

WEST SCRANTON

The Tribune Bulletin Gave the First News of the Result of the Hazleton Convention. How the News Was Received.

The Tribune bulletin, posted in the West Scranton branch office at Jenkins' drug store, corner of Main avenue and Jackson street, at 6.20 o'clock last evening, was the first announcement of the strike received from Hazleton, and the news spread like wildfire throughout West Scranton.

Hundreds of mine workers soon gathered about the corners to learn the news, and for several hours remained in groups along Main avenue and Jackson street, discussing the particulars. The prevailing opinion previous to that time was that a strike would not be declared, and not a few of them expressed their disappointment at the result.

The question of the engineers and pump-runners quitting work is still of much concern, in view of the fact that they sent a letter to the convention with District President Nicholls, asking that they be excused from the body of strikers. What effect this will have will probably be determined at today's session of the convention.

At the meetings of the engineers, pump-runners and mine machinists of Local union No. 803, held in Jayne's hall Monday morning and evening, they voted against a strike and so instructed their delegates to the convention.

A large amount of unprepared coal is now side-tracked between Diamond shaft and breaker, and the latter will be in operation today, for the purpose of breaking and screening this coal.

The operators of the Oxford mine, the People's Coal company, have made a proposition to their men to work three days a week to supply the local demand, promising them that no coal will be loaded for shipment. No action has as yet been taken by the men on this proposition.

The effect of the strike in this community will be far-reaching. Already some of the merchants have dispensed with the services of clerks, and other dismissals are likely to follow.

Everything in West Scranton is at a standstill at present on account of the strike, and the little miners have been reinforced by a large number of trainmen, who have been affected by the suspension of work.

SOUTH SCRANTON NOTES.

Last Mothers' Meeting of the Season Held in Y. W. C. A. Rooms Yesterday Afternoon.

The last mothers' meeting, prior to the summer vacation for the kindergarten children, took place at the Young Women's Christian association rooms yesterday afternoon.

The session was made more than usually interesting by the presence of Mrs. Underwood of the central Young Women's Christian association, who spoke at length on the value of kindergarten work. She stated that the institution was almost supported by a few interested persons and that unless something is done before the full opening of schools to provide for the little ones, it is feared the good work may have to be abandoned, as the burden, so nobly borne for years, has become too great.

It was suggested that if the new No. 8 school should materialize, that an effort should be made to have one room set apart for the kindergarten. At the close of Miss Underwood's address, a social time was inaugurated, with games of various kinds, during which refreshments of ice cream, cake and cocoa were served.

The last session of the kindergarten will take place at the Young Women's Christian association rooms, with appropriate exercises, on Friday, June 12, and on Friday an outing and picnic for the little ones will be held at Next Aug park, where they will be taken free by the Scranton Street Railway company.
