FEAST OF THE PASSOVER. Ushered in Last Evening with Special Services in Synagogues. The eight-day Feast of the Passover of the Jewish church calendar began last evening, and was ushered in with sun-down services at the different synagogues. At the Linden Street temple, an eloquent sermon, appropriate to the feast, was preached by the rabbi, Rev. M. Auspacher. There will be a special service at the temple at 10 o'clock this morning.

Orthodox Jews observe the first two days of the feast as holidays, and during the whole period refrain from eating leavened bread, substituting therefore the Passover bread, or matzes, prepared without leaven. It is the custom also in strictly orthodox families to have home service on the first evening of the Passover, the whole household assembling for prayer and meditation, and the head of the household reading the Scriptural account of the event commemorated.

BIG FESTIVAL OF SONG.

Leading German Societies of the Two Valleys Participate.

A big festival of song was given last night at Music hall, under the auspices of the Junger Maennerchor, the far-famed musical organization of South Scranton, German singers from all parts of the city, and societies from Wilkes-Barre and Carbondale participated.

The programme was a varied and interesting one. The Junger Maennerchor opened the singing with two numbers, "Es Haben Zwei Blumlem Gebrucht" and "Grusst sie veil Tausendmal," by Schrader and Chevaller respectively. The Wilkes-Barre Lied-ertafel rendered the Kern "Scheidegruss" and the Barchert "Meine Mutter Sprache." The Carbondale Ger-mania sang "Grusse an die Heimat"; the Sweitzer Maennerchor, composed exclusively of Swiss singers of Scranton, sang Heim's "Im Fruhling"; the Scranton Liederkranz was heard in "Ausgewahlt," and the Abelter Fortbildungs Verein rendered "Wunsch," by W. Witt. The concluding chorus was "My Old Kentucky Home," by the Junger Maennerchor.

There were also solos by Miss Lydia F. Sailer, soprano, and Gustave Reppert, tenor, and selections by Bauer's

It was a most delightful evening of song and the large audience evinced deep gratitude to the Junger Maennerchor for so rare a treat.

The festival was under the direction of a committee consisting of Alfred Gutheinz, John Stoeber, August Schimpff, John Kempher and Fred Hermann.

The president of the Junger Maennerchor is City Treasurer E. J. Robinson. William Zeismer is vice president, and the trustees are Otto J. Robinson, Peter Zang and Gus Schimpff.

THEY WANTED A BONUS.

Twentieth Ward Property Owners Wanted to Get Good Compensation from the City.

The plans for the construction of a part of the sewer system which is to be constructed in the Twentieth ward prothe sewer through private property for a distance of several hundred feet.

Councils, realizing that damages might e claimed, recently passed a resolution public works and the city solicitor to ance provided. neet with the owners of property affected and endeavor to secure an amicable adjustment without recourse to the appointment of viewers. It was thought at the time of the passage of this resolution that the fifteen or more property owners affected would be content to waive all damage claims, providing the city agreed not to assess them anything for the cost of constructing the sewer. If this idea lingered in the minds of either Recorder Connell, Director of Public Works Roche or City Solicitor Watson, it was eradicated very shortly after the opening of a conference yes-cials mentioned and the property own The first man called upon to state what he thought he should receive was a little bashful about making any estimate until someone else said something. Then the man next to him said he wanted his sewer assessment free and bonus of $400. This gave the first man ourage, and he said he'd take $200 and his sewer assessment free. Everybody called upon wanted their sewer assessment free and all the way from $150 to Recorder Connell finally announced hat he and the other city officers will visit the properties affected, in the near future, and look over the ground peronally before arriving at any definite

APPEALS IN LOCAL CASE

WAY THE HIGHER COURTS DEALT WITH THEM.

Superior Court at Pittsburg Decides That the City Has No Power to Pass the Ordinance Establishing Rates for the Scranton Gas and Water Company-George W. Jenkins Allowed Compensation by the Supreme Court at the Rate of $5,000 Per Annum.

Decisions in important local cases were handed down yesterday by the state appellate courts. The Superior court, sitting in Pittsburg, affirmed the finding of the local court that the Scranton Gas and Water company, and not the city councils, has authority to fix the water rates. The Supreme court, sitting in Philadelphia, reversed the finding of the local court as to the compensation to be allowed George W. Jenkins, as delinquent tax collector, fixing it at $1,250 for the three months covered by the period for which Mr. Jenkins brought suit, instead of $72.50, which was allowed him by the local court on a commission basis. Other decisions were as follows:

Moore against Everitt; common pleas, Monro county. Judgment affirmed.

The Schroeder case was brought to test the validity of an ordinance passed by councils fixing the water rates. Mr Schroeder received a bill for water rent. He tendered payment at the rates fixed by the city ordinance. The company vide for the running of one branch of refused to accept the tender and threatened to shut off the water supply from Mr. Schroeder's premises. Mr. Schroe der went into equity court to prevent this, alleging that the company could directing the recorder, the director of not charge more than the city ordin-

MR. BURNS' CONTENTION.

I. H. Burns, Mr. Schroeder's attor ney, argued that there was nothing in the company's charter giving it the right to fix the rates and that such right rested with the city under the "general welfare" clause of its delegated powers. The company replied that the legislature had fixed a definite man ner of revising rates charged by a water company, which is to have each individual complaining customer go into court to secure a revision, and that this and no other way was legal of revising company's rates.

Judge Edwards, in an opinion for the ocal court coincided with the company's contention, and the superior court now coincides with Judge Edwards. Major Everett Warren and Congressman O. E. Olmstead, of Harrisburg, represented the company. The Jenkins' delinquent tax collector case went into the courts in the form of a case-stated. April 1, 1901, George W. Jenkins was act. der shall appoint a delinquent tax collector. It also contained a provision that "councils may by ordinance provide that the city treasurer may be appointed collector of delinquent taxes. The "chaser" to the second class city act, made the office of city treasurer appointive instead of elective. The second class city act fixed the compensation of the collector at $5,000 per annum, but provided that councils might reduce this to not less than $2,500 per annum. The re-organization ordinance signed board for the Second Anthracite dis- by Recorder Moir, April 2, the day after tificates. The examinations are being the city treasurer should be made delinguent tax collector and fixed his compensation at three-fifths of five per cent, of money collected on real estate and ten per cent, on all other taxes, for the election of mine inspectors, Recorder Moir did not appoint the city treasurer collector as was provided by the ordinance he should do.

TERMS OF THE CASE.

Mr. Jenkins brought suit for three months' salary at the rate of $5,000 per annum. In the case-stated it was agreed that the court should say, first, S. Jones, 1123 Hampton street; W. H. whether or not Jenkins was legally appointed delinquent tax collector, and second, whether he should be compensated at the rate of $5,000 per annum, or by the commission fixed by ordinance, which by calculation was found to be $72.50. The local court decided that Mr. Jenkins was legal y appointed collector, but D. Evans, Rendham; Llewellyn M. declined to go outside the facts in the case-stated and say what would be the effect of the recorder appointing the lector, as was done by Recorder Connell, in July, while the case was pending. As to the compensation to Mr. Jenkins was entitled, the court said that it believed there was no room for argument, but that it should be according to the percentage rate fixed by councils. The Supreme court agrees with the local court in the finding that Three stores on South Washington | lector in April, May and June, but finds Mr. Jenkins was the delinquent tax colthat he was entitled to compensation at the rate of $5,000 a year, as provided by the statute, councils having failed to exercise its prerogative of reducing it to "not less than $2,500."

The case is far from being finally settled. Mr. Jenkins will likely sue for the remainder of the $5,000, and insist upon being recognized as the delinquent tax collector, despite the fact that the recorder in July last, in obedience to the reorganization ordinance, appointed the city treasurer as delinquent tax collector. The question now at issue, however, is a simple one. It is as to whether or not the appointment of the city treasurer acted as a removal of Mr.

Jenkins. Vosburg & Dawson and later ex Judge Carpenter represented Mr. Jenkins. City Solicitor Watson and H. C.

Reynolds represented the city. TRIPP ESTATE APPEALS.

In the matter of the Tripp estate there were two appeals. The late Ira Tripp provided in his will that the income of his estate should be paid to the two grand-children, or their survivors, share and share alike, neither of them to receive more than one-half thereof. Walter Tripp and Catherine Broadbent were the two grand-children. Walter died, leaving as his heir his daughter Rosane Tripp. Rosane's guardian, the Luckawanna Trust and Safe Deposit company, asked that one-half the estate should be given the great-grandchild, or else an allowance. The trustees of Ira Tripp estate opposed this on the ground that Catherine was entitled to the whole of the income during her lifetime. Judge Vosburg decided that the child of Walter was seized of a one-half interest in the estate, but possession was suspended until after the death of Catherine Broadbent, the surviving grand-child, and that the great-grandchild, Rosane, having "an estate in prospect," was entitled to draw upon it for maintenance. The judge fixed Rosane's allowance at $100 per month Both parties appealed, the greatgrand-child wanting to secure her father's half of the estate, and the trustees desiring to defeat the allowance In the appeal of the Lackawanna Trust and Safe Deposit company, the decree is vacated and set aside, and in the appeal of the Tripp trustees, the decree is reversed. This means, according to the opinion of the interested attorneys, that the great-grandchild, Rosane Tripp, can immediately come into possession of one-half of the Tripp estate.

NETTLETON-CARYL CASE.

The Nettleton-Caryl case is one be tween F. E. Nettleton and J. D. Caryl. Mr. Nettleton sold land to Mr. Caryl on contract. By a mistake of his attorney, so he alleged, the agreement failed to make any provision for interest. When the last payment was to be made, Mr. Caryl demanded a recelpt in full on tendering the balance of the principle.

Mr. Nettleton demanded the balance of principal and interest. The local ourt was convinced that the agreement contemplated the allowance of interest and reformed the contract accordingly. The superior court concludes that the evidence was not sufficient to warrant the court in inserting the usual interest clause.

ORDINANCE IS ILLEGAL.

Hence Bids for Paving Portion of Washburn Street Were All Rejected Yesterday.

City Solicitor Watson's declaration that the ordinance providing for the laying of a brick pavement on Washburn street, between Sumner and Van Buren avenues, is illegal, resulted in the rejection yesterday afternoon of the three bids received for the work.

The solicitor declared that the system of assessment provided for by the ordinance is unwarranted by law. The April 1, 1991, George W. Jenkins was appointed by ex-Recorder James Moir as collector of delinquent taxes under of built-up and agricultural property, as collector of delinquent taxes under the provisions of the second class city the provisions of the second class city this is not permissible under the law, the solicitor said. When there are different classes of property on a thoroughfare which is to be paved, he declared, the suburban and agricultural property must be assessed according to received, and by no other method.

Another reason which contributed to the rejection of the bids is that the ordinance provides for the laying of curb of a specific size and kind to take the place of curb already provided for by ordinance, laid and paid for by the abutting property owners. The latter contend that this curb is in good condition and that they should not be charged for putting down new curb. The bids received were all rejected by Recorder Connell and Director of Publie Works Roche, but nothing has been decided as to future plans. It is believed, however, that a new ordinance will be prepared by the city solicitor and introduced in councils at an early The bids received yesterday were as follows:

M. H. Dale-Pave under car tracks, $2.25 per square yard; from curb to car track, $1.06 per square yard; keeping in repair for five years, 2 cents per square yard; straight curb, 85 cents per lineal foot; circular curb, 81.40 per lineal

COYNE WOULDN'T COMPROMISE.

P. J. Philbin failed to appear yesterday before Alderman Kasson to prosecute the charge of embezzlement, which he brought against Tax Collector John J. Coyne, of Minooka. Mr. Coyne was present and insistent upon a hearing, but at the urgent request of the prosecutor's attorney, Hon, John P. Quinnan, the case was continued until Saturday.

Mr. Quinnan took the responsibility to offer to withdraw the charge if the defendant would agree to make an accounting according to a form proposed by the prosecution. Mr. Coyne refused o consider the offer, saying that he had honestly made an accounting according to the form which his counsel had advised him was the legal one, and he proposed to stand by it.

At all events, he said, maximum penalty for the specific offense with which he is charged is a fine of $100, and he would diminish his stock of government bonds to that extent rather than gratify the prosecution by a compro

REV. DR. R. S. JONES PRESENT-ED WITH A CHAIR.

Surrounded by the Members of the Flock He Has Served for Thirty Years He Was So Deeply Moved That He Could Scarcely Speak. Thomas R. Williams, Who Made the Presentation Speech, Couldn't Restrain Himself from Kissing the Worthy Doctor.

In the plain and unpretentious little Providence Welsh Congregational church there was witnessed, last night. a scene which must have deeply impressed the few outsiders who were present, and which gave ample evidence, if evidence was needed, of the deep love and affection in which the congregation of that church holds Rev. Dr. R. S. Jones, the pastor.

Last night brought to an end the celebration of the thirtleth anniversary of Dr. Jones' pastorate and the crowning event was the formal presentation of gifts to both him and his faithful wife. The gift purchased by the congregation for the doctor was a magnificent leather upholstered rocking chair, which occupied a prominent place on the centre of the platform behind the pulpit.

THE PRESENTATION.

The church was crowded to the doors with members of the congregation and many were obliged to stand in the ves-When Thomas R. Williams, white haired, nearly 80, and a member of the church for over thirty years, arose to make the presentation speech. there were whisperings in the pews of -"It's the chair, now. He's going to give him the chair,"-and on every face there was a happy smile as if everybody felt delighted to think that he or she had helped buy that chair which represented in concrete form the love and devotion of them all.

Mr. Williams was happy, too, and a broad smile illumined his face as he set the chair rocking and then stood back in admiration to look at it. He made an address in Welsh, in which he said that no gift could possibly be rich or rare enough to properly compensate Dr. Jones for his long years of faithful toil in the service of Him whose love urpasseth all understanding

He made a formal presentation of the gift and then walked over to where Dr. Jones sat and escorted him over to the chair and sat him down in it. Then the old man's enthusiasm and happiness bubbled over and he impulsively leaned forward and kissed Dr. Jones on each cheek. Then it was that the doctor's self-reserve left him. He took Mr. Williams' hands in his for a moment and shook them heartly as the tears streamed down his cheeks. sat for a minute in his new chair as on a throne and his look betrayed that he was prouder than many a one who rules by "royal right divine," because he had the satisfaction of knowing that he ruled not over vast domains, but in the hearts of his people.

Then Mrs. Jones was called to the platform and was presented with a beautiful clock by Mrs. Sarah Richards. 'The doctor's faithful wife was crying softly as she murmured her thanks, and so was nearly everyone in the congregation. It was altogether a scene of singular impressiveness.

The night session was presided over by Rev. Theophilus Davis, of Plains, and one of the most interesting features, aside from the presentation, was a brief address by Thomas Myrddin Jones, of Orange, N. J., a son of Dr. Jones, who paid a beautiful tribute to his father's Christian character, and to the home-life with which he was surrounded when he was young, and which has always had such a marked influence on his life. D. D. Evans, of West Scranton, a local Welsh bard of note, read a presentation poem written in the Welsh language, and brief addresses were made by Thomas Evans, of Jermyn; Rev. Ivor Thomas, of Taylor; Rev. Ian Davis, pastor of the West Market Street Welsh Baptist church, and Rev David Jones, pastor of the Welsh Con gregational church, of West Scranton A session conducted in the afternoon and presided over by John Grier was attended by a number of Welsh clergymen from outside the city. Rev. T. R Watkins delivered an address of welcome to the visitors and a response was made by Rev. T. Davis of Miners' Mills. Aneurian Jones, of New York city Mrs. George W. Powell, of Dorranceton, and Dantel J. Evans and Henry P. Williams, of this city, all read poems especially written for the occasion, singing the praises of Dr. Jones' long ministry.
