QUARANTINE RAISED FROM CLIFF HOME

Bert Hull, the Smallpox Patient at Waymart, Able to Be About—The Fear of More Cases Removed.

The quarantine about the home of Louis Cliff at Waymart has been removed. Bert Hull, the only victim of smallpox in that village, has wholly recovered and is able to be about again. Miss Davis, the trained nurse, who so faithfully attended Hull, was discharged from the case on Saturday, when the quarantine was raised, and he returned to his home on the West Side in this city. In connection with Miss Davis' faithfulness and devotion in nursing this patient, it should be mentioned that not only the Cliff family, but the entire village of Waymart heartily appreciated the factor which has been in Hull's recovery and in keeping down the disease in the afflicted household. The Tribune has been requested by Waymart residents to make this acknowledgment of Miss Davis' heroic work.

No other case but Hull's developed, a fact that is due in a large measure to the immediate steps taken by Dr. Corser, of Waymart, and the outside physicians called into the case, in establishing and maintaining a rigorous quarantine so soon as the disease was suspected that Hull's affliction was smallpox. All danger is now believed to be passed, and affairs are again taking their normal course in Waymart after an annoying, but necessarily unavoidable, interruption of several weeks.

SOLD HIS INTEREST.

Mr. Munn's Tribute to His Retiring Partner, A. R. Jones.

In the review of Saturday is the following kind of farewell of C. R. Munn to his retiring partner, A. R. Jones, who purposes going to Trenton, N. J., as advertising manager of the True American. Mr. Munn says: "A. R. Jones, who acquired a half-interest in The Review nearly two years ago and who has successfully conducted the business department since that time, has sold his interest to the senior partner and will shortly after the first of the month go to Trenton, N. J., to assume charge of the advertising department of the True American, one of the oldest, most substantial and influential newspapers in the state.

"Mr. Jones has had an experience of eleven years in this branch of newspaper work, and while for 101 years the advertising department of the True American has been remarkably large, without any efforts being made in that direction, it is fair to presume that he will soon effect a notable increase in the business.

"The True American is a morning daily of Democratic persuasion. It owns a plant worth a quarter of a million dollars and represents the bone and sinew of the social structure, which is to say, the great mass of voters which constitutes the foundation of this republic.

"Just as soon as he can make suitable arrangements, Mr. Jones will have his family settle in Jersey's capital. While many friends will rejoice at his good fortune in grappling with a larger field, they will feel the loss which the community sustains in this change, and in local business circles, where Mr. Jones has been prominent for so many years, he will be sorely missed. He has been in the time engaged in business for himself. Mr. Jones had served on the liveliest papers in the county. He was right-hand man on the Herald in its palmy days. From there he went to the old established Leader and built up a big advertising business. His efforts attracted the attention of Hon. J. A. Scranton, who secured his services for the Scranton Republican, which paper is still profiting by valuable contracts he made.

"We join with those who wish him a bountiful measure of success.

Former Carbondalian's Sickness. Word was received in this city yesterday by T. V. Walker and P. A. Walker that their brother, who is in New York city, was sick and that his condition was critical.

Mr. Walker is a former Carbondalian and was at one time the plumbing business on Salem avenue. He has been a master plumber in New York city since his removal there.

Dangerously Sick with Diphtheria. Wehlan Shields, son of Dr. M. J. Shields, is in a dangerous condition from diphtheria of the violent type. Yesterday he was resting easily. He retains the tube which it was found necessary to insert in his throat to relieve his labored breathing. So long as does not cough so as to disturb the tube, there is a hopeful view to take of his condition, but there is danger of a disturbance which will cause an ejection of the tube. All the care that can be given is bestowed on the patient by those about him, who are greatly concerned over his condition. The earnest wishes of the community are that the patient will rally from his dangerous condition to health.

A THRILLING EXPERIENCE

Engineer Michael Murphy, of the O. and W. Has the Cab Torn from Over Him—Had to Cling to the Throttle.

Michael Murphy, of Cottage street, an engineer on the Ontario and Western, met with an experience early Saturday morning which seldom comes into the life of a railroad man. In fact, his experience was quite unique in some of its details.

Murphy was coming out of Hancock with his train, and in passing a switch he encountered the end of a freight car. The force of the collision tipped off the engineer's side of the cab as if it were a paste-board box. The effect of the happening swept through Murphy's mind so quickly that he had to act like a species of chain-lightning, acting on impulses, when he felt his seat being torn from under him, he grasped a tight hold of the throttle and clung to it until he was able to get a footing on the side of the engine. With some difficulty he brought the engine to a standstill and took time to view the damage that had been done.

When the tipping of the cab commenced, Murphy was struck and squeezed some, though not dangerously. After a brief delay, the trip was resumed, Murphy continuing at his post by squeezing close to the throttle and riding the rest of the run to Mayfield yard with no cab to shield him. The happening was due to the freight car on the switch not being run in far enough. With the ordinary engine, the passage could be made safely, but the big hog engines, one of which was at the head of this trip, are considerably wider and cannot squeeze through narrow places. To the neglect or oversight in leaving the freight car so close to the end of the switch, the accident is charged.

Engineer Murphy seems none the worse for his experience, though he was thrilled with fear while the cab was being ripped off. By railroad men, who can appreciate the danger of such a situation as his, his escape from being torn or squeezed to death is almost providential.

A NEW WRINKLE.

Belmont Resident Rings in a Fire Alarm to Send a Special Delivery Letter—Mitchell Company Responds.

In the words of Chuck Comors, "it's a shame to break the news." We blush as we hear Honesdale chuckle. But it's a fact, a Carbondale man yesterday morning caused a fire alarm in his endeavor to mail a special delivery letter. It was what you might call special means for a special purpose. And it wasn't so bad after all, for it gives the Belmont section the credit for the best joke of the year.

Whether or not the man was calling a mail carrier when he "opened the box, pulled the hook once and let go," according to the card of instruction, he did not say, but he sent the alarm in all right, sending a thrill through the firemen, hustling them to the hose and bucket and causing many a person to pull out his Tribune fire alarm card to locate the box. Incidentally, he made the Mitchell company members feel a trifle warmer than the weather by bringing them out on such a fool errand.

The happening is too much of a joke to explain; in fact it can't be explained. But so far as the man who turned in the alarm is concerned, it was no joke; he was the most serious man in Carbondale when he did his little turn. He had a letter to post, a special delivery letter. He found one borrowed a fire alarm key. He opened the box, pulled the hook—but he didn't mail the letter. Instead, he caused all the commotion mentioned before. He thought he was going to mail the letter; he was sure of it. In doing this, he showed a becoming sense of the seriousness of things. Special methods for special missions, hence the special mail box and the special fire alarm. We know Honesdale will smile, and we're smiling ourselves. It's something that's worth a smile.

We might try to explain how the mistake was made, but that would be spoiling a good thing. And maybe we couldn't explain to our own satisfaction. We'll let well enough alone, and smile with the rest of the world at what is perhaps the limit in ringing the changes on the uses of the fire alarm box.

The alarm came in about 2 o'clock, from box 14, corner Oak and Belmont. The Mitchell's responded, and though a little choleric at first, they were well repaid when they learned of the serious joke of the mistaken man who is a boarder in one of the houses in that vicinity. It's likely he'll be buying cigars for the next month.

To Lift Church Mortgage.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock there will

SMOTHER A COUGH.

You can smother a cough with your hand but you can't cure it that way. Some medicines only smother coughs.

Scott's Emulsion cures them. Old coughs and deep-rooted coughs can't be cured until the inflammation which causes them has been replaced by healthy tissue.

That is exactly the kind of thorough work Scott's Emulsion does. It changes the entire nature of the throat and lungs so that there is nothing to cough about.

be a full settlement of all the church matters in lifting the mortgage, etc., of St. Paul's Lutheran church. Both parties will meet in the office of Judge Edwards in the court house, at Scranton, at this time. The church council met yesterday and made the necessary arrangements.

THOMAS BARRETT IMPROVING.

Son of Select Councilman Thomas Barrett Will Recover.

Thomas Barrett, jr., son of Select Councilman Thomas Barrett, who was operated on Friday, while in a desperate condition from appendicitis, had made a remarkable rally and is now out of danger. Last evening it was given out at Dr. Wheeler's hospital, where he is a patient, that his pulse, temperature and respiration was each normal.

This favorable indications, while good for the patient, and the hospital staff, and even the most sanguine expectations were surpassed in the developments in the young man's case. Barrett, when he came to the hospital, was in a condition in which the chances of his getting well were almost none, even in the event of an operation. The operation was seized upon as the one chance of snatching him from death, and it was a lucky one, as developments have proven.

THE DAY AT SCRANTON.

A Sad, and Not Even Glorious, Day for the Crescents.

During the Spanish war we used to read in the press dispatches that usually when Uncle Sam walloped the life out of the Spaniards it was a "sad, but glorious day for Spain."

Well, the Scranton league team walloped the life out of the Crescents in a game on Saturday, but it was not a glorious day for Carbondale. What glory there was, was to be found in the pitching of Billy Smith, who hereafter will be the idol of Carbondale base ball enthusiasts. He raised himself to this by his really remarkable pitching against the big men of the Scranton team. Some of the Scranton base ball writers would make out that it was due to Smith's erratic work at times that the Scranton hitters could not get a line on him and that thirteen of them were struck out by him. They point out that he gave nine men base on balls during five innings. The truth is that had Empire Southard been more correct on his strike judgment, not half this number would have walked. Several times Smith had two strikes on a batter, when Southard called the third strike a ball, simply because it didn't fairly cut the ball.

It was the opinion of numerous fair-minded Scrantonians that Smith made a remarkable showing against the Scranton team, and they were likewise outspoken in their adverse opinions of Southard's poor judgment of strikes pitched by Smith.

As to the rest of the game—well, the Crescents have themselves to blame. They made no preparation for the game, to speak of, all of the players on the team not having come together at any one time here this season. This exhibition game should have been arranged for to take place at the end of the season, when the Crescents would have been in trim after having trimmed Honesdale et al. It was the greatest case of stage fright, from lack of practice, that we have seen in Carbondale.

WILLIAM SNYDER'S DEATH.

Well Known Belmont Resident Victim of Mine Accident.

William Snyder, a miner in the employ of the Black Diamond Coal company, died at his home on Belmont street, Saturday forenoon, from injuries sustained by being caught under a fall of rock.

The accident happened about 8:30 Saturday morning. When Snyder was at work, a mass of rock, after considerable trouble, was found that his back had been broken. He died at his home two hours later.

Mr. Snyder was a native of Carbondale, where he was born forty-nine years ago. He lived here all his life. He was a member of the First Presbyterian church, and was conspicuous in the doings of several fraternal societies. He was well known and highly respected. His wife and his mother are his only survivors.

The funeral will take place from the residence on Tuesday afternoon. Burial will be in Maplewood cemetery.

THE BASE BALL FEVER.

Teams Organized by Manufacturing Employees—A Game and a Challenge.

The base ball fever has reached the industrial establishments of the town and a team can be found at almost every manufacturing plant in the city. Two of these teams met on the diamond at Sandy's field Saturday afternoon and knocked the sphere and chased it with enthusiastic excitement for a couple of hours.

The opposing teams were the Robbin works men and the Carbondale Machine company. The latter were supporter and gave the other lads their "bobbin." The score was 10-8. The batteries were Warren and Robinson, Machine company; Bates and Wilson, Robbin works.

The employees of the Carbondale Metal Working company have the base ball fever, and have organized a team that they say can knock the Van Bergen foundry into smithereens. Manager John Early, seconded by Captain Edward Cox, hereby issues a "den" to the Van Bergen tossers for a game next week or as soon as the latter are fit. The acceptance of the challenge can be made through The Tribune.

Home from the South.

Big Plumbing Contract.

The big plumbing contract for the new brewery of the Fell Brewing company has been awarded to Van Bergen & Co. This is the largest contract awarded a local firm in a long time. The Van Bergen company has just completed a big job, the timing and guttering of the new Delaware and Hudson freight station in Scranton. General Manager Charles O. Mellen and his assistants can feel some pride in getting the latter contract, as there were competitive bids from Scranton and Wilkes-Barre.

PARK IMPROVEMENTS.

Recommended at the Reorganization of the Board.

The improvements about Memorial park and city hall grounds were discussed at the re-organization of the poor board on Friday night. The regular work of the year was ordered done and the work already done was approved—such as the employment of Edward Udy to care for the grounds; John W. Jones, as janitor, and the Lackawanna Valley Electric Light, Heat and Power company to trim and repair the lamps, they generously furnishing the power for illumination. In regard to the fountain and its cost, the matter was referred back to council for consideration.

The secretary reported that in compliance with the resolution of the old board he had ordered six running vines to be placed along the south wall of Columbia hose house and had also placed in various parts of both parks twenty-five trees, and the Lackawanna Valley Electric Light, Heat and Power company to trim and repair the lamps, they generously furnishing the power for illumination. In regard to the fountain and its cost, the matter was referred back to council for consideration.

The following suggestion was referred to council: Ice guards should be placed on the north side of city hall twenty-five feet wide, and should not shoot over and cut down the shrubs and trees. The presidents of councils were instructed to lay the matter before their respective bodies at some future time of raising the wall on the west side of the city building grounds so that it will be level with the grounds; thus increasing them in size and doing away with the terrace, which has for its foundation poor filling so that good sod is impossible.

The secretary was ordered to place on record the sincere regrets of the commission on the death of A. W. Daley. Mr. Daley served as park commissioner for many terms, and at the time of his death was one of the number from the Grand Army of the Republic post.

The board re-organized as follows: Hon. J. J. O'Neill, president, and J. M. Alexander, treasurer, secretary and superintendent. The following members were present: Mayor O'Neill, John D. Davis, chairman of select council; W. H. Masters, chairman of common council, representing the city; Nathan English, B. Chase and J. M. Alexander, representing the Grand Army of the Republic post.

The Kennedy family is one of the pioneers of Carbondale and their removal from the city will be keenly felt, for the members have been a pleasant factor in the social life of the community and had an influence that will be missed. The change to the Electric City is due to the fact that all of the family are well located in Scranton. The members of the family are located in Scranton as follows: Thomas Kennedy is a prosperous dealer in harness and horses; Henry, jr., is an assistant foreman in the Lackawanna yard; P.
