"The Passionist Fathers is an order of missionaries and preachers and have pecome eminent in their work for the church. The provincial house is at West Hoboken, N. J., and a novitiate is ocated at Pittsburg, and recently celeprated its golden jubilee, being founded in 1852. Other houses of the order are located at Denver, Col., Cincinnati, O., and Louisville, Ky.
"The Lacoe cottage has been leased

THREE CANDIDATES FOR SECRETARYSHIP

C. S. Seamans, L. T. Mattes and Howard Davis Are Nominated by Members of Board of Trade.

J. W. Guernsey registered a vigorous protest at yesterday's meeting of the board of trade against the proposed increase of the public school teachers salaries but he found no one ready to discuss the question. Toward the end of the meeting Mr.

Guernsey arose and said that he hoped what he had to say would be seriously considered by the members present. "I understand," said he, "that the board of control proposes to increase the salaries of the teachers and that this increase will amount to about ease brought by Henry Armitage. Ord $60,000 a year. manufacturers' The through its chairman, J. A. Lansing, recommended that C. S. Seamans be elected secretary of the board of trade. There were over twenty applicants for the place and the committee considered the question carefully at several meetings before arriving at a definite and final conclusion. The report of the committee was adopted with the understanding that a secretary would be elected later during the meeting.

When nominations were asked for Cornellus Comegys proposed Mr. Seaman's name while Rufus J. Foster put forclosed. This he did and the property Davis for the place. The action of the board in thus failing to unanimously accept the report of the manufacturer's committee came rather as a surprise to many members and it was finally decided to refer the whole question back to the committee for consider ation.

President A. W. Dickson made a little address in which he declared that the Williams' directory, published last year was one of the poorest directories ever got out in this city. He said he wished the board to withdraw its support unless the company puts out a better Freedman's store and he asked for one this year. A motion to this effect was put and carried. A communication from the secretary of the Wilkes-Barre board of trade was read requesting the local board torneys E. W. Thayer and Ralph Levy to use its best endeavors in securing the repeal by the next legislature of the law which county treasurers have the right to collect a fee of $1.50 for every mercantile license issued. From the tone of the communication it would appear that this matter is worrying the Wilkes-Barreans in a manner quite beyond description.

C. P. Matthews and J. B. Quackenbush were elected members of the board and the application of Alfred Rice was received.

An Interesting Exhibition of Photography at Night.

The large number of visitors who witnessed the demonstrations of the new artificial light apparatus at Schriever's, Saturday evening, saw something never before accomplished in Scranton.

When all was ready for the exposure the pressing of a bulb that opened the camera also turned on the momentary radiance of this new artificial light, the result of which was picture possessing as true a lighting as the best daylight work.

The benefit of this innovation in photography will be appreciated especially by those whose duties during the day prevent their posing for photographs. It is understood that Mr. Schriever will make sittings with artificial light every Saturday evening, and on other evenings, by appointment.
