeping place in Maplewood cemetery with all the honors of a soldier and amid all the tributes of respect that a good citizen and a kind, helpful neighbor can claim when his friends and acquaintances gather to take their farewell of him. The funeral took place at 2.30 in the afternoon, from the residence on Washington street, and while the outpouring of friends was exceedingly large the most conspicuous feature of the obsequies was the large number of army bluecoats and caps, worn by the members of William H. Davies' post, Grand Army of the Republic, the comrades in arms of Mr. Daley, and his brothers of the post room for nearly twenty years. All the respect that the old soldiers could show for their departed comrade and their late quartermaster was indicated in their manner and their speech at the obsequies. At the grave in Maplewood, the army men, led by their commander, Colonel John McComb, made the final showing of honor to the departed soldier, by observing the ritual of the Grand Army as the deceased was laid beside the sleeping dead.

Services at the house were conducted by Rev. Charles E. Lee, pastor of the First Presbyterian church. The casket was draped with the American flag, the symbol which attested the patriotic loythe national colors lay the floral emblems that came from dear friends, his comrades and the Women's Relief corps, William H. Davies' post.

After the Scriptural reading, Rev. Mr.

Lee delivered the eulogy, taking for his text the passage from Samuel, wherein Jonathan and David are expressing the regret that will be felt by the absence of one from the feast. The absence of Mr. Daley from among his dally scenes-his family, his Grand Army post-was likened to the missing of one of these Damon and Pythian-like companions from the feast. The deceased would be missed as a pillar of the home, which was marred now by the vacant places of mother and father: he would be missed from the places that cheered each day his presence, and he would be sorely missed from the ranks of the Grand Army post, where the gap could not be filled. But the comforting consolations of religion were the blessings of the mourning ones, Rev. Mr. Lee pointed out, and he urged his listeners to avail themselves of what was offered and be sustained when the final summons come.

There was a quartette present, H. F. Clarke, Will Clarke, J. Russell Shepherd and George Simpkins. Two selections were sung, "Abide with Me" and 'Some Day We'll Understand."

When the casket was being borne to the hearse by six of the post soldiers the veterans ranged in line uncovered during the short procession. The delegation from Davies' post was perhaps the largest present at any of the recent funerals of post members, as Mr. Daley had been an officer for several years, and was uniformly liked by his com-

COL.M'COMB'S EULOGY.

His Beautiful Tribute to Alvah W. Daley Vigorously Expressed at the Post Meeting.

At Davies' post headquarters yesterday afternoon, before the veterans started in a body to conduct the funeral services over the remains of the late quartermaster, Alvah W. Daley, Commander John McComb delivered the following practical and sensible eulogium. There is a vein of strong, vigorous sympathy through it all, which commends it to the attention of every reader, and at the same time illustrates mew the ability of Colonel McComb to express thought in terse language.

Comrades: We are not in special session this afternoon for the purpose of doing honor to the memory of our late associate, A. W. Daley.

On the mining of Sunday, April 13, 1902, while the church bells were chiming their invitations to the Sabbath-observing people of our city to join in simultaneous worship, our quartermaster was stricken by an unseen messenger of the great Ruler of us all. By a hemorrhage of the brain he was instantly paralyzed, and from that time until Friday noon, April 18, his continuance of life was one of impress on our minds, and we feel keenly mow frail a thing life is. At our last post meeting which was held Wednesday evening, April v. Quartermaster Daley was on duty with us in apparent good health. In less than four days his sentin were obliterated forever.

His passing from among us has left a de-

A. W. Daley was a member of Company F. Thirtieth Pennsylvania militia, and he saw active service during the trying emergency when Lee's agmy invaded the north and fought the sanguinary battle of Gettiysburg.

sangulary battle of Getttysburg.

When the Army of the Potomac was grappling with the Army of Northern Virginia during the first week of July, 1863, and the destiny of this nation was being decided by apppalling carnage. our cormade participated in the dangers and bardships of active soldier life enough to make him eligible to membership in our noble order. He was mustered into the ranks of Davies post August 24, 1883. During a period of nine-teen years he has been an active worker in our oody, and on many occasions he has represented its comrades at the department encampments. Since January, 1806, he has served the pos-as its quarternaster. Seven consecutive unsini-mens elections to a responsible office have testi-fied the appreciation of his comrades of his in-tegrity and faithfulness, and there is no doubt that repeated elections would have followed had is life been prolonged.

But his earthly work is ended and his Grand ter and hearty applause, rmy of the Republic record stands without a worth. We have found him genial, massuming, reliable and faithful, and we feel that his taking off is a loss to the pest which can only in a small measure be mitigated.

We shall remember him for his willingness ! serve his comrades, and for his stannel lovally to the principles which have held together for thirty-six years the survivors of the men who gent enough to estimate the qualities of the men who served their country at the front during the four years of our mighty conflict which deluged four years of our mighty conflict which dealers the land with blood and made mourners in every home. He made no personal claim for provess or rash during, but he recognized the fact that the men who marched and fought and died by tolence or slow starvation, or who bear scars o this day, reflect glory on the whole vast army if loyal men who dedicated their lives to the preservation of the Union.

He knew that a soldier's duty was to obeyorders, and that if some did not get on the firing line there was work for them to do else where. He performed his duty us it was as signed to him, and when the emergency for which he cultsted had subsided and the state to leased him from further service he returned to eaccful pursuits. Our comrade was a good citizen, and he born his share of sustaining the burden of faxation by which the majesty of law is maintained, order preserved, children educated, the poor provided for, and public improvements extended. He was satisfied to live a simple democratic life, care for his family and dwell in harmony with his As we consign our associate to the earth today # we shall think of him with a pleasant recollection of past social intercourse, and with a cheerful hope that the Supreme Commander will assign his soul to a place of sternal felicity. THE CANDY STORE CASES

The Proceedings Under the Sunday Closing Reform of Last Winter Quashed by the Court Yesterday on Technical Defects of the Record. The test case of the prosecutions of nerchants for violating the city ordinance by selling candy on Sunday, was decided against the city yesterday. The case was disposed of in argument ourt on a rule to quash proceeding. The court, after hearing the arguments concurred in the judgment of Attorney Frank M. Monaghan, of this city, who had been retained as counsel by the the proceedings. The disposition of the case was quite a legal victory for Mr. Monaghan, the circumstance of the court arriving at ts decision without any hesitation, after hearing his argument, added somewhat to the result.

The case disposed of was the one against John Blactus, of the New York candy store, on South Main street. On muary 19 he was arrested on a warrant sworn out by Chief of Police Mc-Andrew, during the time when the crusade was on against the candy merchants of the town for disposing of their goods on Sunday. There was a protest on the part of the merchants when arrested, and it was agreed when the cases were tried before Alderman Atkinson to have one of them tested before the court.

It was this case that came up in cour esterday. Mr. Monaghan advanced several reasons why the proceedings were quashed, alleging, among other things, that the city ordinance, under which the prosecutions were carried on was unconstitutional. It was hoped that the court would go into this question and decide whether or not this ordinance, which is claimed by some attorneys to be in open conflict with the onstitution, is defective or not. court, however, found sufficient cause in the first two reasons advanced by which the proceedings might be invalldated. These were that the proceeding was not brought under the corporate name of the city of Carbondale, but in the name of the chief of police. This would have made it a commonwealth ase instead of an action by the city of Carbondale. The other reason was that the evidence was insufficient. At the hearing the city ordinance, which it was claimed was violated, was not offered in evidence, the case being disposed of on the assumption that there was such an ordinance. It was on these echnicalities that the record was declared defective and the proceedings quashed.

The other cases, the Gardella, Gubert, etc., hinged on this case,

JERMYN AND MAYFIELD.

The foot ball game played in Fower's park Saturday afternoon, between the Jermyn Rovers and the Simpson Wanderers was the most exciting game played here for the sea-Neither side had scored until Just before the expiration of the second half, when the Jermyn boys obtained a goal. The ball, however, was just going through the goal posts as the whistle sounded, and the visitors objected to Jermyn receiving credit for it. After a wordy war for several minutes, the locals relinquished their claim, and it was decided to play another half an hour. In the first half, Jermyn succeeded in winning a goal. The Wanderers, although they tried desperately, were unable to offset this, and the Rovers were therefore the winners by I goal to 0. Time of game,

PHILIPPINE VEGETABLES.

Samples of potatoes and tomatoes have been received by Commissioner Worcester, secretary of the interior, rom the provincial treasurer of Bataan and Mr. Chase of Singalon, respectively, which they had planted and cultivated under their own supervision, and which have been found to be equal to any grown in the states. The potatoes are arge and mealy and the tomatoes are skinned and juicy. These samples, showing what the soil can produce, are welcome at this juncture, on account of the recent receipt by the secretary of the interior of ten trees each of pears, peaches, apricots and plumbs, and a large quantity of garden seed, from California, for experimenting with in these islands. Four each of these trees have been planted in Batangas, two in Manila, and four in Benguet. A large quantity of the seed has been distributed for experimenting and all responsibe applicants have been able to secure some of this seed on the condition that they report in order to acquaint the department of the interior and the agricultural bureau as to what fruits and vegetables thrive best, and in what soil. These experiments will also be carried out by the bureau of agriculture at special experimental stations, and from the specimens of potatoes and tomatoes received it may be safely hoped that other vegetables and fruit will grow equally well in these islands. This being so there is opened up a large field for practical market gardeners, and residents of these islands should no longer have to put by with potatoes like rocks, and all other vege-tables from the can. "hese experiments will be watched with considerable interest, not by the planters along but by the general public. A plan is also under consideration for establishment plantations in Negros where seeds of and varieties of fruits and vegetables will be experimented
